Creightonian and KOCU announce spring staffs

New managers discuss plans for second semester . . . Larry Cobb, station manager of KOCU radio station, and Gloria Sweeney, managing editor of the Creightonian.

Gloria Sweeney, Arts 3rd year, and Larry Cobb, Arts 2nd year, will head the staffs of The Creightonian and KOCU, respectively, for the spring semester.

Completing the KOCU staff are: Dan Belden, A2, program director; Bob Kerr, A2, chief engineer; Steve Seibold, A3, chief announcer; professor of philosophy; the Rev. R. C. Williams, S. J., director of Communications Arts, and James McGaffin, lecturer in journalism.

Harry A. Dolphin, instructor in journalism, was toastmaster. Father Williams, David Haberman, instructor in journalism, and Dudley Sauve, instructor in speech, presented the awards and made the staff announcements.

The banquet was held Saturday at the Fireside Inn.

Announcement of the staff was made at the Communication Arts Club banquet.

Semester Awards Given
At that time awards were also given for the first semester. KOCU staffers receiving awards were: Larry Cobb, Best Announcer; Paul McKee, A2, Best Program; Bob Kerr, Best Engineer; Hugh Sweeney, Business Administration 2nd year, Best Sportscaster; Jim Webster, Best Newscaster; and Margaret Dressen, Best Scriptwriter.

Joanna Nelle received the KOCU Service Award.

Awards on the Creightonian went to: Yvonne Heenan, A3, Best All-Around story; Chuck Maxwell, A4, Best Sports story; Mary Alyce Robbins, Best Society story; Jim Webster, Best Editorial; Dick Champ, A2, Best Feature story and Best News story. Dick Spence and Ken Kauffold, A2, tied for the Best Cub Reporter award.

The Creightonian Service Award for the first semester went to Gloria Sweeney.

All American
The Creightonian was awarded an All American Honor Rating by the Associated Collegiate Press All-American Newspaper Critical Service for the spring semester, 1955-1956. The Very Rev. Carl M. Reinert, S. J., university president, presented the award to Jim Pruss, former managing editor. The Creightonian was one of seven newspapers that received awards in their class.

Bill Drake, business representative for the United Press in the Nebraska area, was guest speaker at the banquet. He spoke on "The Joy of Journalism."

Faculty Attend
Other members of the Creighton faculty present were: the Rev. William F. Kelley, S. J., dean of Creighton College; the Rev. Francis J. Moriarty, S. J., associate

It's 'ey,' please

The Rev. William F. Kelley, S. J., dean of the Creighton College of Arts and Sciences, was in Philadelphia recently.

Father Kelley was introduced to two women who were accompanied by their young daughters. As he moved out of range the youngsters watched him quizzically, then one of them asked: "Is he Grace Kelly's father?"

Late Registrations delay total figures

Late registrations have crowded the halls of the Administration Building this week.

Jack N. Williams, university registrar said, "We are having a fairly good return and the final enrollment figures should be well ahead of the spring semester last year." The spring enrollment was 2,482.

Monday is the final day for registration as well as class and course changes.

Total enrollment figures in all schools and colleges will be released next week.

Commerce sodality plans coffee forum

The Commerce Sodality is planning a coffee forum for Feb. 19 and has a committee working on arrangements. The forum will be open to the student body and will deal with some topic of interest to Catholics.

'Annie' tryouts begin Sunday

Tryouts for "Annie, Get Your Gun," the spring Creighton Player's production, will be held on Sunday, Feb. 10, at 7 p. m. in the auditorium and Monday, Feb. 11, at 4 p. m. in the north lounge of the Student Center.

The Sunday tryouts will be centered around the individual singing roles and chorus parts in the show.

Reading tryouts for both singing and non-singing roles will be held Monday.

"Annie," a long-run Broadway hit by Irving Berlin, was originally a starring vehicle for Ethel Merman and Mary Martin.

Betty Hutton and Howard Keel starred in the popular movie version.

There are over 30 speaking parts and six singing roles in this story of Annie Oakley's rivalry in marksmanship with sharpshooter Frank Butler.

Buffalo Bill, Pawnee Bill and Sitting Bull are listed among the show's other principal characters.

Math instructor in local hospital

Morris Dansky, assistant professor of mathematics, has been hospitalized at Methodist hospital following a slight heart disturbance, Tuesday.

At present visitors are not allowed but your notes to him will be welcome.

During his temporary absence from the classroom, Alvin K. Bettinger, the Rev. Bernard J. Hasbrouck, S. J., and William E. Crumley, instructors in the math and physics department will conduct his classes.

Dr. Simon joins medical faculty

Dr. Thomas R. Simon has been appointed associate professor of pathology in the School of Medicine, according to Dr. Frederick G. Gillick, dean of the school.

He will also be associate attending in pathology at St. Joseph's Hospital.

Dr. Simon, a native of Shelby, Ohio, received a bachelor of science degree from St. Bonaventure University, Olean, N. Y., in 1943.

He graduated from the St. Louis University School of Medicine in 1945 before doing post-graduate work in pathology at St. Louis University from 1945 to 1949.

Prior to joining the Creighton staff Dr. Simon was assistant professor of pathology for the Sloan Kettering Division of the Cornell University Medical College, a position he has held since 1955.

From 1945 to 1948 he was assistant in pathology at St. Louis University before being elevated to instructor in the subject for 1948-49.

Bookstore system changes March 1

The college bookstore will begin transition to self-service operation March 1.

According to Mr. Leonard B. Bruggenhenke, purchasing agent and present manager of the bookstore, the change will be complete by next September.

Permanent counters will be installed in the area now occupied by tables. A cashier located at the door will check purchases.

In addition to books and supplies displayed throughout the school year, greeting cards, records and drug items will be sold.

Mr. Donald Kobold, formerly auditor for Chrysler Corporation in Omaha, is full time manager of the bookstore.

The area where shelves now display books and supplies will be converted to a stockroom and manager's office.

2 alumni receive advanced degrees

Two Creighton University graduates have received advanced degrees from the University of Minnesota.

Dr. Thomas J. Gurnett of Omaha was awarded a master of science in medicine. Previously he received a bachelor of science degree in 1943 and a doctor of medicine degree in 1946 from Creighton.

Dr. Edna Eva Herbert, formerly of Panama, Iowa, received a master of science degree in ophthalmology. She was awarded a bachelor of science degree in 1948 and a doctor of medicine degree in 1952 from Creighton.

CU sponsors spiritual talks for local religious

Creighton University opened a series of Saturday afternoon spiritual conferences for religious of the Omaha-Council Bluffs area last week.

These conferences will be held in the Student Center the first Saturday of every month September through May. The Rev. Raymond Bishop, S. J., will be host.

"Vocations to the Sisterhood" was the subject at the first conference. The Rev. Thomas A. Halley, S. J., was in charge.

Subjects for remaining discussions:

"Catholic Internationalism," March 2, the Rev. E. A. Conway, S. J.; "Vocation of Teaching," April 6, the Rev. F. J. Moriarty, S. J.; "Mary and Her Religious Daughters," May 4, the Rev. P. F. Smith, S. J.

Refreshments are to be served at the end of each conference.

Xavier Forum to attend Mass honoring founder

Xavier Forum members will attend a 6:30 a. m. Mass Saturday in memory of the second anniversary of the death of the Rev. Francis Deglman, S. J., co-founder of the forum and for 24 years its moderator.

Following the Mass, which will be offered at St. Joseph's altar in St. John's Church, members will breakfast in the faculty dining room of the Student Center. Guest of honor will be the Rev. George Deglman, S. J., brother of the late Father Deglman.

The forum's monthly meeting will be held Thursday, 7:30 p. m., in the Prep library.

'Futures Unlimited' set for marine life telecast

Reginald S. Carvalho, assistant in biology, will be featured on "Futures Unlimited" over WOW-TV tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock.

Mr. Carvalho, with the assistance of Dr. John Sheehan, director of the department, will demonstrate the construction of an aquarium.

A wide variety of domestic and foreign plants and fish purchased for the study project will be shown on the program.

New equipment for the study of water plants and animals will also be demonstrated.

Anderson on NBC

Dr. Chester G. Anderson, assistant professor of English, was featured recently on the NBC Monitor radio program.

Dr. Anderson advocated more poetry reading to children, especially the reading of poetry to boys by their fathers.

Ken Hendricks of KFAB conducted the interview.

One credit music course offered to CU students

Boys Town director of music, Ira George, is conducting a one credit course in instrumental music for Creighton this semester.

The course is held at Cathedral Grade School on Saturday afternoons.

Morris Jacobs receives citizen's award

Morris E. Jacobs received a Distinguished Citizen's award Friday, Jan. 18, for his "efforts in behalf of education."

The award, presented by Nebraska Wesleyan University at its Founders Day ceremonies, specifically cites three areas in which Mr. Jacobs has served with distinction.

He was honored for his work as chairman of Creighton University's Greater Creighton Campaign; as a member of the State Board of Education, and for his position with the Nebraska Independent Colleges Foundation.

Managing editor wins scholarship

Gloria Sweeney, Arts 3rd year, was recently the recipient of a $100 scholarship awarded by the Associated Nebraska Industrial Editors, a statewide organization.

The scholarships are awarded annually to outstanding journalism students attending Creighton University and Omaha University.

Judith Samuelson of Omaha University was the other recipient.

Miss Sweeney is managing editor of the Creightonian. She has been active on the staff since attending the university, serving as society and news editor.

Mary McGrath, B. S. '56, was the first recipient of the award last year.

Arts college adds three new teachers

Three new teachers have been added to the faculty of the College of Arts and Sciences this semester, according to the Rev. William F. Kelley, S. J., dean.

Dr. Leslie O. Taylor and Sister Marie Catherine, Congregation of the Resurrection, have joined the department of Education. John F. Boler has joined the Department of Philosophy.

Dr. Taylor is retired professor of the Omaha University School of Administration. He received his MA in education at the University of Chicago and his Ph.D. at the University of Minnesota in 1932.

Sister Marie Catherine received her M. S. in education at Creighton in January. She is directress of studies and supervisor of schools for the Congregation of the Resurrection.

Mr. Boler is a 1946 graduate of Creighton Prep and received his M.S. at St. Louis University in 1951. He is working on his Ph.D. at Harvard University.

Alpha Sigma Nu plans coffee hour

"What place, if any, have extracurricular activities in university life?" will be the subject of the monthly coffee-conversation hour, sponsored by Alpha Sigma Nu.

The discussion will be held at 7:30 p. m. Tuesday, in the South Lounge of the Student Center. It is open to all university students, and President Perry Keitges, Medicine 4th year, extends a special invitation to the more interested members of Hilltop fraternities, sororities, and other campus organizations.

Representing the faculty will be the Dean of Men, the Rev. Austin E. Miller, S. J., and the Dean of Women, Mrs. Maurine Hamilton.

The CAC has found the answer to the "L.L." You can find it, too, at the "Lover's Leap". So throw away your pills and join the crowd at the Student Center at 9 to

Commissions given ROTC students

Five R. O. T. C. students were commissioned Jan. 31 in a private ceremony held in the Military Department office.

The new second lieutenants, all January graduates, are:

Donald F. O'Neill, Transportation Corps; William W. Burgin Jr., Artillery; David J. Bath, Signal Corps; Claude P. Lawler, Military Intelligence and Chester R. Harris Jr., Infantry.

Lt. Col. Robert M. Atkins, R. O. T. C. commandant, administered the oath of office.

Four of the five officers will report for active duty within a 90-day period. Lt. Burgin will enter School of Medicine and complete his course there before reporting.

Sodality to receive candidates March 12

March 12 has been set aside as the date for reception of this year's candidates into the sodality by the Omaha College Sodality Union.

The ceremony will be held in St. John's Church at 7:30 p. m. Archbishop Gerald T. Bergan will again attend and receive the candidates.

Tickets for the Military Ball may be purchased from any member of Phalanx. Cost is $3 per couple.

Cadet Sgt. 1/C Richard Lee Braun, Business Administration 2nd year, was selected as Best Cadet of the Month for December. He was chosen for his performance at drill and knowledge of military subjects and awarded the Cadet Achievement Certificate.

An accounting major, he has also been a member of the University ROTC Crack Drill Platoon for two years.

The award was presented by Cadet Maj. Don Whalen, Battalion Commander, at ceremonies to mark the event.

Father Purcell receives master of arts degree

The Rev. Robert F. Purcell, S. J., instructor in the speech department, received a master of arts degree from St. Louis University last Sunday.

Father Purcell was one of 246 receiving degrees at the mid-year ceremony. He did his graduate work in speech.

Med school grad knighted in NYC

Dr. J. P. Cogley, a School of Medicine graduate, was chosen for membership in the Sovereign Military Order of Malta in January.

Formal investiture was held last month at St. Patrick's Cathedral in New York City by Francis Cardinal Spellman.

Worldwide membership in the order, the oldest knighthood in existence, is less than a thousand.

Students question system of homecoming voting

By DICK CHAMP

Do you think the students should be allowed to make the final selection on the candidate for Homecoming Queen?

Under the present system the Alumni Council selects the queen from five finalists picked by the student body. After hearing various comments on the system, the Creightonian decided to question a cross section of the Hilltoppers as to their thinking on the subject.

Don Whelan, Arts 4th year, said, "Homecoming queen should be named by the students or a group of students; for instance the Student Board of Governors."

Jim Wheeler, Pharmacy 1st year, feels that the students should be allowed to select the queen.

Steve Sulentic, Business Administration 4th year, commented: "It's definitely a trend toward a greater student voice in university affairs."

Ernie Chambers, A2, "I certainly think the students should make the final decision."

Ralph Adams, A2, "It seems to me that students would better know the qualities and attributes of a fellow student than would the Alumni Council."

Elwaine Imsick, B4, thinks that the students definitely should have a say so in their own affairs.

Dominici Stazzoni, Dentistry 4th year, said, "I think it's a great idea. The students may show a greater partiality, though."

Donna Caldwell, A4, says, "Homecoming is for the alumni as well as for the student body and they should be allowed to participate in the selection of a queen."

John Connolly, Medicine 2nd year, "The homecoming is supposed to be an alumni function, even though the students are in the majority at the event."

Therefore I feel that the final selection should be left to the alumni."

Dick Kurtz, A3, thinks the system should be changed. "We students elect the Student Board of Governors as our representatives, and they should try to help us in the situation."

Zoltan Kramar, Graduate school, "I think the students are in a better position to make the final choice."

Joe McGinn, Law 4th year, "I would definitely be in favor of the final selection being by student vote."

After deep thought, Stanley Batters, D2, said, "Under the present setup, I'm for alumni selection as long as the students select the candidates to go before the alumni."

This gives the alumni an opportunity to join in student activities, for the alumni are a part of the school."

From their comments, it appears the Creightonians would like to choose their own queen.

Battle of the board

Magassy-Hutchison vie for chess crown

It was a quiet Sunday evening in Omaha. In a small furnished room two Creighton University students were thoughtfully contemplating a small checkered board covered with 32 black and white chessmen.

The students had come to the final game of a chess tournament that had begun almost three months ago.

Csaba Magassy, Arts 4th year, had reason for concern. The first of this double elimination match had been a draw.

Gerry Hutchison, A3, took the second game and began to taste victory when he realized that if he won the next game he would be the champ.

Marine officer to visit campus

Captain Melvin W. Snow, Marine Corps Officer Procurement Officer for Nebraska, will visit the Creighton University campus on Feb. 14 and 15 for the purpose of interviewing students who are interested in obtaining commissions in the Marine Corps upon graduation.

The Marine Corps offers the platoon leaders class for college undergrads and the officer candidate course for college seniors.

Members of the platoon leaders class attend two six-week summer training periods at the Marine Corps schools, Quantico, Virginia, between academic years, and are deferred while enrolled in the program.

Members of the officer candidate course attend ten weeks of training in Quantico, Virginia, after graduation and are commissioned as second lieutenants at the end of the ten weeks training.

Students may be commissioned as either aviators or ground officers.

Persons interested in discussing the Marine Corps officer training programs with Captain Snow are urged to contact him in the Student Center.

LL/MFT—Lovers Leap Means Fine Time

Csaba, however, gained the upper hand, took command of the situation and cleared his last hurdle by beating Gerry the third time around.

Csaba has been playing chess for ten years. He was born in Hungary and lived in Argentina before coming to the United States a year ago. Medical school in 1958 is his goal.

Gerry Hutchison, who came into the finals with a 6-1 record as opposed to Csaba's 5 win record, was Creighton Prep chess champion when he was in high school.

A match major here at the university, Gerry's hobby is, naturally, chess. It's great for the old thinker, he said.

The chess tournament, sponsored by the Chess Club, had 32 entrants. Each of the participants were allowed two losses before they were required to drop out.

The first semester's top five players and their records are:

Bart Body (31-9); Casaba Magassy (28-9); Emery Szmrecsanyi (17-10); Charles Szmrecsanyi (10-8); Louis Burnett (20-15).

CU pepsters go to Milwaukee

Thirty-seven Creighton students and faculty members returned last Friday from a two-day excursion to Milwaukee where they attended the Creighton-Marquette basketball game.

The group spent a long layover in Chicago visiting Warner's Cinerama, the Field Museum of Natural History, Shedd Aquarium, the Adler Planetarium, the Board of Trade and other points of interest.

In Milwaukee they were met by the Marquette Booster Club and escorted to the Milwaukee City Auditorium where a special section was reserved for them.

After the game a party and dance was given in their honor in the Pere Marquette Room of the Brooks Memorial Student Union.

Jim Maciejewski, president of the Creighton Pep Club, who sponsored the trip said, "The Marquette Boosters were really on the ball. They and the railroad employees treated us wonderfully."

Faculty sponsors accompanying the group were the Rev. Bernard J. Hasbrouck, S. J., faculty moderator, and Harry Dolphin, Creighton News Bureau director.

Jean Ann Spelic stars on tv show

Miss Jean Ann Spelic, graduate student and assistant in radio-television, is being featured in a new series on KMTV. Entitled "Organ Music," the half-hour program is telecast on alternate Sunday afternoons at 4 o'clock.

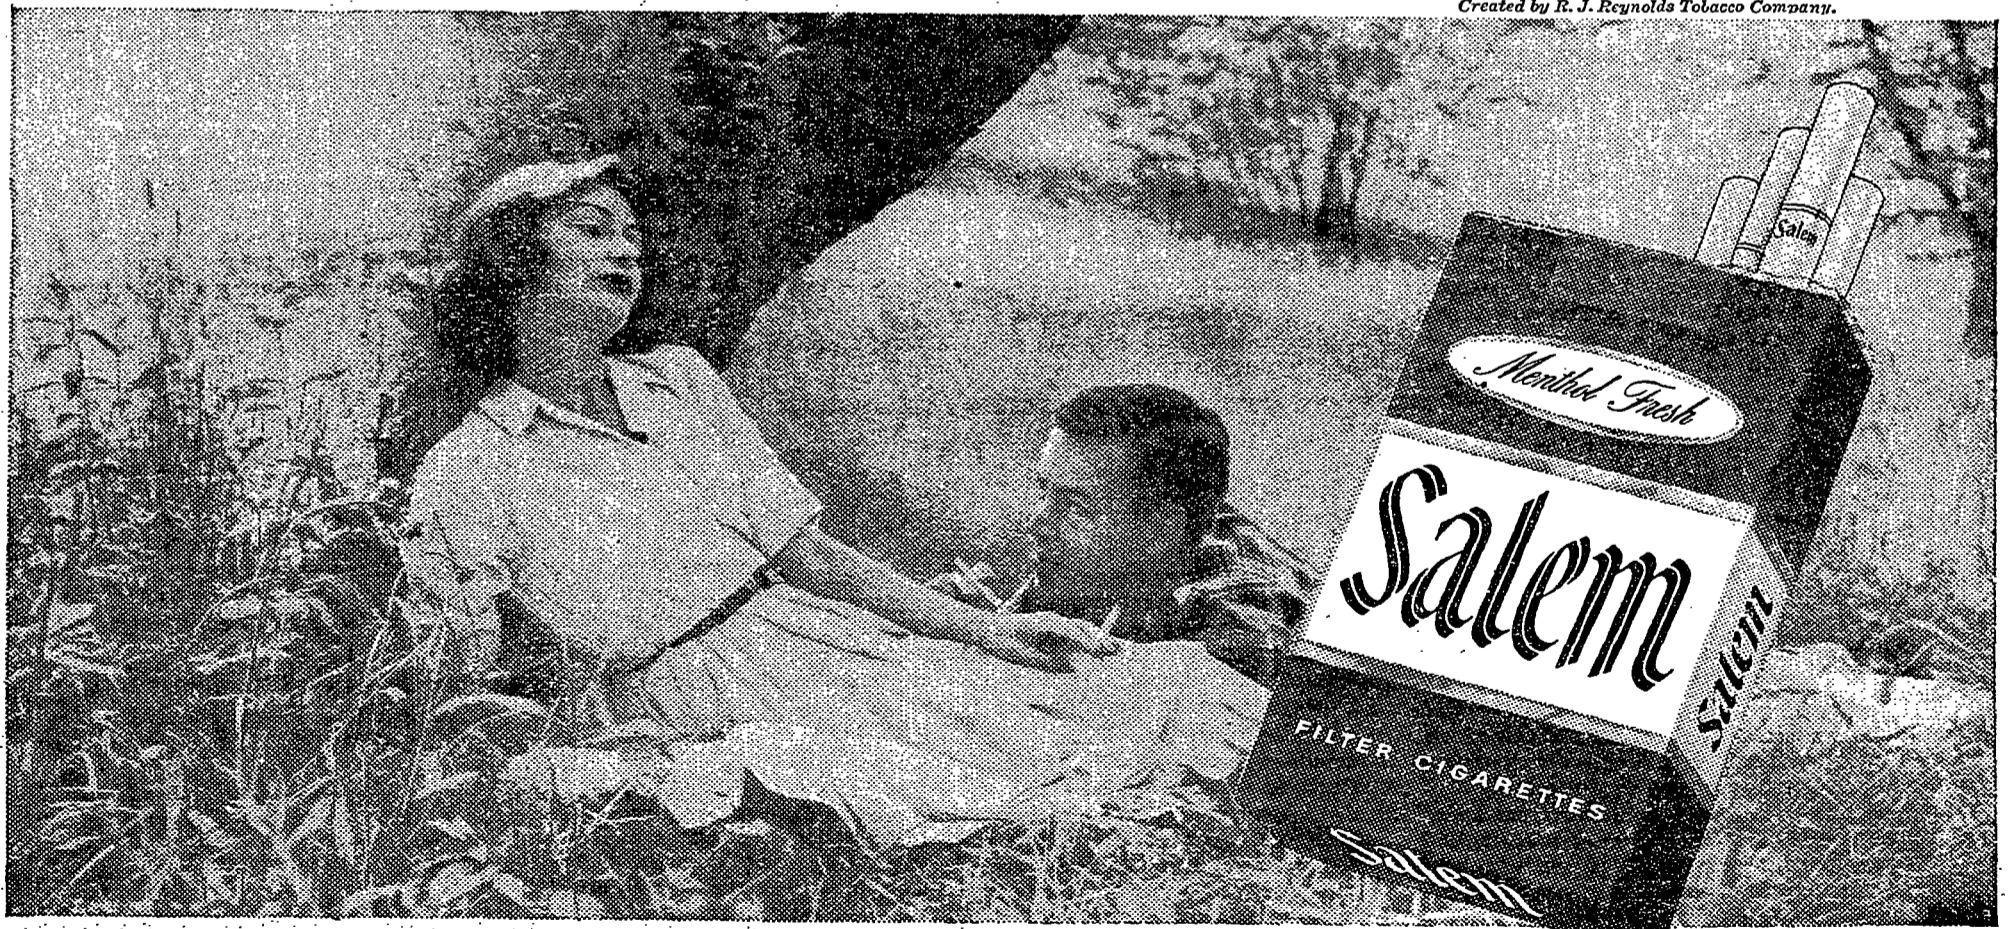

This Sunday Miss Spelic will play two solos on the electronic organ. She will also demonstrate a new and simplified method of learning to play the organ.

The series is sponsored by the Hospe Piano Company. It is directed for KMTV by Jay Spurgeon.

The first historical park established by the Federal Government was Morristown National in New Jersey.

This paper will take a stand

The editorial policy of The Creightonian underwent a lot of sharp criticism during the last semester.

It's no secret many of the editorials were plainly in support of a certain political party. A host of members of the opposition party threw up a cry of "partiality" upon the printing of the first article containing any controversy.

There's recently been other instances of such a problem on other college campuses. Dean Burton W. Marvin of the William Aleen White School of Journalism and Public Information at the University of Kansas laid down his law. There was to be no taking of sides in political questions by the Daily Kansan.

Immediately the Wichita (Kan.) Beacon took up the colors and decried Marvin's position.

The Beacon's editorial writer said it was easy to see Marvin's point of view. He's in a ticklish spot—KU is a tax-supported institution, and Marvin would take the rap for any pressure from politicians who might be offended by a politically controversially editorial.

But the newspaper also defied the dean to name one man who has brought honor to journalism by remaining neutral. "... the philosophy of neutrality is a subject that should not be taught in an institution of high learning. This is not a neutral world."

"A school of journalism should, we think, teach its students how to fight by writing. It should teach them how to choose the better cause and support it effectively. It should teach them not to be bored hacks, but to be great, smart, able editors and reporters in the noble American tradition." Those are the Beacon's words.

The UCLA Old Bruin thinks the main duty of the newspaper is to present news about UCLA to UCLA—nothing further. "All the junior Steve Wilsons and other children are gone," says the paper.

The Old Bruin will present both sides of any explosive situation which may happen on campus—in a neutral manner. And, as far as the editorial department of The Creightonian is concerned, the Old Bruin can do just that.

But The Creightonian isn't going to. We're going to do as the Wichita Beacon thinks we should—what we've long believed the duty of a newspaper.

As the Loyola News of Chicago put it: "A newspaper's job is to objectively report the news, and then to candidly comment on it."

News in the Creightonian is not slanted. Editorials may be. It is the duty of a newspaper to print all the news in fair manner. It is the right of a newspaper to print its own views—when so labeled.

Don't look on the right hand side of page one for an opinion on Father Miller's policies. It won't be there. But you can look on the editorial page. That's the place for opinion. And that's where opinion is going to be.

Maybe more emphasis is needed. This newspaper is not a partial one. The news will be presented in a fair and accurate manner, so far as student journalists are able. Comment will be made objectively.

And we're not going to reserve the editorial page—it to our opinions. The institution known as the "Letter to the Editor" has carved itself a niche in American journalism. And we're not going to try to fill that niche. We think it belongs there—that's why we welcome all contributions to the section of our newspaper known as the Editorial Letterbox.

The Creightonian will remain an impartial sheet—just as it has been during the last semester. We may never become heroes in American journalism for "daring to take sides," but we're sure going to have fun trying!

● It's a dog's life

● See you at the 'Leap'

What's wrong with a dog's life?

It all depends on what particular dog one may be. If one happens to be named Monka-Pu and be the property of the estate of one certain late Omaha dog lover, it's o-k.

But what about the poor animal who didn't happen to happen to have so much favor with aforementioned dog lover. He gets the axe . . . in fact, he's probably had it by now.

Monka-Pu, tho, is in pretty fair shape—he was willed $100 every month to keep the jewel-studded collar shined up.

A plug.

Come to the "Lovers' Leap" tonite.

The Communication Arts Club is spearheading a big dance in the center tonite—and you are wanted at it.

The club—composed of illustrious staff members of The Creightonian and the campus radio station—promises an evening of fun. This is a really, reaaally big sheewwww . . . a reaaally big, big one.

ANOTHER FELLOW I talk to between the time I left and the time I returned was Val Peterson, federal civil defense administrator. A newspaper article told of him being at a local hotel, and I paid him a visit. An old friend of the Webster family—he's a former Nebraska newspaperman—he managed to sandwich a few words with me between a CD conference and a meeting with San Digo's mayor. Such is the hectic life of a public official. No wonder the rumors about his possible retirement . . . but they're still rumors.

HERE'S AN IDEA. I'd like to do something new at the end of the school year, providing I'm still a member of the student body. Come the last issue in May, I think a feature article on the top 10 news stories that happened on Creighton's campus during the 1956-57 school year would be really apropos. Watch for it.

Labor cleaning its own house?

Labor seems to be cleaning its own house. That's the impression given by the AFL-CIO executive council's meeting in Miami last week.

The only legitimate argument wielded by the foes of organized labor was "corruption in leadership."

True, anti-labor radicals emit an endless tirade of words and phrases designed to give unions a black eye. And, it unfortunately seems, they have succeeded to a certain extent.

There are many—even right here at Creighton—who have been subjected to the influence of newspapers and politicians who would like to make the words "left-wing" and "organized labor" synonymous with "Communism."

Constant presentation of only those incidents detrimental to labor and the omission of anything the unions might have done to improve themselves has proved very successful in discrediting unions.

But if anything of substantial note appears in these many anti-labor papers with regard to the recent executive council meeting in Miami, it will probably be the analysis of some popular hero-columnist who might label the union action a "smoke-screen" to hide the corrupt actions of all labor leaders.

Here's what AFL-CIO President George Meany said to Teamster Boss Dave Beck:

"Look, Dave, you brought this on yourselves. We wouldn't have had to take this up now if you hadn't refused to testify."

Meany referred to the recent refusal of Teamster officials to cooperate with a subcommittee inquiring into labor racketeering, and the assurance the union gave to its officers the union wouldn't punish them for invoking the Fifth Amendment.

Out of all this, the union's high council adopted a new policy on government labor investigations. It declares union officers who plead the Fifth Amendment if called upon to testify have no right to hold their jobs.

The code is now binding on all AFL-CIO affiliates and locals. There's a threat of expulsion if an official violates it.

The council also decided:

—No labor official on full-time union pay may be paid for administration of union funds or have ties with outside agencies which do business with the union's welfare fund.

—There isn't room in the AFL-CIO for an officer commonly known to be a crook, racketeer, Communist or fascist. "A union need not wait upon a criminal conviction" to fire such officials.

—Conflict of interest isn't advisable. No union official should own a substantial interest in any business with which his union bargains collectively nor should he accept kickbacks.

Undoubtedly there is much undesirable practice going on in unions. But the way anti-union-eers would go about abolishing it—giving unions less power, outlawing the strike, etc.—is surely not the answer. Such tactics would only serve to destroy the very purpose of unions.

It seems labor is going to do a bang-up job of cleaning its own house.

Father Ryan Says—

'Creightonians did it'

And You Creighton Undergraduates did it!

You proved to those who thought that it could not be done under so-called adverse conditions that you could combine all the ingredients and really make a good retreat. You could keep silence; you did. You could talk with God; you did talk to Him and you listened to Him.

You could pray; and you prayed well. You could take an honest look at yourself and you have begun the painful but satisfying process of ordering your life according to God's plan. You realized at the very beginning the importance of these three days of your retreat and your good will and splendid cooperation were most exemplary.

The satisfaction of a job well done is now yours and now more than ever you know that doing something difficult for God and for the good of your own soul pays big dividends; it is worth all the effort that you have expended and can expend.

It was not an easy task; you did make heroic sacrifices. God was pleased with your efforts, and those about the University who were not in retreat were very much edified with your prayerful conduct during the retreat.

You had a lot of help. The grace of God was much in evidence during these days at Creighton, and we are all grateful to those who prayed and to those who worked for the success of your retreat. A most sincere "Thank you" is due to the many persons who cooperated in helping you to make a good retreat. Just one instance of evidence that was typical of the helpers. The sacristan in the Church changed his usual journey to ring the Angelus at noon; he trudged out in the cold to the front of St. John's so that he would not disturb the retreatants during the Examination of Conscience.

Never sell the Creighton University student short. Give him the know-how, enlist his cooperation, and his good will with the grace of God can and will accomplish the seemingly impossible.

The very few who lost more than they yet realize were singularly conspicuous, but I am sure that they too will more than make up for any loss if and when God gives them another opportunity to make a retreat.

The vast majority of the retreatants now know, because they have tasted the real joy of a victory over the world, the devil, and a signal victory over themselves; they have set a precedent for future retreatants to emulate and a challenge to others to carry on even to greater perfection the work for God in the making of a salutary retreat at Creighton.

Tests aren't so bad, are they?

Correcting examinations is always a tedious—and sometimes disheartening—task. Occasionally, however, the gloom is dispelled for the corrector by something a student writes or the way he writes it.

The gloom-chasers printed below were garnered from the recent exam ordeal at Creighton.

The comments which follow each quotation were supplied by the amused professors.

"Charles Darwin has evolved men from apes." (Never underestimate the power of a biologist.)

"I have noticed that college students are more mature than high school students. The college student tries to hold himself in reserve, even on dates. Also, in the classroom there is little noise that can be heard coming from a college student." (Let yourself go, man.)

"Dictionaries are a English students right arm." (Try using your left arm.)

"The intensified study of college has made a deep and wearing impression on me." (If an education fits, wear it.)

"Colonel Grangerford was a gentleman, you see. He was a gentleman all over." (Of course he's a gentleman; he was done on both sides.)

"Many people neglect to use a dictionary throughout many years of their life. This lack of use can easily be noticed by a person speech and manner of writing." (That's right—use your dictionary, but don't be influenced by it.)

"Coeducation is distracting. I am sure that anyone will very readily admit that is rather difficult to concentrate on some philosophy assignment if a pony-tail keeps swinging back and forth above the open book." (Dunk it in the inkwell, boy, and get back to your metaphysics.)

"I don't know what the rule of justice should have been in the Suez situation, but I can plainly see that it was not followed." (This is obviously a case of know-see.)

"Thomas Fuller is saying that a scholar must have an in-bed desire to learn." (What's that saying about "Early to bed . . .?")

"Then too there was too much vice and corruption during the early years of the novel, and some writers wrote to see that these vices were checked and the time corrected." (Synchronize your watches, men.)

Madeline Scherr new Helen of Troy

Madeline Scherr, sophomore in the College of Pharmacy, was crowned Helen of Troy at the annual Interfraternity Ball Jan. 11 at Peony Park.

The brown-eyed brunette represented Phi Delta Chi, pharmacy fraternity. Earlier this year she was a homecoming princess.

Mary Ann Beaton, Arts fourth year, who was last year's Helen of Troy, crowned her successor at intermission of the Ball attended by more than 300 couples. It was a semi-annual affair sponsored by the Interfraternity Council.

William L. Comowich, Dentistry fourth year, president of the Council, and Richard E. Drennen, D3, were in charge of the dance.

Come one, come all! Tonight's the night for the "Lover's Leap!"

The Communications Arts Club is sponsoring an informal Valentine's Day dance at the student center tonight. The Creighton Counterpoints, a 14-piece ensemble, will provide the music for the mixer.

Admission for the "Lover's Leap" dance, which will start at 9 and end at 12 p.m., is 50 cents.

CU choir adds members

The Creighton University Choir, under the direction of Bob Weber, has added six new members this semester. The new additions bring the total number of choir members to 69.

New songs are being rehearsed which will add much to the liturgy of the Mass, according to Mr. Weber.

At a meeting held Wednesday evening, the Communications Arts Club, which is composed of staff members of the Creightonian and KOCU, final arrangements were made.

Mike Byrne, Arts 2nd year, Ken Kauffold, A2, and Jim Webster, A2, are in charge of the poster committee.

Yvonne Heenan, A3, president of C.A.C., promises a good time for all.

5 nurses vie for Queen of Hearts

The ninth annual Queen of Hearts Ball of St. Joseph's Hospital School of Nursing will be held Wednesday evening at Peony Park. One of five senior candidates will be crowned Queen of Hearts by Dr. A. J. Lombardo, master of ceremonies.

Candidates for the queenship are: Sally Green, Geri Hanely, Mary Ann Hart, Marlene Tully, and Rebecca Harmsen.

Chaperones for the ball will be Dr. and Mrs. Leo Heywood and Dr. and Mrs. Earl Connolly. Eddy Haddad's orchestra will provide the music.

Crei-Vets elect Higgins

The Crei-Vets elected Michael Higgins, College of Business Administration 2nd year, to the position of secretary at a recent meeting. This election filled the position left by the resignation of Joe Hemenway, BA2.

greek notes

Phi Chi

Phi Chi, medical fraternity, will initiate its 20 fall pledges tomorrow night.

The Phi Chi ritual will take place at the Omaha Elks Club from 8:30 to 10 p.m. Following the initiation, the Chis will return to their frat house for an evening of enjoyment.

Delta Sigma Pi

Delta Sigma Pi, business fraternity, held a professional dinner at Angelo's Studio Inn Restaurant Jan. 15. Guest speaker was H. C. Landerman, plant accountant from Continental Can Co. His topic was "Forms in Accounting."

A meeting was held earlier to elect a new vice president to replace George Williams, who graduated at the semester. Tom Ferguson, Business Administration 3rd year, was elected.

Plans are also in the making for the second semester smoker. This smoker precedes consideration and selection of pledges and acquaints eligible students with the fraternity and its operations.

Gamma Pi Epsilon

Gamma Pi Epsilon, coed honorary society, held a meeting Jan. 13, followed by a supper in the faculty dining room.

Joy Berkheimer, Arts 3rd year, and Sue Carey, Business Administration 3rd year, were in charge of arranging the menu.

Theta Phi Alpha

Pledges of Theta Phi Alpha, social sorority, held their annual "walk-out" before the semester break. Actives had to find their "little sisters" in an hour's time. Omaha, the pledges were found at After a search through West the home of Joanne Molak, Arts first year.

Actives were entertained by a take-off of their own skit, "The Collies of Fi." After the skit, a chile dinner was served. Phyllis Greenblatt, A3, vice president, and Joan Swanson, A3, directed the plans for the party.

At a meeting last Saturday, plans were discussed for Theta Phi's initiation ceremony and dance to be held Feb. 24. Members of the invitations committee are Mary Knutson, Nursing first year; Lenore Saulkoal, A2, and Barb Harvey, A2.

Place card committee members are Peggy Parish, A3, and Regina Brannen, A4.

An election was held for the office of junior Pan-Hellenic Council delegate. Jeanne Waller, A3, was elected and was also chosen to assist Carol O'Sullivan, social chairman.

Alpha Phi Omega

Alpha Phi Omega, service fraternity, will initiate six pledges Saturday night. A dinner at Cagniglia's at 6 p.m. will precede the ceremonies. Honored guest will be Sidney North, national secretary of the fraternity.

Dick Laska, Pharmacy 3rd year, heads the drill team, and Ray Dawson is handling the finance.

Committee chairman will meet tomorrow at 1 p.m. at the Student Service Office.

Don't miss the 'Lover's Leap' dance tonight!

Campus band swings tonight

Those dulcet strains you'll be hearing tonight at the "Lover's Leap" will be provided by the Creighton Counterpoints, a 14-piece student dance band.

The group organized last September and has played for several dances on campus. Its repertoire includes several popular and standard arrangements.

The band is one of the activities sponsored by the Creighton College Music Club, whose purpose is to provide opportunities for musically inclined students to participate in musical activities.

The Counterpoints practice on Sunday at the Student Center.

Richard Rappolt, Arts 1st year, is director of the group. Dennis Stork, A1; Steve Christian, Pharmacy 1st year, and Mary Hood, A2, perform on the drums, bass viol and piano, respectively.

The sax section includes: John Galles, A1; Andy Bjelland; Bob Recker, A1; Dick Spence, A3, and Frank Dowd.

George Stavros, A2, and Paul Rodriguez, A1, comprise the trumpet section.

Trombonists Mike Reilly, A2, and Chuck Loos, A2, round out the brass section.

Sam Poppleton, A3, holds forth on guitar.

The Rev. Paul K. Kennedy, S. J., lecturer in music, is group moderator.

Downbeat time for the "Lover's Leap" is 9 o'clock tonight. Location is the Student Center. The fling is being sponsored by the Communication Arts Club.

Memory scores, identifies nuns after 37 years

The photographic memory of Creighton University's veteran assistant registrar, Miss Claire McDermott, was put to its most severe test recently.

Nora Condon of Humphrey, Neb., a one-time Creighton student, sent a 37-year-old photograph picturing 27 nuns.

They comprised the 1919 summer session graduating class at Creighton. Miss Condon wondered if anyone here could identify any of the nuns.

Someone could. University officials promptly turned the picture over to Miss McDermott, whose prodigious memory for names and faces of people long departed from Creighton is legend.

But even the people who knew "Miss Mack" best were astonished by her performance.

She not only quickly identified each of the 37 nuns pictured, but she identified them by their family names as well as their religious names; this, despite the many intervening years and the fact that some of the faces were somewhat obscured by the type of habit worn.

Miss Condon, who sent the photograph to the Hilltop, is linked to considerable Creighton history herself.

Her uncle was Francis J. Ottis, a member of the first five-man class to graduate from Creighton in 1891. Her father was the late Dr. William M. Condon, who served as dean of the School of Dentistry in 1907-08.

Band goes to S.D.

The Creighton University ROTC band traveled to Vermillion, S. D., Monday for the Creighton-University of South Dakota basketball game.

Accompanying the band were M. Sgt. Edwin K. Aasen, assistant instructor in military science and tactics, and the Rev. Kermit P. Kennedy, S. J., lecturer in music.

Officer careers await CU women

The Fifth Army area recruiting office has announced that college women in their third year at accredited colleges and universities may now enlist for four weeks active duty-officer training in the Women's Army Corps.

The period of training will take place between the junior and senior year in 1957.

Only ten applications from the 5th Army area will be selected. Applications must be in no later than May 1, 1957, to be considered for selection.

Training will be conducted at the WAC center, Ft. McClellan, Ala. Reporting date will be July 14, 1957. The course will be completed Aug. 10, 1957.

Applicants for this duty must meet enlistment requirements. During their training, if they do not measure up to standards as potential officers, they may be screened out and discharged by the school commandant.

If during their senior year they fail to apply for appointment as officers or having made application are not appointed, they will be discharged.

The local U. S. Army recruiting officer has detailed information without obligation about the program and life, travel, and career opportunities available to officers in the Women's Army Corps.

Demonstrate ideas says Fr. Williams in magazine piece

Catholic educators planning and producing television programs on commercial stations should attempt to demonstrate rather than discuss their ideas, according to the Rev. R. C. Williams, S. J., director of communication arts.

In an article entitled "Producing Educational TV Programs," he urged readers to cooperate when called upon to present a program or series over a commercial station.

"The purpose of education programs for out-of-school viewing is to convey knowledge in a form at once intelligible and interesting to the general viewing public," Father Williams wrote.

To assist in this, he advised that a thorough knowledge of the audience which will see the program is essential. Then the material can be aimed at this audience, he said.

The article was written from an address delivered by Father Williams at the fifth Catholic Audio-Visual Education Association convention in St. Louis last spring. It appeared in the January issue of "The Catholic Educator."

Washburn next Creighton foe

Kansans invade Hilltop court tomorrow night for 16th game

Creighton returns to the local scene tomorrow night, Feb. 9, in quest of its 12th win of the season when they tangle with the Washburn Ichabods from Topeka, Kan.

The Bluejays took it in the loss column on their last two road contests against Marquette and South Dakota. Marquette nipped the Blues 67-56 and the Dakotans dealt Creighton its fourth loss of the campaign in 15 outings when they deluged the Jays, 90-67.

Washburn boasts a balanced scoring threat with 6-0 John Darr leading the Ichabods with an average of 17 points per game. The Kansans own a 7-5 record going into tonight's game with Emporia State.

Niles Nelson, 5-9 junior, and Roger Casida, 6-4 sophomore, are both averaging more than 11 tallies per game.

The height situation between Creighton and Washburn will be close to even with the Bluejays owning 1/5 of an inch advantage.

Second half splurge

The Hilltop Bluejays had to make a great second-half comeback to earn their ninth win in 11 games. Creighton netted 40 points after intermission to topple St. Michael's 63-58.

The Michaeleens were ahead by 26-4 after the opening eight minutes of play as the Jays stood by helplessly. They built up a 32-23 halftime margin and it looked like a cinch for the Vermont visitors.

A spirited rally led by Bob Gibson, Dick Harvey and Bob Van Zeeland pulled the Jays up to a 36-36 knot. Van Zeeland gave Creighton its first lead of the game by cashing in on a free throw after six minutes of the second half had passed. From there on it was nip and tuck and the fact that the clock went dead added to the suspense.

Creighton owned a 59-58 margin with 15 seconds left and Dick McMahon was fouled. He sank both shots to ice the contest. With three seconds left there was a jump ball under Creighton's basket.

A smart call from the bench resulted in Creighton purposely allowing the Michaeleens a free shot for a field goal after the visitors controlled the jump ball. They shot and missed and the Bluejays had possession. Gibson was fouled and dumped both gratis tosses.

Dick Harvey played one of his better games as he snared 14 rebounds and batted down opponents' fielders time after time. Gibson was high with 22 points and Dan Simon bucketed 11.

John Wegrzynski bothered the Hilltoppers all night both offensively and defensively. The Polish pivot man dunked 18 points and snagged 16 rebounds.

Jays bury Tommies

After a slow start which found the score reading 8-4 in Creighton's favor at the first quarter, the Bluejays came on strong and buried St. Thomas, 66-38.

Senior Bob Gibson was the most effective Bluejay on the floor as he tallied 24 points and snatched 13 rebounds. Gibson's 13 points the first half enabled the Jays to hold a 24-12 margin at intermission.

Early in the game the score was 4-4 but that was the last time Creighton relinquished the lead. After three quarters of play the Hilltoppers were well on their way to victory number 10 in 12 contests as they boasted a 43-27 lead.

Jim Berry totaled 11 points and Dick Harvey continued his splendid rebounding by adding 11 towards his record. Dan Simon fouled out with 16:14 left in the game after grabbing seven rebounds. Gibson's voluntary exit came with six minutes to play. The Blues outrebounded St. Thomas 54-34. Pat Gorman, who saw action only during the second half, was the Tommies high scorer with 11 points.

Real exhibition

The Phillips 66 Oilers coasted to 79-53 win over Tommy Thomsen's Bluejays during the mid-semester exhibition.

The National Industrial Basketball Champions put on a good show the second half but the pesky Jays made 'em sweat the first 20 minutes with the 66ers managing a mere 30-27 halftime margin.

Creighton owned a 9-4 lead after the first three minutes of play. Bill Houghland's jump shot a few minutes later put the Oilers on top 12-11 and the 1956 Olympic Play-Offs Champs never trailed again.

Bob Gibson, who outscored all players on both teams while only playing 23 minutes, cashed in on one of his "spectaculars" only this time he was flat on his back when he got the shot off. The fielder came on one of his zany drive-ins and narrowed the Phillips' lead to 27-23. Gibson ended the night with 15 tallies.

Despite their height advantage, the Blues outrebounded the Oilers 30-29 with Dick Harvey grabbing seven off the boards. Harvey pumped in 12 points towards the Creighton cause.

Chuck Darling, the All-American, All-AAU center, was high pointmaker for the Phillips crew with 13. Jim Ranglos was their top rebounder with six.

The shooting percentages from the field told the difference with the Oilers boasting a .411 reading and CU managing a .266 mark.

Gerald Tucker, the Oilers' coach, was the mentor for the 1956 United States Olympic basketball team which won the world title. Darling, Burdy Halldorson, Jim Walsh, Houghland and Bob Jeangerard were all on the United States team.

Same old story

Creighton's trip to Des Moines was beneficial as the Jays clobbered Drake for the second time, 74-60, and picked up their eleventh win in 13 games.

Jim Berry potted 17 points and Bob Gibson tallied 15 to pace the Bluejay attack. Bob Van Zeeland added 13 for the Omaha visitors.

Gibson's fancy floor play enabled the Jays to pull ahead 37-30 at halftime. He dumped in two quickies and Van Zeeland cut the nets for another fielder that put the Blues in front to stay.

The Jays trounced Drake 67-40 on their home court earlier in the season.

Cousins conquer

Two Warriors named John Glaser and Mike Moran were the main reasons Marquette spilled Creighton in the Milwaukee Arena, 67-56.

The two of them ruled the boards, grabbing 31 rebounds between them and Moran topped all game scorers with 23 points. The smooth Warrior machine got off to a fast start and Creighton didn't get ahead until 7:33 was left in the half. Jim Berry hustled down the floor and laid up the basket that gave the Jays a 21-19 edge.

The score was 25-25 with four minutes remaining and then the roof fell in as 6-8 Moran started firing away. Big Mike flipped in two hooks and a pair of free throws and Marquette owned a halftime lead of 33-27. From then on Marquette maintained a comfortable margin the rest of the way.

Berry and Jack Green were high scorers for the Bluejays with 12 tallies each. Jack Mesmer, Dan Simon and Bob Gibson each nabbed seven rebounds.

Creighton's shooting percentage was a poor 29.4 while the Marquette quint managed a .383 reading.

The loss gave the Jays an 11-3 record for the season.

Quite a shock!

The Bluejays had a rough time up at Vermillion, So. Dak., when they ran into the Coyotes on their home court. Creighton was handed their fourth loss of the season as the Dakotans racked their visitors, 90-67.

The striped shirt boys blew the whistles 70 times. Forty-one calls were against the Omahans who outscored the Coyotes 59-45 earlier in the season. Bob Gibson, Jim Berry, Jack Geen, Dick Harvey and Bob Van Zeeland were sent to the bench because of personals.

Jim Truelson, the Coyote center who previously had scored only field goal against Creighton in three previous engagements, totaled 42 points for the evening. He cashed in on 22-30 free throws.

The halftime score read 41-32 in favor of the Sodaks and then the Bluejay parade to the sidelines was in full swing.

New conference?

There's a chance that Creighton will return to conference competition within the near future.

A fellow named Ed Nall got the ball rolling. Mr. Nall, the Athletic Business Manager at Oklahoma City University, has invited representatives from eight independent schools to attend a two-day meeting on Feb. 16 & 17 at Oklahoma City, Okla.

Schools invited include Marquette, Dayton, Louisville, De Paul, Notre Dame, Memphis State (currently ranked in the top 20), Oklahoma City University and Creighton.

The purpose of the meeting is to outline the possibilities of forming a new basketball conference with NCAA recognition. The advantages and disadvantages will be hashed over and submitted to the various schools.

Geographically, the proposed conference is something less than ideal but the opportunity of hurrying up national recognition for the present-day independents would soon be realized. Conference champions have a better chance to merit consideration for berths in the national championship basketball tournaments which follow the regular season schedules.

Creighton, at the present time, is classified in District 5 according to the NCAA setup. In order for the Bluejays to earn a bid to one of the major post-season tourneys, they would have to field an outstandingly strong team which has earned its record against strong competition. First you have to have the recognized opposition and then you have to produce with the wins.

If Creighton were to join a conference then the whole process would be speeded up taking the present situations into consideration. The Jays would better their name and fame if they dominated a basketball conference that had a respectable roundball reputation. You have to start somewhere, sometime.

Ex-Cathedral Cardinals become Creighton Cardinals in shift

Hartman scores 52 points

The Cardinals coasted to their second win in three games as they downed the Black Hawks, 46-32. Tom Schall was the high point man for the Cards with 14 markers. Elio Ferdani bucketed 15 for the losers.

The Cardinal squad pictured above are all graduates of Omaha Cathedral High School where they all played varsity basketball for the Cathedral Cardinals on Webster Street. They retained the Cardinal nickname when they reached the Creighton campus and kept the old high school basketball club together for competition in the Intramural Independent League.

The Little Caesars SLAUGHTERED the Kids 114-48 with Dick Hartmann literally blistering the nets for 52 points on 26 fielders. The halftime score read 35-19 in favor of the Caesars. Frank Gartner was high for the lowly Kids with 12 points.

The Five Aces won by forfeit when the Lawliers failed to show up.

Mike Miller was the big reason the potent Smoker Crew won their third consecutive game in the National Division of the Independent League. Miller pumped in 24 points while Sullivan got 17 for the Tigers who lost by the count of 44-30.

Reh's Wrecks spilled the Rinkydinks, 38-32. Kilpatrick totaled 18 for the Wrecks and Bill Brennan hit 10 for the losers.

Balanced scoring enabled the Honky Tonks to breeze past the Playboys, 74-56. Staab, Stephans, Hamilton and Naughton each contributed more than 10 points apiece for the winners. Lazel potted 17 for the Playboys.

The House of Joseph won their second game in three outings the easy way. The Rugheads couldn't gather five men for the contest so the Josephites walked off with a forfeit victory.

Pat Meehan and John Jesse scored 46 points between them in the Colts' 76-26 romp over the Jokers. Meehan found the range for 26 tallies and his Colt teammate Jesse pushed 20 markers through the hoops. Dick Wheeler was the best the Jokers had to offer as he threw in eight points.

The Dowling Ducks had little opposition when they took the floor against the Bulldogs. The campus Ducks sailed to a 33-18 win after trailing by three points at halftime. Joe Grantham potted 11 points for the Ducks.

CU Marksmen win 2 shoots

Creighton riflers posted two victories Jan. 17 and Feb. 4 against local and out-state competition.

The Bluejay squad took the January match with 1,869 points at Creighton against Carson, Iowa's 1,847 and the South Omaha Packers' 1,846.

High men in the match were Robert Herek, 379, and Robert Fulton, 376. Creighton's win maintained the team's undefeated record in Omaha City Rifle League competition.

South Dakota's team was Creighton's second victim at Vermillion with the Bluejays firing an 1,879 score against the Sodak's 1,839.

Herek and Fulton duplicated their Jan. 17 scores as high point men. Howard Ako boosted the mark with a 375 total.

A record high of 1,892 was fired by the Bluejays at an earlier match at the university.

Creighton now holds a 7-2 record in collegiate competition and a 12-2 overall record.

Caesars rack All-Stars by 9

The Little Caesars gave good indication of their intramural basketball superiority on the Hilltop as they racked up the Frat All-Stars, 64-55.

Dick Hartmann paced Caesar pointmakers with 20 tallies while teammates Mike Toohey and Jack Scherrman dumped in 16 and 10 points respectively.

The Caesars owned a 36-22 halftime lead. Bob Hedequist and Jack Munson were the only All-Stars who made the double-column with 12 for Hedequist and 10 for Munson.

Coulton takes lead in faculty bowling

Ed Coulton topped faculty keggers Monday evening with his high game of 197. Capt. William Obley was 191 on Coulton's heels with a 191.

Lieut. George Fukumoto rolled high series of 521.

Two pins prevented the Shoplifters from setting two new records. Had they picked up those two pins, that team would have had high game and high series tops. The scores were 718 and 1,941, respectively.

Dorothy Ortman had a 518 series and Miss Zieg had a 503.

High game shot by the Spend Thrifts was 588.

'Gibby' and no. 45 continue speed show

Once the game gets started, the Creighton jersey sporting No. 45 is a blur.

Bob Gibson has been wearing that numeral for the past three years. The 6-1 forward-guard currently leads the Bluejay scorers with 237 points in 15 games for a per game average of 15.8. Last season "Gibby" finished with a 22-point per game average.

The 21-year-old senior leads the Creighton cagers in the rebound department by gobbling up 129 in the first 15 games. He has canned 79-114 free throws for a .694 average.

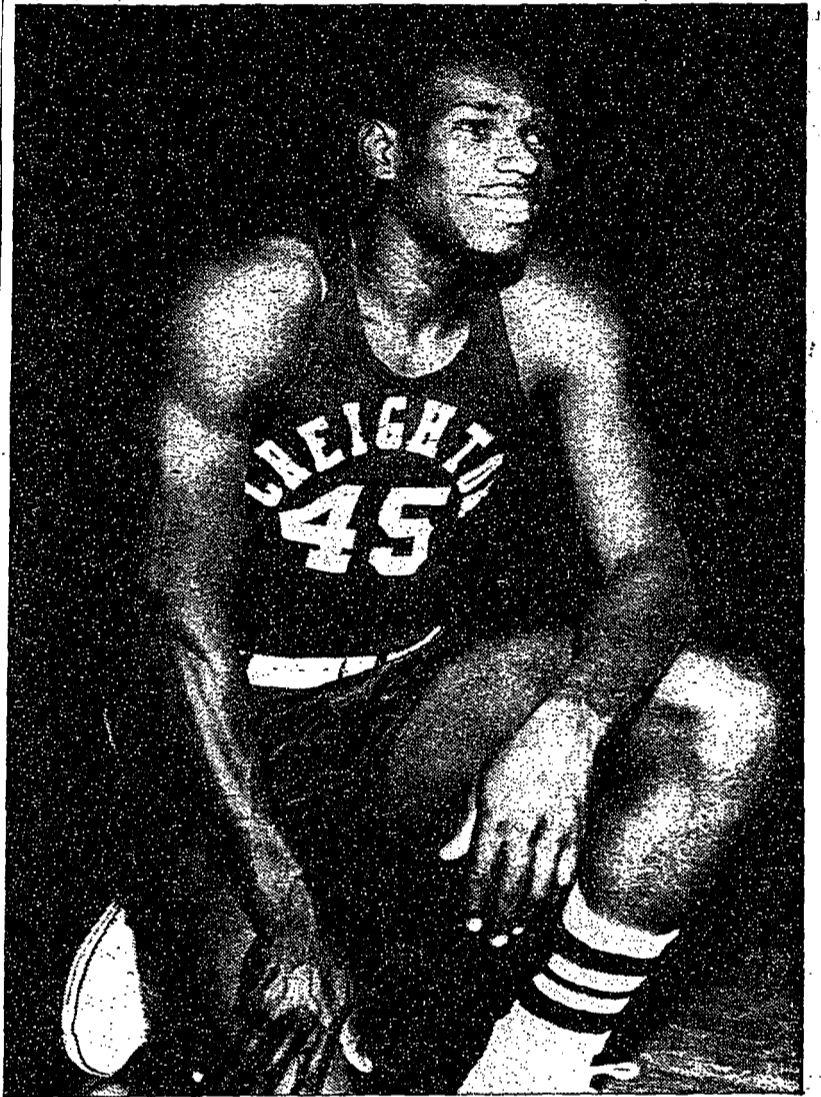

Gibson is one ball player who does EVERYTHING well. He is a crafty playmaker, reliable shot and a consistent rebounder. Last year he led the Blues in field goals, free throws, rebounds and total points. His first two seasons as a varsity member found him scoring 901 points.

Bob was named to the All-Tournament team in the 1955 NAIA Tip-Off Tournament.

He shoots every shot in the book and many that aren't in the book. A glance at one of his famous drive-ins would discourage any sportswriter from trying to describe those which go in.

"Gibby" is a real hustler all the way. He always gives the Creighton rooters something to beam and scream about.

"Gibby" . . . continues to thrill Jay fans with razzle-dazzle performances.

Berry proves worth as Bluejay scorer

By John Berry

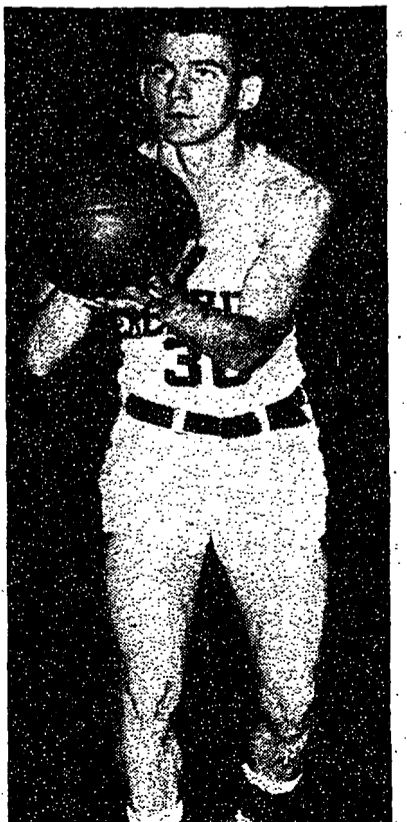

Jim Berry, Creighton's second leading scorer with a 10.73 point per game average, will be trying to up that scoring punch tomorrow night when the Jays host Washburn College from Topeka, Kansas.

The pewee "watch charm" guard from Waterloo, Iowa, took scoring honors in the Jays' 90-67 loss to the South Dakota University Coyotes Monday night at Vermillion. The 5-10, 20-year-old sophomore netted 10 points before fouling out midway in the second half.

That total brought Jim's season mark up to 161. He has 59 field goals and 43 free throws in Creighton's first 16 games. From the field he has connected on .401 per cent of his shots. At the free throw line his average is .827. He has also snared 43 rebounds.

Last year Berry was the fourth leading scorer on the team with an average of 5.78. He played in all 23 contests and hit a total of 133 points.

Berry graduated from West Waterloo High in 1955, receiving first team all-state cage honors from both the Des Moines Register and the Iowa Daily Press Association. His record 35 points against Dubuque High still stands as a Wahawk record.

Berry . . . 161 points to date.
