George Announces Subject For Annual Speech Contest

"Creighton University's Contribution to Society" will be the general subject of this year's McShane speech contest, Joseph George, speech instructor and contest director, announced this week.

The contest, a perennial forensic highlight at Creighton, aims to develop the art of oratory among students. All university students can enter. The approximate time for their speeches is five minutes.

Titles

Under the general subject, entrants will be asked to choose one of the following specific titles for their speeches:

1. "Creighton's Contribution to the Field of Medicine;"
2. "Creighton Contribution to the Field of Pharmacy;"
3. "Creighton's Contribution to the Field of Dentistry;"
4. "Creighton's Contribution to America's Judicial System;"
5. "Creighton's Contribution to Business and Industry;"
6. "Creighton's Contribution to Radio and Television;" and
7. "Creighton's Contribution to the Field of Teaching;"

Contest tryouts will be held during the early part of February, Mr. George said. Finals will be held later that month.

Orientation

The contest will be held at a freshman orientation session. Judges will be members of the university faculty.

Interested students are to register for the contest with Mr. George. They will be asked to select one of the seven specific titles.

"The entire Creighton family is invited to come and hear our student speakers in the final contest," Mr. George said.

CU of Air Program Will Feature Folk-Music Show

KOCU will feature a program of folk-music on WOW tomorrow at 5 p. m., the third in the series of "Creighton University of The Air."

16 CU Debaters To Go to Grinnell

Sixteen Creighton debaters will be among the more than 100 college students from five midwestern states who will participate in the seventh annual Grinnell College discussion being held in Grinnell, Ia. Friday and Saturday (Nov. 4-5). Sponsors of the event are the college and Delta Sigma Rho, national forensics honorary society, which has a chapter at Creighton.

Topic for the debaters is "Should all non-agricultural industries be given a guaranteed annual wage?" the national intercollegiate debate topic for the 1955-1956 season.

In the Grinnell meet, both rounds of discussion will be held on Friday. On Saturday, argumentative speeches both for and against the question will be tape-

Thieves Raid CU ROTC, Grab .45's And Other Loot

Five .45 caliber automatic pistols, a plaque and four medals were stolen from the ROTC offices in the gymnasium Friday night possibly while couples danced upstairs at the KOCU-Press club Fall Ball.

The plaque awarded the best cadet of the month was removed from a locked display case, and four medals for student awards were also taken.

The thieves apparently entered through the east door of the gymnasium by tearing the door from its frame. Then they broke into the ROTC supply room and offices. Other doors were jimmied open and locks were broken.

Omaha police, military police and the FBI have been notified of the theft, which was not discovered until Sunday morning by Matt McGrath, custodian. He called the Rev. John G. Flannigan, S.J., superintendent of buildings.

Investigators found also that a brand new paper towel dispenser and a toilet paper dispenser had been broken. According to McGrath, this is not the first time this has happened.

Brandeis Salutes CU On WOW-TV Sunday

Creighton will be featured on the Brandeis Salutes program on WOW-TV Sunday at 2:15 p. m.

A film report on the university and a dramatic skit involving the Very Rev. Carl M. Reinert, S. J., Creighton president, Thomas J. Mack, A2, and Donald L. Derezinski, A1, will make up the show.

The script was written by Robert T. Reilly, Creighton public relations director. Dudley Sauve, instructor in radio and television, will assist the WOW-TV personnel in the direction and production of the show.

recorded and broadcast over KGRW, the campus radio station. Dr. John W. Keltner, director of Kansas State's department of speech, will be the guest critic.

More Travel

The following weekend, twelve first-year debaters will represent the Hilltop at the Kansas State Novice Tournament in Manhattan, Kan., and six 2-man teams will journey to Boulder, Colo., for Colorado university's Forensic Festival.

At Boulder, the teams of Joy Berkheimer, Mary Beaton, Susan Carey; Geraldine Beaty, King Dykeman (A3); John Donahue, Helen Hannan (A4); Mary McGrath (A4), Jay Welsh; Jerry O'Kief and Jerry Kasher (A2) will compete.

The twelve who will represent the Jay Talkers at the Kansas State Novice Meet are: Marilyn Blessie, Kay Fox, Mary Dolan, John McEvoy, Pat Lenihan, Garry Stelow, George Stavros, Jack Byrne, Larry Welsh, Tom Trecker (A1), Joe Buttell, and Bob Krebsbach (A1).

Prior to each tourney, the contestants will hold practice debates.

Alums Choose Queen

The homecoming queen will be selected by the alumni council only, rather than by the Alumni council and Board of Governors as was stated in last week's Creightonian. The Board has no part in the picking of the queen.

Scout Leader To Give Talks

J. H. Browne, director of the personnel division of the Boy Scouts of America, will speak to the sociology majors at Creighton, Monday, Nov. 7.

Laurence H. Brown, director of the department of sociology, will be host to Mr. Browne when he lectures on careers in professional scouting in Mr. Brown's sociology classes.

Advancement System

The BSA has a system of advancement, starting from $3,000 to $3,800 per year. All new men begin their professional service as field scout executives, serving as members of the staff of one of the 500-plus local councils.

The work involves broad administrative duties related to the promotion and supervision of Scouting in the council territory. It does not involve the leadership of boys, but does include the recruiting, training, and direction of men who work with boys.

Candidates for the posts will be considered up to thirty-five years of age, possessing a college education, or equivalent, physically fit, have a good character, and have a good employment record.

Deferment Exams Offered on Nov. 17

Selective service college qualification tests will be given at Creighton Thursday, Nov. 7.

In order to take this test, a student must intend to request deferment as a student by satisfactorily pursuing a full-time course of study and must not have previously taken the test.

The results of the test will be used by the local draft boards to determine deferment.

Finals to Pick Coeds

Final balloting yesterday and today will determine the 12 princesses who will reign over Creighton's three day homecoming Nov. 30 to Dec. 2.

The candidates will be guests of the Board of Governors at a tea Thursday, Nov. 10, in the law lounge.

At this time members of the alumni council will meet and select this year's queen.

Cars Blessed

You can have your car blessed this noon if you take it to the stadium.

Commerce sodality has arranged with the Rev. Bernard Hasbrouck, S. J., for students to drive through the stadium south entrance, turn right and proceed around the track. Cars will be blessed, six at a time. Then they will proceed out the west entrance onto 27th street.

Drivers are asked to bring also their St. Christopher medals.

High School Editors Attend Round-Table

Creighton was host to 85 students and faculty sponsors from 25 high schools Tuesday at the university's first round-table for high school editors.

The conference, which was split into a morning and an afternoon section, climaxed with a noon luncheon and program in the university cafeteria.

Three guest speakers presented a panel on "The Goal: Careers in Journalism." Speakers, all Creighton graduates, were James Quinn, United Press bureau manager, Omaha; Wilbert Lewis, news writer for KFAB, Omaha, and Maryln Wilkinson, director of advertising for J. L. Brandeis.

The Very Rev. Carl M. Reinert, S. J., president of the university, welcomed the group.

Other guests at the luncheon included representatives of local radio and television stations, advertising men, house organ editors, and the wire services.

Reilly Introduces

Robert T. Reilly, director of public relations and master of ceremonies for the luncheon, also introduced faculty members and contributors who were responsible for the conference. He introduced the Rev. R. C. Williams, S.J., director of communication arts department; Harry A. Dolphin, instructor in journalism; Mrs. Harry A. Dolphin, journalist and freelance writer; David Haberman, instructor in journalism and faculty moderator for the Creightonian; Mrs. David Haberman, general registration chairman.

Three Sections

The round table consisted of two special sections and a general section.

A keynote speech on "The Job of the Student Newspaper" by Mr. Haberman highlighted the general session.

The first special section offered a panel discussion for student editors on "Filling Those Pages with News," and a discussion for faculty sponsors on the problem of maintaining enthusiasm.

The last special section dealt with special journalism problems in photography, feature writing and editorial writing.

These round tables were moderated by Mr. and Mrs. Dolphin, Mr. Haberman, Father Williams and Mary McGrath, A4, managing editor of the Creightonian.

Freshmen Reveal Hi-C Candidates

Mary Courtney, A1, Jane Koltenbach, A1, Jean Abraham, A1, Audrey Hervert, A1, and Mary Knudson, A1, were announced Tuesday morning at the Freshman Conclave meeting as the finalists in the contest to determine a queen to reign over the Hi-C dance, Nov. 19. The nominees were the top five named in the election Tuesday, Oct. 25, at Freshman Orientation. A final ballot will be held Tuesday, Nov. 15, to determine the queen, who will be announced at the dance.

Also revealed at the Tuesday meeting was the name of the master of ceremonies for the event, Alex DeMersseman, A1. He was selected from a group of Freshmen who tried out for the position, all of whom were judged by Edwin Puls, director of the speech department.

Xavier Forum to Meet Next Thursday Evening

Xavier Forum will hold its second meeting of the year next Thursday, 7:30 p. m. in the Prep library. Election for vice-president will be held to replace Bill Brunner.

The first meeting was opened by Bill Pettinger, M2, president. Joe McCaslin, M4, gave a talk on the purpose of the forum and its activities. New members were given mission dates. The Rev. Lawrence W. Flanagan, S. J., is the moderator.

We need to develop that kind of goodness which, even if it be only for the moment, tends to draw out the good that is in others, and to make them feel that goodness is at once stronger and more attractive than badness.—B. W. Maturin.

All-University Total Climbs To $2,548 for United Fund

Final report for the united Red Feather-Red Cross campaign show that $2,548.35 was collected on the hilltop this year. Of this figure, the faculty donated $1,867.50.

The faculty answered the call with flying colors this year, giving 55 per cent over last year's total and 24 per cent over this year's faculty quota. Students, whose total for all six schools came to only $680.85, presented a six and a half per cent increase over last year, and fell far short of the goal asked.

Probably the main reason why the students' goal was inadequately filled is that organized groups failed to contribute as they have in other years. The only organizations that gave money were the Student Board of Governors ($50), the Interfraternity council ($50), and Theta Upsilon, social sorority ($10).

The remainder was collected from individuals. Arts and commerce gleaned $322.50; law gave $30.92; dentistry, $45; pharmacy, $85.25, and medicine, $87.18.

Pharmacy gave most for the number of students in pharmacy. Next, was the law school, then dentistry and medicine.

Lowest contributions came from arts and commerce, which averaged 18.5 cents per person.

Coronary Occlusion Causes Described

On yesterday's WOW-TV show, Dr. Frederick Gillick, dean of Creighton's medical school, and Dr. Otto Wurl, instructor in medicine, who studied under President Eisenhower's heart specialist, Dr. Paul Dudley White, showed the causes of a coronary occlusion, the cause of the President's heart attack.

The show was one of a series of TV shows done by the Medical school each Thursday on WOW-TV.

Immaterial to Me?

Every school, college and university alike usually has one or two "characters" who keep things lively around the institution and who have a most unusual sense of humor.

One of these "characters" was an expert on pulled muscles and sprains, an athletic trainer at one of the Iowa colleges.

His specialty was a misuse of the English language. He often used the wrong word, and when he used the right word—he used it at the wrong time.

On one occasion instead of saying "It's immaterial to me," he issued forth with "It's intramural to me."

The mention of the word intramural leads to an obvious discussion of the subject. Creighton has the facilities and its program is more than adequate; yet the number of students participating is not great.

This situation is one which we students should remedy. We cannot help but profit from such a program.

What greater opportunity do we have to meet some of our schoolmates than at one of the intramural contests? Most of us live off campus and consequently do not know our fellow students. An intramural program helps us meet some of these strangers and thus brings the student body closer together.

Certainly there are not too many of us who overstudy; neither are there too many who over-exercise. A well rounded program of intramurals will provide the right amount of exercise, enabling us to be more effective in our studies.

Life is a constant series of struggles and contests. We are prepared for the battle of life through our experiences on the field of play.

All of us should make our motto "It's intramural to me," and sign up to play on one of the teams.

What About True Love

A true friend is one who knows all about me and loves me just the same. We judge whether or not a person is a friend not so much from his fine words of praise and promise, but rather from what he is and what he does for us. When some one true unselfishly does me a great service, he shows me even without saying a word that he loves me and is a friend. But if he does so much for me that he makes himself poor, and sheds his blood to do it, that proves that his love has no limit, and that his heart burns with a true affection for me.

Now the love and affection of Our Divine Lord is a love like unto this; He has proved it by giving us the Blessed Sacrament. For in giving us the Blessed Sacrament, Our Lord does something so great that God as He is, He has actually shed His blood for it, and can do nothing greater, as He Himself has said. He does not give us there many graces, nor even countless graces; He not merely shares with us a marvelous number of His treasures, but He gives us far, far more, He gives us all that He has. He, the fullness, the fountain and source of all heavenly good, gives us Himself. He gives Himself to us completely with divinity and humanity, with body and soul, with flesh and blood.

This is not a new truth to you. It is a familiar thought, a proven fact. Why not make it a living thought in your life? Prepare well for His coming; ask Him to come even every day to you in Holy Communion. Then, return His love. Give yourself completely to Him. Live with Him, for Him, by Him, in Him, and by your daily action prove your daily increasing love for Him. "Greater love no man has than that he gives his life for his friend."

Happiness, however you define it, depends on harmonizing with your environment. And if we find it so difficult to make our environment harmonize with our own tastes, I hope it is no very craven counsel to suggest that we should set about it the other way. I mean, that we should wish one another, not so much surroundings more congenial to our temper, as a temper more congenial to our surroundings.—Ronald Knox.

It Looks This Way . . .

The headlines of one of London's less sedate daily newspapers, Sketch, asked a question a few weeks ago that had been a cause of puzzlement and consternation to Britons for many months.

"Will Our Meg Marry the Blighter?" asked the Sketch.

The answer finally came last week: No. Britain is once again the tight little island where the struggle for political power between Tories and Laborites reigns as the perennial top conversation piece.

The Communist peace front continued with the usual tongue-in-cheek, gritted-teeth smiles. The scene was Geneva again, but the cast was different. This time the Big Four foreign ministers met, and Russia's Molotov tried to play with loaded dice.

He submitted a plan whereby an all-German council would meet to work out common problems. This sounded acceptable to the western foreign ministers, but what followed was not. The Russians still want to keep Germany divided and will accept a unified Reich only when they feel the time is right.

Comrades Propose Council

The Russian plan consisted of the establishment of a council composed of members from the east and west German parliaments. They would work on economic and cultural relations between the two governments with special emphasis on scaling down German armed forces.

Eventually there would be a reunified Germany but only when the "pre-requisites for the unification of Germany as a peaceful and democratic state" have been fulfilled. Observers at the conference say that this latest Communist offering smells of the same intrigue through which Poland and Romania were pulled behind the Iron Curtain after the end of World War II.

The western powers are holding out for east-west German elections and feel that re-unification must be accomplished before any other plan is tried to end the Cold war.

Israel Bid Rejected

In the middle east an almost hot war is still in progress despite a bid for peace by Israeli Premier David Ben Gurion. He proposed a Arab-Israel conference to settle the dispute over the Gaza strip.

A negative answer came from Arab league headquarters in Cairo, Egypt. Meanwhile the Egyptians are buying arms from Czechoslovakia, and Israel is looking hopefully to the western nations for arms deals.

President Eisenhower's health remains on the upswing, and hope is high that he will be out of Fitzsimons Army hospital in a few days. He has been receiving a number of social and official callers and is feeling better every day. He hopes to leave November 11 for his farm near Gettysburg, Pa., after a two day stop-over in Washington.

Air Explosion Causes Crash

A United Airlines DC-6B exploded in th air and crashed near Longmont, Colorado. The death total: 44.

United Airlines and Douglas Aircraft experts are investigating to find out the reason for the explosion and subsequent crash.

An Icelandic author with leftist tendencies was the winner of the 1955 Nobel prize for literature. Earlier this year he received the Russian sponsored Stalin award.

The Nobel prize for physics went to two Americans, Willis Lamb and Polykarp Kusch. Lamb, a professor at Stanford university and Kusch, a German-born professor at Columbia, won the award for their work in nuclear physics.

Howdy friends, this is Lonesome Den back again for the second year due to popular bribery. Friends, do you have problems? If you do—and most of us do—well, send your problems with one dollar to Lonesome Den. Now I won't be able to help you with your problems, but those dollars will sure help ole Lonesome Den not to be so cotton-picking lonesome.

Now I would like to tell ya' all (notice the masterful use of dialect) a little tale. I once knew an old fella named Zeke Sniffle. Now old Zeke used to whittle day and night. Never did old Zeke think that some day this whittling would bring him fame, would bring him fortune, would bring him love, would bring him happiness . . . well, he was right, 'cause it didn't.

The great, fiery black monster of progress has crawled behind the Dowling Hall building, and is raising a great deal of discussion. The black PILEDRIVER is making its existence known by the loud thump of its steel heart that echos across the campus.

A few letters of complaint have been written, some of the commerce students are having a tough time sleeping in class with all that noise going on outside. The other students just cut class and watch. A grade school child from St. Johns defines the piledriving process to one of the Jebbies as "they sure are nailing that building down, aren't they, Father?" The Jebb's reply would be maybe, "We have to, it isn't paid for yet."

Two 'Bopsters' were walking down 24th street and remarked upon seeing the hammer going up and down, "Dig that crazy pogostick."

Everyone realizes the risk involved in excavating in this area. If they should happen to find a fossil of some prehistoric man, the university will be overrun by Archeologists; then the progress will be stopped while they ponder over the ruins.

As a suggestion they could look for fossils over in the stadium. There under the turf they could find the remains of some ancient football players who were buried after a conquest. Some of these giant figures of bone and muscle could pass for a Neanderthal man.

One sleepy student, who was catching his afternoon nap in his Dowling suite of rooms, was awakened by the noise of the piledriver and remarked, "Whoever is knocking, go away, can't you read the 'DO NOT DISTURB' sign?"

MEMO: I would like to thank the unknown writer who calls himself the "Flower." I read your letter and it smells pretty good. In answer to your remark that I might be Clark Kent, or alias Superman you are wrong. That large "S" on my undershirt is from my old high school days at Sweetwater High. The color in the sweater faded and now I have a large red "S" on all undershirts and self.

Letter to Quirks:

Dear Mr. McGuire: I am Boswald P. Wiggins, A.S. C. 3, and L. 1/4, and again this year I won't be able to graduate. My draft board is getting irritated. What do you suggest?

First see your adviser, and try to stay in one college, and if that don't work don't try going over the Hill because . . . "Suddenly There's a Valley"

Youth—A Dignity

What can you contribute toward the dignity of youth?

Seven million Catholic young men and women will answer that question by actively observing National Catholic Youth Week from Oct. 30 to Nov. 6.

With your high vision you can inspire many more to see the glowing promise of youth. Your lofty ideals, based on a sound Christian philosophy, should help to take the national mind off the stories of delinquency featured in the daily press and focus this mind on the stirring promise of youth as a whole.

National Catholic Youth week should divert the public eye from the exceptional diseased tree to see the green healthy forest.

For every delinquent given unfavorable publicity, we must have a multitude of youth living an unheralded joy to their family, their college and their community.

As a university student you must set a supreme example. All youth depends upon it.

Speak Now or . . .

Americans are justly proud of their possession of freedom—particularly freedom of speech.

For this reason the United States has often been referred to as a nation of "Monday morning quarterbacks."

The day after the home team has lost a game, it is a usual occurrence for football fans to point out errors in strategy made by the quarterback or coach and to add what they would have done had they been running things.

The brutal truth is (although most fans won't admit it) that it is much easier to call signals from a bar stool after the game is over than it is on the field of play.

The American people don't confine all of their verbal "postmortems" to football. Nothing is sacred to them, and the actions of government officials are least of all above reproach.

This is as it should be. In a representative democracy elected officials are responsible to the voters, and whoever becomes an elected official is the choice of the voters. Therefore, when people criticize the men whom they put in office, they are also criticizing their own judgment.

War or post-war, the years that lie ahead are going to hit us all, but some harder than others. Please God, we shall not forget the duty of giving a helping hand; we are more likely to forget the duty of taking it. So, the finest natures among us will be in danger of spoiling their own temper; by an attitude which may be good Stoicism, but is bad Christianity.—Ronald Knox.

Notoriously, it is the gift of great poets to universalize; a phrase flashes out from their writings which seems to fit everyone's private griefs. You need not be exactly in Aeneas's shoes to console yourself with Virgil's "There will be happy memories one day;" you need not be exactly in Othello's shoes, to murmur "Oh now for every farewell, the tranquil mind."—Ronald Knox.

'Show Off' Comes Off

The talents of the Creighton University Players were not to be found lying dormant as the final performance of "The Show-Off" ended Sunday in the auditorium.

Larry LaChapelle (arts, 3rd year) will well be remembered for his portrayal of Aubrey Piper, a stuffy, self-important bore and his use of the infamous expression "sign on the dotted line." LaChapelle never failed in adding actions to his words at precisely the right moment.

He actually lived in his 1920 clothes while on stage and made good use of the "carnation in his buttonhole." The sincerity shown by LaChapelle was impressive as was his ability to change swiftly from a boisterous egotist to a tender lover.

LaChapelle never lacked support in this comedy which seldom lagged and showed many hours of hard work under fine directing.

Welsh Practical

Miss Ruth Welsh, A4, proved very able in her role as Mrs. Fisher and carried the show when Aubrey was not under the lights. Miss Welsh did exceptionally well in showing Mrs. Fisher's practicality, even in moments of distress.

Betty Sheehan, A4, seemed well versed in her matronly big-sister characterization of Clara Hyland. Mary Louise Dolan, A1 (Amy Fisher), making her debut on the Creighton stage, qualified well as the scatter-brained, affectionate sweetheart of Aubrey Piper.

Richard Bogard, A1, played his part as the inventive brother of Amy and Clara with dexterity and smoothness. Donald Gard, A1, (Frank Hyland) made his quiet role as Clara's husband realistic.

All Well-Played

The two other roles of Mr. Rodgers (Paul J. Deegan, A1) and Mr. Gill (William G. McCarthy,

Co-op Planning Gets Results

Six Creighton students, in a school-listed apartment at 415 North 30th street, have divided themselves into three separate committees to decide their training habits this year.

Lee "Cookie" Bevilacqua, A4, and Bill "Jesse" James, A3, supervise and maintain strict study habits. The boys exclaim that "Lee is the best turned cook in the business." Tom "Sweetwater" Swanson and Ronald "Wild Bruma" Bourke, both A2, arrange social affairs for relaxation. These usually amount to a weekend outing. Tom says his knowledge of social events is prodigious. Bill "Corky" Hawver and Roger "The Rajah" Cox, both also A2, keep household discourse on a high, edifying plane. Bill, president of the sophomore class says, "This helps our social and moral obligations."

The apartment has seven rooms, including a kitchen, living room, study, three bedrooms and a bath.

KOCU Has Music For Study Time

Campus radio, KOCU, does for the students of the university what other stations in Omaha fail to do.

During the evenings of exam week, Monday-Thursday, KOCU will program music designed exclusively for STUDY. From 7-10 p. m., the station will broadcast a continuous flow of background-type, with time out only for sports news at 7 p. m. and world and national news at 9:45 p. m.

This unusual campus service is presented to the students of the university by the staff of KOCU.

Dr. Urban Demonstrates

At 9:45 Monday morning on WOW-TV Creighton university will present its third in the series "Doors of Knowledge." Monday's show will feature Dr. Theodore J. Urban, assistant professor of biology, who will demonstrate some of "The Wonders of Animal Life" to four youngsters from St. John's School

A1) were well played. This critic especially enjoyed the fine Irish dialect, executed by McCarthy.

The players were supported nicely by the backstage crews. Costuming was a major factor in the success of "The Show-Off" and did, in this production, add to the finesse of the play. The lighting, although there weren't many changes, was without flaws and the sound was well coordinated.

Matt Shutz, A4, should be applauded for his masterful set design. The properties were all in place, too!

Congrats, kids for one of the most memorable shows in many autumns on the hilltop!

Paper Wins ACP 'First'

The Creightonian received a first class rating for second semester of 1954-'55 from the Associated Collegiate press.

The ACP is a national organization of college newspapers which offers a critical evaluation among its services.

The rating is based on all of the papers for the semester and includes every phase of the paper from news coverage to type faces.

Hospitals Afford Commerce Places

Students in commerce might be interested in learning that career opportunities in the business management of hospitals are vast. Hospitals are not all technical, but have a big need for hospital administrators, accountants, comptrollers, credit managers and purchasing agents.

Qualified accountants and business managers are needed to supervise the offices where charges are posted, bills prepared, insurance claims are processed and credits and collections administered.

Purchasing Agents

Purchasing agents are needed to purchase all supplies and equipment and to keep the staff informed about new products.

Hospital jobs have many applications elsewhere in business and industry. Government jobs, civil service, the armed forces and public health also offer job opportunities similar to those in the hospital.

Further information about business careers in hospitals may be obtained from John Potter of the job placement bureau.

Sen. Barrett, CU Grad, Gives Talk on Reclamation

A Creighton graduate gave one of the principal speeches during the National Reclamation association convention at Lincoln last week. He is Sen. Frank Barrett of Wyoming.

The title of his speech was "Western Water Rights."

He is the only man in Wyoming's history to have been elected to the top three governmental positions in Wyoming — governor, representative and senator.

He is a native of Omaha and received his bachelor and master degrees from Creighton.

During the first session of the 84th Congress, Sen. Barrett was one of the leaders in securing the passage of the "Small Projects" bill and other measures which were tied-up with development of western states' resources.

Carey Memorial Lecture, sponsored by the Creighton university and the Phi Chi medical fraternity will be delivered at eight p. m., on Monday evening, Nov. 7 at Our Lady of Victory auditorium, Saint Joseph's hospital, Omaha, Nebraska. The lecture will follow the regular Saint Joseph's hospital-staff dinner and business meeting.

Dr. Carey gave freely of his time to advance their prospects, even though his calendar was already well filled with the problems of the advancement of medical education and research. This year's lecturer is Doctor Edmund A. Smolik, Saint Louis, Mo., professor of surgery, department of neurosurgery, Saint Louis university, school of medicine and visiting Neurosurgeon Saint Mary's Group hospitals, Saint Louis City, County and State hospitals, DePaul, Deaconess and Lutheran hospitals and United States Marine hospital, all of Saint Louis, Mo.

He is a certified Neurosurgeon, having received his training in neurosurgery at Washington university school of medicine where he was associated with Doctor Ernest Sochs, celebrated neurosurgeon. He is a member of the American Medical Association, the Southern Medical Association and the Harvey Cushing Society and a fellow of the American College of Surgeons. He joined the Saint Louis university school of medicine faculty in 1945.

Puerto Rican Student Reads, Writes Poetry as a Hobby

An aspiring Spanish poet enrolled in Creighton university last January. He is Frederico L. Sosa from Santurce, Puerto Rico. Sosa has been reading poetry for years as a hobby. His favorite poets are Spanish and, in his estimation, "Jose de Diego, from my own country, is the finest poet I have ever read. I also like William Shakespeare and some North American poets."

Literary Bent—Obtuse, Not Abstruse, Please

Attention, you with literary bent (and-or you who like to express your views, literarily or otherwise):

You have three months, no less, to write your masterpieces for our literary issue. Perhaps this notice seems a bit in advance, but it takes time to write, or shall we say, it takes time to take time to write?

Formal Gems

Now these little "gems" can be essays, formal or personal; poems, poetry or verse; or stories (the short short). They can be book reviews, movie reviews, personal views, political views, musical views, or otherwise. They can be profuse, obtuse, but not abstruse.

No Rag

You see, we don't have a regular magazine devoted to the teeming talent of the campus. Instead, the Creightonian reserves a special issue, usually the one during semester exam week (another reason why you should do your work now) for that purpose.

We'll Copy Errors

Not to discourage you, we'll edit your copy for errors. And you'll get your credit line, of course. Okay? Then get with it, keep—we may discover Shakespeare!

In addition to Polak, Al Sloup, Bob McCabe, Joe Fontaine, Matt Uhlik and Mike Beyhan are taking part in this reunion of former Creighton students that has been scheduled by the United States Army.

Michigan's 33-21 victory over Iowa last Saturday was what the experts call "the mark of the true champion." This mark that they are talking about is the come-from-behind victory which the Wolverines earned during the second half of their Big Ten battle with Iowa's Hawkeyes. Michigan has two of the best ends in the nation in the persons of Ron Kramer and Tom Maentz.

The 1956 Rose Bowl game looms as one of the best in the history of the classic. From the way it looks now, it will be Michigan vs. UCLA in the best known "Bowl" of them all on New Year's day.

"Business Before Pleasure" The Baylor football players who were kicked off the team by Coach George Sauer are raising quite a fuss about the 'dirty deal' they got. Sauer gave the gridders the heave-ho when he learned about their night-clubbing activities during the wee hours of the morning on the day Baylor played Texas A. & M.

"Business Before Pleasure" has its place in the athletic world also. Those ex-Baylor footballers must have gotten their B's and P's turned around.

Notre Dame's Paul Hornung won the battle of the touted quarterbacks when the Irish tangled with George Welsh and his Mid-dies. Hornung ran for one touch-down, passed to Gene Kaphis for another and intercepted two of Welsh's passes intended for All-America End Ron Beagle.

"Father Knows Best" Look magazine ran a feature in this week's issue on Ronnie Knox of UCLA fame. It seems that the "Father Knows Best" situation has taken a turn for the better. At least Coach Red Sanders doesn't have to worry about the second-guessing tactics of every proud papa who has a son playing for the Uclans. Old-man Knox seemed to be capitalizing on his claim-to-fame—Ronnie Knox, Jr. Ronnie made the touchdowns and papa got the credit.

I heard a story about a college football player whose pet peeve was referees who threw their red flags at the slightest infraction of a rule. This player was determined to get even with a particular official who suffered from flag-itis. He got his chance during the last game of the season of his senior year. This referee had been throwing his flag all night long. It so happened that his flag went down during the last minute of play. After penalizing this player's team, the ref went over to pick up his flag.

The irritated player had already picked it up for him. But before returning it to the awed official, he triumphantly blew his nose on it. Need I Say More?

Huskies on Top Nebraska is enjoying a first place tie with the mighty Sooners of Oklahoma. Both teams own 3-0 records in the Big Seven standings. The Huskers meet Iowa at Ames tomorrow while Oklahoma takes on Missouri. After Iowa State comes Colorado and Oklahoma for the Nebraskans.

Nebraska should handle the Staters with a minimum of effort. Colorado poses a bigger problem. As far as the Oklahoma game is concerned, I have a bet with a guy who is giving 10-1 odds and 20 points!

Creighton university's 1938 grid squad ranked only 49th in the Nation's standings that year, according to the National football annual.

Football Prediction Ballot

Entries into the football prediction contest must follow these instructions. Mark an X in the bracket before the team that you think will win the game. Ballots must be turned in before 5 p. m., on the Friday they are printed. A ballot box will be placed on the sports desk in the newsroom.

Gene Tunney has been elected to boxing's Hall of Fame which was originated two years ago by Nat Fleischer. Mr. Fleischer is the current president of the Boxing Writers association.

Joe L. Brown has succeeded Branch Rickey as general manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates. He is the son of the movie comedian, Joe E. Brown.

Fred Haney, ex-manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates will serve as a coach for the Milwaukee Braves during the 1956 season.

Intramural Schedules Suspended One Week

The intramural schedules will be suspended for one week due to player requests in view of the quarterly exams. The announcement was made by Duce Belford, Creighton athletic director.

George Welsh, Navy's 22-year-old quarterback, completed 15 out of 20 passes for 285 yards against Penn State last Saturday. Welsh has an All-American end in the person of Ronnie Beagle on the receiving end of most of his ac-rials.

Cliff Harck Tops Faculty Bowling

Cliff Harck led faculty bowlers with 221 for high game Monday night. He continued his sharp pace and took the high series with a total of 536.

The Rev. John J. Killoren, S.J., bowled the second high game with a sizzling 196. The second high series was capped by Don Beck with a respectable 497.

High team game was rolled by the Khaki Kids who amassed 669 pins. The same team shot the high team series of 1,801.

The Legal Lobbers trounced the Biobowlers 3-0.

With Harck and Capt. Robert Aust lending strong support, the Khaki Kids raced to a series sweep over the Blackrobes. Don Beck led the Cash Customers over the Shoplifters. The fourth match resulted in a 2-3 win in favor of the Cousins over Lilla's Litter. Bob Reilly set the pace with a 474 series.

In the ladies' division Caryl O'Brien fairly monopolized the honors by bowling the first and second high game of 169 and 167. She also crashed a 419 series for high series total. Virginia Chisholm was runner-up with a 419 series.

Led by Caryl O'Brien, team No. Three took 2 games from the Spark Plugs. Team No. Three totaled 1565 for high team series and 553 for high team game.

The Alleycats won two games to defeat the league-leading Spare Tires.

The present league standings are as follows:

Three Predictors Lead in Football

Bill Kontor, Al, George Kocsis, Al, and Jack Chapuran, A3, topped all football ballot predictors by guessing 15 right out of a possible 19. No score on the Holy Cross-Syracuse game could be obtained when the ballots were tabulated. So the most points any entrant could receive was 19.

This was the first week that Chapuran entered the contest.

John Uhl, C3, and Jerry Richards, A2, are tied for the ballot leadership up to this week's game. Both contestants have 82 correct guesses to their credit.

Hugh Sweeney, A2, ranks as a close runner-up with 81 points. Bernie O'Connor, A3, is in third place with a score of 79.

Louis Ryan, A3, has 78 points and Bill Kerwin, C2, has 77 for fourth and fifth places respectively.

Basketball Practice Opens With Six Veteran Players

Coach Theron "Tommy" Thomsen announced the return of six members of last year's squad. Bob Gibson, Dan Simon, Bob O'Dell, Doug Klanderud, Glenn Sullivan and Chuck Forberg are returning veterans from the 1954-55 team.

Coach Thomsen is hoping that newcomers to the team will offer plenty of competition for the regular positions on the "First Five." He pointed out that the stiffer the competition, the better brand of ball Creighton will have to offer.

Thomsen announced that 40 candidates turned out for the initial practice session. He expects more players next Monday. The group will be divided into two squads, varsity and "B" teams. As soon as this is done, those not listed on a squad can make the necessary preparations to play intramural ball if they so desire.

Thomsen remarked about the lack of height on this year's team. He plans on spending the first week of practice stressing defense and fundamentals. Passing and dribbling exercises were high on the list.

Weinerth Sidelined Bob Weinerth, C1, was unable to show up for the first practice session. He tore ligaments in his knee while playing touch football. Weinerth is an ex-North high ace who shows plenty of promise.

John Green, who suffered a broken nose the first day of practice, isn't expected to miss any time at all. A protective covering for his nose will be secured if needed.

Thomsen squelched rumors about Creighton playing some of its games in the new city auditorium. As far as he knows, no games have been scheduled at the auditorium for this season. Creighton may play in the auditorium next year, but no definite arrangements have been made.

Green Suffers Broken Nose

Creighton commerce students usually maintain a friendly and gentlemanly attitude towards each other around most sections of the campus. But when they meet on the basketball court, the switch from white bucks to tennis shoes brings out the more masculine and competitive instincts in them.

John Green, C1, and Wayne Muenster, C1, are the parties concerned with the opening-day varsity basketball practice episode that took place last Tuesday.

Green had the distinction of suffering the first basketball casualty of the 1955-56 season when he broke his nose while running through defensive patterns. Muenster's elbow was the weapon that did the damage.

Green, who hails from Burlington, Ia., said that this was the fourth time his nose has been "busted" on a basketball court. His celebrated schnozz was disfigured three times in high school competition.

Both Green and Muenster are attending Creighton on basketball scholarships.

Larry Chaput, C1, and Dick Cummins, C1, are Green's loyal roommates who have been patting themselves on the back all week for their mutual abilities to "keep their noses in their own business." Cummins, another student on a basketball scholarship, claims Cedar Rapids, Ia., as his home town.

Green and Muenster did agree that, "after all is said and broken, it's all a part of the game."

Swimming Pool Facilities Offered

Students interested in an intramural swimming meet are requested to contact Duce Belford at the athletic office in the gymnasium.

Mr. Belford states the pool has never been in better condition. The water is heated and treated making the swimming ideal.

The pool hours are listed below:

- Monday—(1-2) (5-8)
- Tuesday—(1-2) (5-8)
- Wednesday—(1-2) (5-8)
- Thursday, girls—(10-12)
- Friday—(1-2) (5-8)
- Saturday—(1-5)
- Sunday—(1-5)

Gauron Bows Student High

Gene Gauron, A3, smashed a 202 pin total for individual high game in student bowling Sunday night.

Competition sparked the match when Bill Coats shot a 200 for second high game.

Five bowlers topped the 500 mark in series totals. Dick Ruzicka, P2, led the pack with a 530 series. Bill Coats again came in second with 522. Philo Polinski, C1, tallied 517; Gauron 513, and Bob Higginbotham, D4, hit a respectable 504 series.

The Grizzlies, aided by a 136 pin handicap, set new records for high team game and high team series with totals of 722 and 2,037.

Despite a 1,956 team series, Delta Sigma Delta dropped two games to the Grizzlies who benefited from a total handicap of 408. On a won-lost basis Hui-O-Hawaii maintained a first place tie with Delta Sigma Delta although the Hawaiians lost two games to Doc's Keglers. The latter was paced by Ruzicka's excellent bowling.

The standing with total pins as a basis for place are:

Team	W.	L.	TP
Delta Sigma Delta	7	2	5624
Crewcuts	6	3	5382
Hui-O-Hawaii	7	2	5298

'Views and Reviews' Library Display Theme

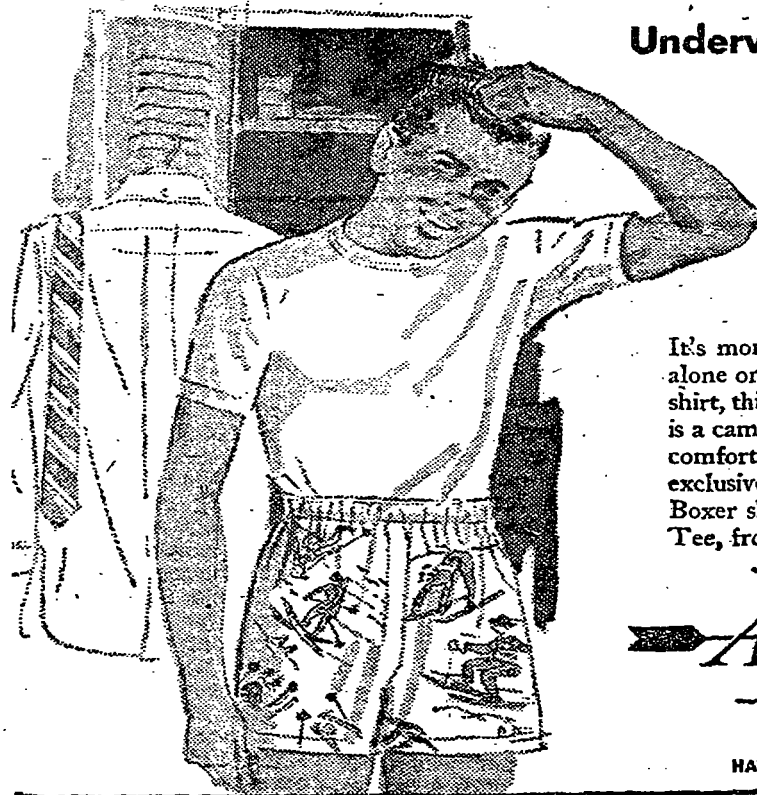

"Views and Reviews" is the theme of the library display this week, showing the many fields in the journalism profession.

Book jackets such as "How to Write for Pleasure and Profit," "Careers in Journalism," a magazine, "The Reporter," and action pictures of Hurricane Carol were set up in the two windows by Grace Schoofs, librarian.

Johnny Knolla of the 1940 Creighton eleven led the nation in ground-gaining, edging out Tommy Harmon of Michigan.

Creighton was handed a 14-0 defeat at the hands of Kansas university's grid squad in the season opener in 1933.

Howdy Grodon, Creighton half-back, starred in the Blue and White's win over Rice in 1933. The event was also Homecoming day.

Jayettes Are 1 Year Old

By Mary Bremenkamp
President, Jayettes

(This article is the first in a series of features scheduled to be presented on the society page, telling about various campus organizations and their functions. Each feature will be written by an officer of the organization.)

The Jayette organization was started in the fall of 1954. Interest among a group of girls in an effort to organize a drill squad in which girls could participate, started the ball rolling by the ROTC department to form the Girls' Drill Squad.

Last year's activities were limited to weekly practices in the gymnasium. The only public appearance made by the Jayettes was in the Homecoming parade.

O.U.'s Angel Flight

This year a special effort was made to create more interest among the Creighton coeds in this organization. Capt. Aust and Sgt. Hart have arranged meetings with the Angel Flight at Omaha university. The Angels have been very cooperative in working with the Jayettes to give them ideas.

Two weeks ago Colonel Atkins, Captain Aust, and Sergeant Hart along with Grace Schoofs and Mary Bremenkamp went to Omaha university and talked with the leaders of the Angel Flight and the military department. They received many good suggestions as to next year's plans.

Tentative plans for next year are to change the Jayette organization into an honorary society, members to be chosen by the Phalanx and the Jayettes. There is also the suggestion that the Honorary Colonel of the Military Ball be chosen from this group. These plans are not yet definite but are subject to the approval of the military department.

Activities

Activities this year include performing at the Military Ball, Homecoming, and one or two basketball games. Active participation in the weekly practices has made a definite improvement in the Jayettes, as will be seen at their public performances.

The Jayettes sponsored the first mixer of the year. This is their only source of income. With it they raise funds to pay for uniforms and other expenses. Members do not pay dues.

Jayettes also were hostesses to Lt. Dorcas Stearns, who was at Creighton Oct. 26th and 27th. Lt. Stearns, WAC recruiter, talked with many of the Creighton coeds about the Officers Training course of the Women's Army corps.

She also spoke to the Jayettes, giving them some idea of what Army life is like and how they might better their organization.

Officers

Officers this year are Mary Bremenkamp, A2, president; Donna Caldwell, A3, vice-president; Elly Peter, A2, secretary; and Erma Pettinger, A4, treasurer. Grace Schoofs is the drill sergeant.

Vets' Questions Get Answers

Q—I am buying a house with a GI loan. The builder has given me an estimate when the house will be completed. Based on this estimate, would it be wise for me to give notice to the apartment where I am now living?

A—Generally it is better to wait until you have a firm settlement date before giving notice that you are going to move. Many unpredictable factors, such as inclement weather, can serve to delay completion beyond the date estimated by the builder.

Q—I want to apply for disability compensation, but, since I do not live near a VA office, I cannot pick up an application form. Could I apply merely by writing VA a letter and describing all the facts in my case?

A—Yes. Your letter will be considered as an "informal claim." VA will send you a formal application which you must fill out and return. The date of your filing will be the date of your original letter, so long as VA receives the formal application within one year.

Q—I have a Korean GI term insurance policy. At the end of the 5-year term period, what will I have to do to renew it for another 5 years?

A—You needn't do anything—except make certain your premiums are paid on time. So long as your policy is in force at the end of the term period, it will be renewed automatically.

Q—I am going to college under the Korean GI Bill. Will I receive my GI training allowances during the summer vacation months, when I am not in school?

A—No. The GI training allowances will not be paid during the summer vacation months when you are not actually in training.

'Chocolate Judge' Visits CU

In the interest of promoting better understanding between nations through study and observation, Karl Holzschuh, district judge of the juvenile court in Darmstadt, Germany, is touring the United States through Nov. 19 as representative of his country in the International Educational Exchange Service.

Mr. Holzschuh, picked because he is so colorful in giving "unique" sentences, last weekend visited the Rev. William F. Kelley, S. J., dean of Creighton college, and spoke to the German and sociology classes. Omaha was included on his itinerary mainly because he wanted to see it too.

"Chocolate Judge"

Internationally known among his contemporaries as the "Chocolate Judge," Mr. Holzschuh has been instrumental in reducing "repeater" violations from 60-75 per cent to 5 per cent in the area over which he has jurisdiction. He believes in giving a twist to his "sentences," rather than judging from a strictly penal point of view.

Judge Holzschuh's nickname is connected with one of the "sentences" he gave to a young lady who came before him guilty of stealing small amounts of money from her employers to buy chocolate. For a certain period of time, she was required to spend half of her salary on candy bars and give them to orphans.

Nickname Sticks

The story was picked up by the German and Swiss papers. While attending a convention in Austria, a Frenchman recognized Mr. Holzschuh as the judge in the story and referred to him as the "Chocolate Judge," a nickname that has been with him since.

Laurence H. Brown, head of the sociology department, was Mr. Holzschuh's constant companion and accompanied him to Boys Town where he was interviewed by Father Walsh, director of welfare. Along with the tour of Boys Town, Mr. Holzschuh ate supper with the boys and attended one of their shows to get a complete view of their life. Mr. Brown also took Mr. Holzschuh to Omaha's juvenile court to visit Judge English, district court judge in charge of juvenile court cases, and Laurence Krell, chief probation officer.

Chicago was the next stop for Judge Holzschuh. Before leaving, he remarked that his experience in Omaha had been the richest he had had since his journey began. He said Omaha reminded him of Mannheim, a town in Germany.
