Jesuit brother dies at hospital

Brother Nicholas Mahan, S.J., died at the age of 84, on Oct. 10. Brother Mahan broke his hip on Sept. 12, 1959 and was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital where he had been until his death.

The son of Michael Mahan and Mary O'Rourke of County Meath, Ireland, Brother Mahan is survived by one sister, Alice Mahan, of 201 E. Miffin St., Madison, Wis. He was born in St. Louis on Nov. 18, 1875 and was raised in family of four brothers and four sisters. Two of his sisters became Saint Joseph nuns, Sister S. Euphrasia and Sister M. Anysia. One of his brothers, the Rev. Patrick Mahan, S.J., served as president of Creighton University from 1931-1937.

Brother Mahan entered the Society of Jesus in 1902 at St. Stanislaus Seminary at Florissant, Mo. Before coming to Creighton University in 1931, he served at Marquette in Milwaukee and St. Louis University in St. Louis.

He was buried in Holy Sepulchre cemetery on Monday.

will continue through today in the Student Center, the Administration Building and the Business Administration Building.

Votes will be sold for five cents each. The proceeds from the election along with the money obtained from classroom-solicitation and the dance will be donated to the United Community Services.

The candidates for the titles and the organizations they represent are:

Mary Ann Voeller, Business Administration 3rd year, Theta Phi Alpha; Judy Kosch, Arts 2nd year, Theta Upsilon; Maureen Upington, A4 and John Reilley, A3, Alpha Sigma Alpha.

Don Kapuska, A4, Iota Kappa Epsilon; Ron Hake, BA4, Alpha Kappa Psi; Bill Stromer, BA4, Delta Sigma Pi; Ann Bergschneider, A2, and Bill Fangman, A3, Pep Club.

Tickets to the dance have been distributed to the students of Duchesne and St. Mary Colleges and the St. Joseph and St. Catherine Schools of Nursing.

Eliminate mistakes—

Bus Ad committee strives for few errors in building

When Business students enter the Eugene Eppley College of Business Administration a few years from now, the building and facilities at their disposal will be due in part to careful planning by the Building Committee.

According to Dr. Salvatore Valentino, associate professor of finance and committee chairman, the committee's basic function is not to design a perfect building, but rather to cooperate with architects and the Campus Planning Committee to keep errors at a minimum.

The group has tried to eliminate mistakes by contacting deans of new Business colleges and encouraging them to enumerate possible changes they would make in their buildings.

Labs, classrooms

As a result of the committee's work, the 20 classrooms will range in size to accommodate 30-90 students, Dr. Valentino said.

Laboratories for secretarial science, business research and accounting statistics and accounting will be included in the new building.

Plans are also being made for seminar rooms, faculty offices and a lecture hall, Dr. Valentino said.

Plans approved

The seventh revision of the third set of plans has been approved by the committee. It will be submitted to the Very Rev. Carl M. Reinert, S.J., university president, and the Planning Committee, Dr. Valentino said.

Other members of the committee are the Rev. Virgil Roach, S.J., dean of the College of Arts and Sciences; the Rev. James F. Hanley, S.J., academic counselor for the College of Business Administration.

The Rev. Richard L. Porter, S.J., director of the department of economics; the Rev. John G. Flannigan, S.J., superintendent of buildings and grounds.

Dr. Floyd E. Walsh, dean of the College of Business Administration; and John P. Begley, director of the department of accounting.

Homecoming dance band is uncertain

Hiring a local dance band for the Homecoming dance appears to be the biggest problem to settle for the annual Homecoming festivities. The Student Board of Governors hasn't selected a definite band yet because of conflicting dates.

The major topics under discussion at Monday's Board meeting were concerned with the details of Homecoming. Suggestions for the theme of Homecoming were narrowed down to the "Gay Nineties," the "Roaring Twenties," "Mother Goose," and Broadway play titles.

Further suggestions on themes can be submitted by students to any Board member, according to Tom O'Connor, Business Administration senior and the over-all chairman of Homecoming activities. The Board will announce its decision on a theme next Friday.

"Final selection of a Homecoming theme was not made at Monday's meeting in order that students might have a greater opportunity to voice their suggestions to Board members," Jerry O'Kief, president of the Student Board of Governor said.

No specific committees have been named yet for the Dec. 4 festivities, but they are to be named in the near future.

Two princesses from each school will be picked in the primary election which is to be held in three weeks. The Homecoming Queen will be revealed on Wednesday, Dec. 2, two days before the Homecoming dance.

Discussion of 'Hero' is slated for Oct. 22

A discussion on "The Hero of the Catholic College Campus" has been scheduled for Thursday at 7 p.m., the Rev. Paul F. Smith, S.J., director of the department of English, said this week.

In charge of arranging the discussion are the Rev. Robert F. Purcell, S.J., moderator of the Jaytalkers, and the Rev. Leonard F. Waters, S.J., contest chairman.

All full-time undergraduate students in the College of Arts and Sciences are eligible to enter the contest and are invited to participate in the discussion, Father Smith said.

Directories available

Student Directories may be obtained from the university bookstore, according to Dick Sei, chairman of the Student Service Committee for the Student Board of Governors.

The directories will be available to full-time students in the Colleges of Arts and Sciences and Business Administration until Oct. 30.

Students may obtain the directories by showing their registrar's receipts.

One more coed added to cheering roster

The Rev. Bernard J. Hasbrouck, S.J., moderator of the Blue Jay pep club, states that the name of Frances Kemmer, Arts 1st year, was omitted from the list of cheerleaders for the 1959-60 school year.

This omission was unintentional.

The Very Rev. Carl M. Reinert, S.J., university president, and Glenn Cunningham, Nebraska Congressional District representative, listened attentively at the noon luncheon of the Third Greater Creighton Committee Convocation.

From 20 states—

Alumni, business men attend 3rd workshop

Approximately 325 alumni and businessmen from Nebraska and 20 other states attended the third Greater Creighton Committee Convocation Saturday.

Composed of alumni, faculty members, honorary members and selected students, the Committee was divided into workshops which discussed alumni relation, athletics and student life, enrollment policy, long-range development program, public relations and public service and teacher development.

Workshop chairmen presented conclusions and recommendations at the main session that afternoon in the Administration Building.

Addressing the delegates at a luncheon in the Student Center, the Very Rev. Carl M. Reinert, S.J., university president, reviewed the Committee's history and purpose, discussed the Greater Creighton Development program, thanked members for their participation and interest and urged their continued interest and prayers.

Gen. Thomas S. Power, Commander-in-Chief of Strategic Air Command, spoke at the convocation banquet that evening, and termed well-balanced education as the basic weapon in the struggle for survival.

Creighton Honor Citations were awarded by the Rev. Henry W. Linn, vice president in charge of university relations, for achievement in reflecting ideals of the university. Receiving citations were:

General Power; the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Jeremia C. Buckley, vicar general of the Archdiocese of Omaha; Dr. Harry A. Burke, superintendent of Omaha public schools.

I. W. Carpenter, Jr., chairman of the board of the Carpenter Paper Company; George B. Collins, Creighton Law School alumnus; Sister M. Crescentia, LSF, administrator of St. Joseph's Hospital.

Eugene C. Eppley (deceased), former president of Eppley Hotels Co.; Edgar S. Hickey, Creighton Law School alumnus and head basketball coach at Marquette; and Dr. Charles M. Wilhelmj, professor of physiology and director of research at the School of Medicine.

Greater Creighton Committee honorary members attending the convocation were Nebraska Governor Ralph E. Brooks, Omaha Mayor John Rosenblatt and Congressman Glenn Cunningham.

About 79 per cent of the 56 suggestions set forth at last year's session have been adopted.

Freshmen will compete for top political offices

The current topic of conversation among freshmen is class elections on Tuesday, Oct. 27.

The date was announced by the Rev. James F. Hanley, S.J., director of orientation for Business Administration.

Ballot boxes will be set up for the Arts freshmen in the Administration Building or in the Student Center. Business Administration freshmen will cast their ballots at orientation.

Arts slate

Freshmen in the Arts college running on the Nucleus ticket are:

Robert Farrald, president; Phil Chaney, vice president; Maggie Fraser, secretary-treasurer, and John Ricketts, sergeant at arms.

Competing against them on an unnamed slate are:

James Boland, president; Phillip Esser, vice president; Jean Fiorenza, secretary-treasurer, and Joe Nanfeto, sergeant at arms.

Bus Ad

Vying for top political positions in the College of Business Administration are:

Mike Engler, president; Frank Sopinski, vice president; Phyllis Gregg, secretary; Kaylon Roberts, treasurer, and Tom Peters and J. Larry Wagner, sergeants at arms.

The rival party consists of: John Mark Moran, president; James Kasher, vice president; Ann Naughtin, secretary; Robert Kathol, treasurer, and James Stumpf, sergeant at arms.

Civil Service begins exams

Students interested in taking the 1960 Federal Service Entrance Examination may apply now, the United States Civil Service Commission has announced.

Begun in 1955, this examination is open to college juniors, seniors and graduates, regardless of major study.

A student may choose a career from 60 different occupational fields in the Federal Civil Service.

Starting annual salaries range from $4,040 to $4,980, depending on the candidate's qualifications.

Management internships which offer starting salaries from $4,980 to $5,985, will also be filled from this examination.

Five tests have been scheduled under this year's examination. They will be given Nov. 14, Jan. 9, Feb. 13, April 9 and May 14.

Applications must be submitted for management internships by Jan. 28. Those for other positions will not be accepted after April 28, 1960.

Further information about the test and applications may be obtained from post offices or the U. S. Civil Service Commission, Washington 25, D. C.

Woodbury Club holds 99th meet

The Woodbury Study Club held its 99th meeting at the Creighton University School of Dentistry Oct. 12-13.

The group was organized in 1906 by Dr. Charles E. Woodbury, former teacher and head of the gold foil clinic at Creighton University. Dr. L. E. Myers, of Omaha, is the director of the group at the present time.

The organization meets twice a year to demonstrate and make gold fillings. During the last few years the meeting site has alternated between Lincoln and Omaha.

There are approximately 50 members in the study club. They make from 50-60 gold foil fillings for Boys Town free of charge. Dentists from all over the country are invited to join the club as non-operating guests. When there is room in the organization they become operating guests. If they meet the qualifications of the group, they are then elected to membership.

Each member must make and attend at least one filling unless he has a valid excuse. The members automatically become life members after 10 years. Life members are not obliged to attend or operate, but most continue to do so, said Dr. Myers.

Dr. Kupcek will lecture, show slides of Europe

Dr. Joseph R. Kupcek, assistant professor of modern languages, will lecture and show slides of Europe to the French Club, Wednesday, Oct. 21.

The meeting will be held in the faculty dining room of the Student Center from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m.

From being an only man surrounded by nurses to a professor in a predominantly male law school is quite a jump. But Manfred Pieck, now assistant professor of law, made the leap.

Pieck came to the United States in 1948 from Amsterdam, Holland. In order to help finance his college education, he applied for a part time job at a Harlem hospital where he worked for several months.

The work consisted of various office duties, chiefly accepting payments and handling bookwork.

Studies at the School of Commerce of New York University kept him busy during the week. Weekends and holidays at the hospital proved to be exciting sometimes.

Pieck said the experiences most memorable were the numerous times he was on the scene as emergency cases were admitted. Many of these were serious and unpleasant to recall, but the hospital staff was aware that weekends and holidays would mean more casualties.

Nurses, more nurses

Most of the working conditions were pleasant, Pieck said, but there was a noticeable minority of men on the staff. As a result Pieck found himself each noon surrounded by nurses in the dining room.

"I finally got used to all of them around, and I might add that I didn't dislike the arrangement," he chuckled.

In June, 1951, Pieck quit working at the hospital but continued his college studies, graduating in 1952. He earned his bachelor of law degree at Columbia University.

Pieck says the combination of European and American education has been beneficial to him. He had had the opportunity to become acquainted with both legal and educational system through his personal contact with them.

Law practice

Two years of law practice preceded Pieck's teaching career. He considers his work with the criminal branch of the New York Legal Aid Society the most fascinating experience.

In 1958 Pieck joined the Creighton faculty. He says teaching for him has had a two-fold advantage over law practice. He feels that teaching provides a greater opportunity for a person to develop deeper thinking because of its additional challenge.

Secondly, he believes that a person can express his own philosophy more adequately in teaching than in law practice.

Jacks publishes western juvenile

Dr. Leo V. Jacks, director of the department of classical languages, is the author of a new juvenile "western" about an Omaha family that went homesteading in the '80's.

Though fictional, the story is based on Omaha people who went west to Colorado to prove up homesteads which they later sold, to provide education and medical care for members of the family.

In Dr. Jack's story, the father and two daughters undertake the hardships of the homesteading while other members of the family remain at the farm in Omaha. A plot between cattlemen and bankers to drive off the homesteaders is added to the story of natural hazards and hardships.

From his own recollections of farm life in the west, Jacks has drawn a picture of homesteading. The building of the sod shanty, the hand-dug well, spaded garden, the wildlife and new neighbors are seen through the author's eyes.

Dr. Jacks is the author of a previous juvenile "Wires West"—a story of Edward Creighton and the building of the first transcontinental telegraph line. "Prairie Venture" is intended for ages 12-15 and was released this past week.

Gen. Power stresses education in military

Gen. Thomas S. Powers, commander in chief of Strategic Air Command, stressed the educational aspects in SAC's organization and operation in his address at the Greater Convocation banquet Saturday night.

Approximately 600 businessmen, alumni and faculty members attended the dinner that climaxed the 3rd Greater Creighton Convocation.

General Power said SAC has made progress in maintaining peace, and appealed to colleges to give the armed forces educated men to continue this progress.

Colleges can help

When an officer leaves the service for a better paying and less rigorous position in civil life, the country loses not only its monetary investment in him, but also a qualified and experienced man, the general said.

Colleges can help the military and the nation by stressing programs designed to give students a better understanding and appreciation of future duties and responsibilities, General Power added.

He said that as a result, our youth will gain a more realistic attitude toward objectives and demands on our deterrence strength, and will look forward to military service as a rewarding and worthwhile career.

Asks people's support

"We will never have a stable professional force without the wholehearted, active support of the American people, their institutions and elected representatives," said General Power.

He stated that SAC's strength lies primarily in its people, and not merely in bombers and missiles.

The country is kept safe by SAC's bombers and aerial tankers which maintain a constant 15-minute alert at bases throughout the world, General Powers said.

An appeal to colleges to emphasize officer training in peacetime concluded his talk.

Arts students elect officers

Twelve class officers were elected Wednesday in the College of Arts and Sciences. The election was a rerun after the first one had been declared invalid.

Senior officers are:

Dick Harvey, president; Frank Mestecy, vice president; Pat Amdor, secretary and Mary Eleen Donahey, treasurer.

Officers for the junior class are:

Representing the sophomore class are:

Joel Moser, president; Art Konopka, vice president; Barbara Cianciaruso, secretary and Betty Douda, treasurer.

Proceeds from mixer will finance project

The purpose of tonight's Crei-Vets mixer is to finance a new grotto and statue of the Blessed Virgin, treasurer Jerry Boulay, Business Administration senior, announced this week.

The organization is in charge of replacing the statue and grotto behind the Administration Building which were defaced in September.

Two $25 war bonds will be awarded as door prizes and two hours of a Crei-Vet's services will be sold to the highest coed bidder.

Free-will offerings were collected yesterday and will be collected today from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. in the Student Center.

NEXT WEEK The Creightonian will report on the progress made by the United Community Service Fund Drive at Creighton. The Creightonian will also announce the names of "Miss Cutie" and "Mr. Ugly."

Fine Arts Club sells 'South Pacific' tickets

The Fine Arts Club is selling tickets to "South Pacific" at reduced student prices, the Rev. Paul F. Smith, S.J., moderator, announced this week.

Fifty tickets for Oct. 19-22 and Oct. 26-29 performances are on sale at the university bookstore for $1.50 each, a 70 cent reduction in price, Father Smith said.

This year marks the second time the club has sponsored ticket sales to the movie production. Last spring, members sold 800 tickets to four performances.

Students who have seen "South Pacific" and wish to see it again may also purchase tickets at the special price. No identification is necessary.

Yearbook needs staffers

Yearbook Editor Mary Ann Voeller, Business Administration senior, announced that students interested in working on the Blue Jay photography staff should report to the front office of the Business Administration annex Thursday, 7:30 p.m.

NEXT WEEK The Creightonian will announce the 1959 Homecoming theme. The Creightonian will also report on the progress the Board has made in selecting a parade marshal, decoration committee chairman, and dance band.

NEXT WEEK The Creightonian will announce the candidates for Helen of Troy.

WOW features shows to interest Catholics

WOW-TV is carrying several programs this month which will be of special interest to Catholic viewers.

The new "Bishop Fulton Sheen Program" has begun its 13-week series and can be seen each Tuesday night at 7 p.m.

On Oct. 27, a 90-minute "Special Tonight" show will feature "The Bells of St. Mary's" at 7:30 p.m.

The CBS special will co-star Claudette Colbert in the role of Sister Benedict, Marc Connelly as Dr. McKay and Robert Preston as Father O'Malley.

"The Bells of St. Mary's" is the first of three special programs produced by CBS this season.

Omar Khayyám writes a new jingle

Old Omar has come up with another corker of a couplet. Freely translated from the Persian:

It's what's up front that counts
If it hasn't got it there it hasn't got it

True, the lines don't scan. But what do you expect from a tent-maker—the perfect rhyme of "Winston tastes good like a cigarette should"? We'll admit that something may have been lost in the translation. But when it comes to Winston, nothing is lost in the translation of rich, good tobacco taste. That's because up front of a pure white filter Winston has Filter-Blend—a special selection of mild flavorful tobaccos specially processed for filter smoking. Winston is designed to taste good. Or, as Omar puts it: The Moving Lighter lights; and having lit, Flicks off. Then you draw on IT, And bit by bit smoking pleasure mounts; With Filter-Blend up front, Winston's got what counts!

United Nation followers qualify with pros, cons

By KATHY O'DONNELL
Staff Reporter

Anticipating United Nations Week, Oct. 18-24, Creightonians pondered the problems of the international community as they answered this query: "Do you feel the United Nations has accomplished anything? In your opinion, what is the most important thing it has accomplished?"

Replies ranged from enthusiastic affirmatives to forceful negatives:

Tom Hill, Arts 4th year—"Yes. Even though it has been restricted by certain bylaws, particularly the veto, the United Nations is a stepping stone to progress."

Larry Corrigan, A3—"It has offered a meeting place where small differences can be ironed out, but it will probably never accomplish any more than that because of the veto law."

Teresa Salvador, A4—"Yes, the United Nations has accomplished a great deal it has established friendly relations, and secured an idea of strength in the feeling of unity with one another."

George Wanek, A4—"Yes. It has kept a potential hot war at the cold war level."

Leo O'Brien, A2—"No. The United Nations has not accomplished a thing as far as the United States is concerned because of the deficit in our budget due to foreign spending. Foreign commitments are detrimental to the American economy."

Bob Conklin, A3—"The United Nations has created a power-block against which a nation would hesitate to act aggressively."

Jim DuBe, Pharmacy 2nd year—"Yes. If the United Nations hadn't existed, the Communists would have taken over in Korea. In addition, the United Nations has done important work in underdeveloped and poor countries in the health field."

Letter from the President—

Father Reinert grateful for Founders Week success

To All Members of the Faculty and Student Body:

I have asked the editors of The Creightonian to carry this message of gratitude to each and every faculty member and student who played a part in making our Founders Week an outstanding success. The students who participated in the Leadership Conference will, I am sure, agree that this event was much better than the first Conference a year ago, and all of the business friends and alumni who were with us on Saturday were in agreement that real progress was made in our Third Greater Creighton Convocation.

In saying thanks it would be dangerous for me to name individuals because so many actually participated and were helpful. Therefore, let me just reiterate that we are extremely grateful to everyone who took part. The good effects of Founders Week 1959 will, I am certain, be felt throughout the current academic year. God bless you.

Carl M. Reinert, S.J.,
President

Directories product of hard work

On Oct. 12, the Student-Faculty Directories appeared on the Creighton campus.

Although the project was under the direction of the Student Service Committee of the Student Board of Governors, a great volume of work was undertaken by the students who volunteered their time as typists.

As Chairman of the Student Service Committee, I would like to extend my heartiest thanks to all the students who gave of their time, and especially to Theta Upsilon sorority for its spirited and enthusiastic cooperation.

It is due to the generosity of the following students that it was possible for us to meet the Oct. 12th deadline:

Election publicity under fire

The intent of the writer in this letter is not one of censure, but rather, one of constructive criticism. The elections of class officers during the past two weeks brought an obscure factor to light. There seems to be a prevalent lack of organization among the Student Board members. In announcing the elections and the rules which would prevail, the Student Board members in charge seemed to have been careless and poorly co-ordinated. The article was filled with so many evident contradictions and discrepancies that I feel a correction should have been issued in the next edition of The Creightonian, following an examination of the article by a Student Board member. This, however, was not done and the student body was never notified of any clarification. I only attempt here to show that the student body is interested in the actions taken by the Board and that some individuals will not let this carelessness and lack of co-ordination pass by without notice.

Sincerely,
Sarah Toelle, BA2

The concentration of power in the hands of a few has generally been regarded with suspicion in a democracy.

Until just recently most students at Creighton assumed that student government was based on democratic principles. But the class officer election in the College of Arts and Sciences has caused some observers to wonder just a little.

The Student Board of Governors is the major student governing body on campus. Candidates for the Board must fulfill many conditions. They must be sophomores in good standing in their schools; they must pledge not to do anything which will prevent them from serving their full two-year term of office.

They cannot be, or have been in the year prior to their candidacy, a member of the Inter-Fraternity Council or the Pan-Hellenic Council.

Once on the Board a member may not accept a position on either the Inter-Fraternity or Pan-Hellenic Councils.

Neither may a Board member be an officer in more than one other campus organization.

However, nowhere in the Articles of Incorporation of the Creighton Students Union is a Board member forbidden to hold a class office.

In the Arts election on Oct. 5 several write-in ballots nominated a Board member for the presidency of his class.

A great danger exists if Board members are allowed to hold class office. As the Creighton student government system is set up, the class officers and the Student Board are independent of each other. This separation of power provides something of a check and balance system in student government.

If Board members were to hold class office the whole system would be negated.

Two things can be done to prevent this from happening:

1. Do not elect Board members to class Office.
2. Change the by-laws of the Articles of Incorporation.

Of the two, the second would be the most effective, for it would not rely on the eccentricities of the voter.

It is a relatively simple matter to change the by-laws to specify that a Board member may not hold class office; such a step would protect the basis of Creighton's student government system.

Elections and traditions

Last week's class officer election in the College of Arts and Sciences proved one thing—tradition will not always be followed if it is not enforced.

Traditionally the elections in the Arts College have been a secret ballot. However, last week the voters were required to sign their name, school and year to the ballot.

Traditionally the two junior Arts representatives to the Student Board of Governors supervise the elections.

No one was sure who was in charge of the fiasco last week. The Rules committee of the Student Board of Governors had delegated responsibility for controlling the election to the four Arts representatives rather than to one particular member.

Students in the Arts College value the right of a secret ballot and wish to pinpoint the responsibility for the election procedure, as the protest of balloting shows.

To prevent the same thing from happening again, it might be wise for the Arts council, composed of the officers of all the classes in the College of Arts and Sciences, to draw up an election procedure specifying a secret ballot and placing the responsibility for controlling the election.

If the students in the Arts College rely on tradition to protect their rights they may find that they have lost them all.

Obedience and Heaven

By Rev. J. Clement Ryan, S.J.,
University Spiritual Director

Many a person has sought to possess the source of power and to uncover the secrets that dictate Jesuit influence. All educated men have recognized the fact that a wealth of power does lie hidden in the resources of the Jesuit Order.

The key that will unlock this fabulous treasure may be yours for the asking. You may even possess the treasure. The Jesuit by his very nature must bring to light and seek to share his most precious possessions with others.

He must hoard nothing for himself. To you who have come to know the Jesuits and have lived a life with them in their schools, you already know the secret strength of their power, because it has been made clearly manifest to you. You have felt at times the full impact of their influence.

The ready obedience that binds Jesuits to know and follow implicitly the directions of well ordered and lawful authority brings a concentration of effort into their work. Their dedicated purpose to put on Christ in their own life and to lead all men to His feet gives them a directive purpose and a firm constancy to live an unselfish life among men.

Your life too can be powerful and lead you to hold a position of great power and influence among men, but like all things worthwhile you will have to pay to acquire it and you must keep on paying with your life to guard the possession of your treasure.

The sooner that you come to know and the more deeply you realize that the true merit in life lies hidden in a simple obedience to God and to those who exercise a just and reasonable authority over you the sooner will you enjoy the satisfaction of holding the power of Heaven in the hollow of your hand.

As you take on, develop and bring to perfection in your own life the thinking, the speaking and the working in the way of Christ, you must grow in stature as true sons of God and heirs to the munificent Kingdom of Heaven.

Alpha Sigma Alpha

Alpha Sigma Alpha held its acceptance party in the faculty dining room. The following girls attended, showing their acceptance of an Alpha Sig bid.

Omaha girls are: Marlene Bluyas, Mary Lou Garvey, Charlotte Krepel, Jeanne Kurtz, Lylia Kyedaras, Judy Miller, Judy Kay Raymer, Jarmilla Rudol, Pat Urzenzdowski and Agnes Zager.

Out of town girls are: Sharon Arps from Whirling, Wyo.; Catherine Elm from Greenfield, Ia.; Frances Kemmer from Pocahontas, Ia.; Mary Larson from Sioux Falls, S. Dak.; Judy Livengood from Sioux City, Ia.; Karen Matthews from Isabel, S. Dak.; Mary Lou Morrison from Climax, Colo.; Elaine Nemecek from LaGrange, Ill.; and Eileen Redetzke from Hoisington, Kan.

Theta Phi Alpha

Theta Phi Alpha actives greeted their new pledges in the north parlor of the Student Center. Following is a list of those accepting Theta Phi bids.

Omaha girls: Ann Branman, Jean Conlan, Sheila McDonnell, Barbara McGowan, Pat O'Brien, Mary Pat Smola and Virginia Tourek.

Those from out of town are: Marla Kay Artzer from Denver, Colo.; Maureen Cudmore from Denver, Colo.; Cari Gerken from Sioux Falls, S. Dak.; Kathy Irving from Prairie Village, Kan.; Maurita Redle from Sheridan, Wyo.; Tish Ruda from Atwood, Kan.; Marlene Scheuring from Worthington, Minn., and Cynthia Foster from Council Bluffs, Ia.

Theta Upsilon

Theta Upsilon greeted eighteen new pledges last Friday in the faculty lounge. New girls are as follows.

Omaha pledges: Roberta Eckerman, Bernice Kucirek, Joyce Palladino, Judy Pankowski, Jeanne Provaznik, Regina Shields, and Shirley Sorys.

Young Demos elect president

Don Sylvester, Law 3rd year, is the newly elected president of the Young Democrats.

Members of his cabinet are John Ladenberger, Arts 3rd year; Patricia Grosser, A3; and Marianne Smedes, A4.

Elections were held at a business meeting on Oct. 7.

The next regular meeting will be held on Oct. 20 in the south parlor of the Student Union at 7:30 p.m.

Guest speaker at the meeting will be Richard J. Coffey, secretary of the Douglas County Democratic Central Committee. Coffey is an account executive for the True Voice.

The topic for the talk will be "Basic Differences Between Demos and Republicans and Why You Should Be a Demo."

Those interested in joining the club are invited to attend this meeting, announced Sylvester.

Coffee and donuts will be served following the talk.

Future Teachers to visit Creighton

The Student Education Association of Creighton University will act as host to the Future Teacher Association from Missouri Valley High School.

Approximately 35 students will travel to Creighton on Wednesday, Oct. 21.

Creighton members of the SEA will guide the students around the campus.

Following the tour, they will observe a class session in the department of education.

A meeting will be held at 4 p.m. in the Student Center for members of both the Future Teachers and Student Education Association. All members of the SEA are urged to attend this meeting, said Dr. E. B. O'Connor, faculty moderator.

At this time discussion groups will be set up for those interested in elementary and secondary education.

Maxine Karpan, former president of SEA, is presently teaching at Missouri Valley.

Alpha Kappa Psi

Alpha Kappa Psi, professional business fraternity, elected Ron Hake, Business Administration 4th year, as their candidate for the "Mr. Ugly" contest.

At a meeting held Oct. 7, committees were set up for Homecoming and Bus. Ad. Booster Days.

Jack Atkins, BA4, is the fraternity's executive representative for Bus. Ad. Booster Days. He informed members of the program to be followed.

Don Schaefer, BA4, is in charge of pledge meetings which have been underway for two weeks.

Examinations for initiation are being given to the pledges in order to develop their understanding of the local chapter and the national organization, Schaefer said.

Initiation is set for Sunday, Oct. 25.

Delta Sigma Delta

Delta Sigma Delta, national dental fraternity, held a "Welcome Freshmen" dinner at the Hibernian Club, Sept. 15.

A spaghetti dinner was prepared and served by the Delt wives.

A table clinic was presented to demonstrate the laboratory work for freshman year.

The annual Delt Fall dance was held on Saturday night, Oct. 10, in the Crystal Room of the Rome Hotel. Music was furnished by a local trio.

Phi Chi

Chi Upsilon chapter of Phi Chi, national medical fraternity, will hold a seminar at the chapter house on Wednesday, Oct. 21.

The house is located at 111 South 34th St.

Dr. R. Dale Smith, Ph.D., head of the department of anatomy at the School of Medicine, will give the seminar. The topic is "The History of Anatomy."

The seminar will begin at 8 p.m. All medical students and interested pre-medical students are invited to attend.

LANGUAGE MADE SIMPLE: NO. 1

In this day of swift international communications, like radio, television, and the raft, it becomes more and more important to be solidly grounded in foreign languages. Accordingly, I have asked the makers of Philip Morris whether I might not occasionally forego levity in this column and instead use it for a lesson in language.

"Of course, silly!" chuckled the makers of Philip Morris, tousling my yellow locks. Oh, grand men they are, just as full of natural goodness as the cigarettes they make, just as clean and fresh, just as friendly, just as agreeable to have along in all times and climes and places. "Of course, fond boy," laughed the makers and tossed me up and down in a blanket until, giddy with giggling, I bade them "assist, and then we all had basins of farina and smoked Philip Morris and sang songs until the campfire had turned to embers:

For our first lesson in language we will take up French. We will approach French in the modern manner—ignoring the tedious rules of grammar and concentrating instead on idiom. After all, when we go to France, what does it matter if we can parse and conjugate? What matters is that we should be able to speak idiomatic conversational French.

So, for the first exercise, translate the following real, true-to-life dialogue between two real, true-to-life Frenchmen named Claude (pronounced Clohd) and Pierre (also pronounced Clohd).

CLAUDE: Good morning, sir. Can you direct me to the nearest monk?

PIERRE: I have regret, but I am a stranger here myself.

CLAUDE: Is it that you come from the France?

PIERRE: You have right.

CLAUDE: I also. Come, let us mount the airplane and return ourselves to the France.

PIERRE: We must defend from smoking until the airplane elevates itself.

CLAUDE: Ah, now it has elevated itself. Will you have a Philippe Maurice?

PIERRE: Mercy.

CLAUDE: How many years has the small gray cat of the sick admiral?

PIERRE: She has four years, but the tall brown dog of the short blacksmith has only three.

CLAUDE: In the garden of my aunt it makes warm in the summer and cold in the winter.

PIERRE: What a coincidence! In the garden of my aunt too!

CLAUDE: Ah, we are landing. Regard how the airplane depresses itself.

PIERRE: What shall you do in the France?

CLAUDE: I shall make a promenade and see various sights of cultural significance, like the Louvre, the Tomb of Napoleon, and the Eiffel Tower... What shall you do?

PIERRE: I shall try to pick up the stewardess.

CLAUDE: Long live the France!

Gamma Pi Epsilon has its thirty-fifth anniversary

By MAUREEN UPINGTON
Society Editor

Gamma Pi Epsilon, Jesuit honorary society, is celebrating its thirty-fifth year of existence.

The seeds of this organization were planted in Milwaukee at Marquette University in 1923 and 1924. Five women students saw the need for an honor society to recognize officially service and loyalty to the university, and scholastic achievements.

Such a society would also form a compact body promoting school spirit.

The five girls sent a letter to the Very Rev. Albert C. Fox, S.J., president of Marquette University, in October of 1924. They asked him to approve the plan, grant his authority to form such a society, and name the charter members.

Organization is approved

Father Fox gave his approval and standards were set up. A French quotation translated into English, "For the glory of the school," was adopted as the motto. The Greek letters, Gamma Pi Epsilon, represent this theme.

On February 3, 1925, a meeting was held. Josephine O'Gorman was elected the first president.

The first initiation was held in Johnston Hall at Marquette. Father Fox addressed the group, pointing out the need of such an organization.

Through the years, the society became an integral part of Marquette campus life. In 1947 another dream was realized. The society became national when the sister college of St. Louis gave permission for Gamma Pi Epsilon to come on their campus.

Chapters grow

Shortly after, a number of other chapters sprung up. In 1951 the doors were opened to Gamma Pi in Spokane and at LeMoyne College in Syracuse.

Creighton University was added in 1952 and Detroit in 1953. Since that time the University of San Francisco began a chapter in 1958 followed by another chapter at Wheeling.

As it exists today, Gamma Pi Epsilon is a national honor society for women. Membership is based on scholarship, service to the university and loyalty.

Selection of members

Members are elected by the society from a list of those girls who have attained a three point, or above, quality point average. Those elected must be approved by the president of the university and the dean of women.

One member for every twenty girls enrolled in each college of the university may be elected. Only junior and senior coeds are eligible.

Mrs. Charles Hamilton, Jr., dean of women, is faculty moderator for the society. She urges all freshmen and sophomores to work toward membership in the society from the beginning of their academic life at Creighton.

Et vive aussi les Marlboros et les Alpines, les cigarettes très bonnes, très agréables, très magnifiques, et les sponsors de cette column-là.

Lay faculty forms 'Family' chapter

Some of Creighton's lay faculty members have recently formed a chapter of the Christian Family Movement, according to Secretary John F. Britt, instructor in psychology.

A world-wide organization, the Movement aims to solve family problems, make happier families, provide means for their spiritual advancement and help parents fulfill their vocations, Britt said.

The organization's success depends on the zeal of the chaplain and members. Its aims can be achieved only through spiritual development aided by spiritual reading, a better understanding of the liturgy, and an appreciation of the layman's part in the Mystical Body, he added.

Technique

Britt explained that a three-fold technique is used to help families solve their problems. First, parents are encouraged to observe situations which may cause problems in the home.

Then they must judge the situation and act prudently to eradicate the problem.

Besides developing interest in the family's spiritual welfare, the group tries to increase world consciousness among its members.

Studied Economics

Aspects of economics were studied as part of the Omaha Federation's 1958-59 program. This year, members will study ways to become aware of their political responsibilities.

There is increasing need for moral standards in politics, he added, and Catholics should not be satisfied merely with voting.

Providing Catholic homes for exchange students of that faith is another CFM project, Britt said.

700 Members

"The organization was begun in Omaha by the Rev. James Stewart with Archbishop Bergan's approval," Britt said. Membership now totals 700 in 12 parishes.

The movement strives for quality, not quantity, Britt added.

Membership is not limited to a particular age group, he said, but in Omaha people from 45-65 show increasing interest. He added that this group's projects differ from those whose members are still rearing families or those who have no families.

Helps 'Like' Members

Britt said the Christian Family Movement's work is helping "like" members; married couples help others like themselves, just as working people

J-students, faculty invited to Elk's dinner

Journalism students and faculty members from Creighton and the University of Omaha will be among guests Monday, Oct. 19, at a special National Newspaper Week observance sponsored by the Omaha Elks Lodge.

The Elks have also sponsored an essay contest in connection with the observance. A $25 Series E bond will be presented to the writer of the best 500-word piece on "Why Observe National Newspaper Week?" from each university.

Representatives from the Omaha World-Herald, Sun Newspapers of Omaha, United Press International and the Associated Press will attend the dinner.

"Phoenix" endeavors to ascend from ashes

Once more efforts are being made to get the "Phoenix," the proposed campus literary magazine, off the ground.

Michele Baker, Arts 3rd year, wrote a letter to the university's publication committee requesting approval of the magazine. A meeting was held on Tuesday to discuss the "Phoenix."

The Publication Committee did not act on the proposal because it did not have enough information in regard to permanent sponsorship and financial backing, according to David A. Haberman, director of the department of journalism and committee member.

At the Student Board of Governors meeting on Monday night the proposal was also discussed. The Board decided that it did not have enough information and referred the problem to the Committee on Cultural Activity.

Last spring the Student Board ear-marked $200 for a literary magazine which was to be approved by the Student Board and the Publication Committee. At the same time the Publication Committee recommended to the Administration that the "Phoenix" be printed although no arrangements for permanency of sponsorship or financial backing had been made.

University officials, however, felt that the plans were too vague and did not approve the project.

The editorial staff of the "Phoenix" as listed in the proposal sent to the Publications Committee is:

Miss Baker, editor; Roger Guilfoyle, A4, assistant editor; Toby Rappolt, graduate student, business manager, and Elaine Grebe, A3, art editor.

LUCKY STRIKE presents

Dear Dr. Frood:

Dr. Frood, Ph.T.T.

DR. FROOD'S MORAL OF THE MONTH

Things worth having are worth working for. For example: If you want a football letter, find a football player and ask him to write you one.

Dear Dr. Frood: I'm flunking everything but math. I get D in that. Help me.
(Name withheld by request)

Dear Withheld: Spend less time on math.

Dear Dr. Frood: I have a ravishingly beautiful girl in my class. Sadly, she is witless. Should I flunk her?
Bookish

Dear Bookish: Pass her. Other professors are waiting.

Dear Dr. Frood: I go steady with two girls—one in the dorm, one in the Theta house. Traveling between the two places is making a wreck of me. What to do?
Tired

Dear Tired: Get your girl to get your girl into her sorority.

DR. FROOD AND THE AMAZING NEW FILTER

I had occasion recently to study the remarkable "no smoke" filter made of solid lead. No matter how hard you puff, you get no smoke. Incidentally, a pack of these cigarettes weighs 2 pounds. Luckies weigh less . . . and you get smoke. The best.

Dear Dr. Frood: I am a 35-year-old freshman. Should I wear a beanie?
Worried

Dear Worried: If I were a 35-year-old freshman, I'd wear a mask.

Dear Dr. Frood: Nobody likes me. Girls despise me. Men can't stand me? Profs detest me. Dogs snap at my cuffs. What should I do?
Hated

Dear Hated: Don't ask me. I don't like you, either.

Dear Dr. Frood: I'm a non-conformist. But I smoke what everybody else smokes—Lucky Strike. How can I be different and still smoke Luckies?
I. M. Odd

Dear Mr. Odd: Light both ends of the Lucky and insert a straw into the middle. Sip the smoke through the straw and say "wildsville" after each puff.

COLLEGE STUDENTS SMOKE MORE LUCKIES THAN ANY OTHER REGULAR!

When it comes to choosing their regular smoke, college students head right for fine tobacco. Result: Lucky Strike tops every other regular sold. Lucky's taste beats all the rest because L.S./M.F.T.—Lucky Strike means fine tobacco:

Masek, with only one way ticket, propels freighter on return trip

By CESE REDETZKE
News Editor

As the Norwegian freighter, the "Skaugun," propelled its way up the 200 mile long Chesapeake Bay towards its berth in Baltimore, Capt. Alf Foeste was not at the wheel. Captain "pro-tem" Alan Masek, Business Administration senior, with the nautical degrees from the navigator, held the freighter on course and docked her on schedule.

While the freighter was being unloaded, Al got to the nearest highway to begin his day and a half cross-country hike to Omaha. As he had just returned from Europe, hitchhiking was merely second nature to this seasoned traveler.

On June 28, Al boarded the passenger liner, "The Italia," in Montreal with a one-way ticket to Europe, and without an inkling of an idea as to how he would return. Countries on his itinerary included England, Ireland, Holland, Germany, Austria, Switzerland, Italy, Spain and France.

No schedule, no plans Al was "captain of his own ship" as he hitchhiked from country to country. He was completely oblivious to the usual time schedules and planned tours. Time was his alone.

In reminiscing over his vacation, Al pointed out the unusual and inspiring places he had visited.

He related that in Dublin he toured the world's largest brewery, the Guinness. He laughed as he recalled he had sampled all four grades of its "stout," but by the time he got to the fourth, all tasted alike.

In the Army now Al's face lit up as he recalled his visit to Germany. For here it was that he hitched a ride with an American G. I. from Alabama, who was returning to his post, and spent some time there.

Because Al didn't want to wear out his welcome at the Army post, he left the following day for Austria. It was here that he saw what he considered to be "the nicest country, because of its scenery, the climate and the people. At least, the people were nicer to me than in any other country," he added after a moment of deep thought.

As the Romans do From Ausria Al wandered, via hitchhiking, into Italy. He stayed in Rome for six days. Generally Al saw everything there was to see. "I couldn't see Pope John XXIII as he was at his Summer palace," he added regretfully.

"While in Rome do as the Romans do" is applicable to Al. After he had seen the majority of the famous places, he went to a couple of very spectacular operas. "These operas were made spectacular by the setting, which was the Carcalla, a large outdoor amphitheatre, built right in the midst of the Roman ruins.

The singers, all famous in Rome, gave a very good performance. The thing that made it so superb was the staging. Four horses pulled a chariot onto the huge stage; wind blew through the trees and the clouds moved. I don't know how they did it, but the effect was remarkable," Al said. The operas he saw were "Rigoletto," "Carmen," and "Aida."

Spain is favorite

Al journeyed on to Spain after seeing Rome. "Spain was my favorite country," he said. "I liked it because of its depth and individuality."

In his explanation Al spoke with sincerity. "The depth of the people is wonderful; they possess an unmatched devoutness, even though they are so very poor. Spain was quite different from the rest of Europe, for many of the countries have the same similarities. In Spain wooden carts, mostly antique pieces, are used more than cars. There is no machinery; all labor is done by hand, down to such details as threshing wheat."

Al set off for France after he had carefully scrutinized Spain. Like a true American, Al was impressed by Paris. "It is the most beautiful city anywhere; its buildings, its parks with so many flowers, the wide streets, the sidewalk cafes, and the design of the city give it a lively and gay feeling," elaborated Al.

Al visited Notre Dame but he was more impressed by Sacra Crois. "This cathedral is white, plain, and more impressive because of its simplicity."

The Riviera

The overcrowding and the poor beaches of the Riviera were a disappointment to Al. He stated, "But I wasn't disappointed by what was on the beaches."

The itinerant went to Europe with a carefree attitude, unmindful of where he would sleep and eat. A majority of his nights were spent in the various youth hostels in Europe. "You can sleep there for twenty to forty cents a night," he qualified. Some haystacks and barns were utilized for the same purpose, too. Perhaps the most unusual night of sleep that Al had was under the Stratford-on-Avon bridge.

Travelers are idiots

The most interesting people that he met while in Europe were his fellow travelers. There were all kinds; they were in a class all of their own.

On Sept. 3, Al left France at La Havre. He hadn't decided exactly how he was going to return until he boarded the freighter. He was beginning to worry after he had talked to a student from New York who had tried to get work on five different ships to no avail.

Return voyage

"The first ship I tried had an opening. I didn't receive pay, just my passage. This trip home was the best experience of the whole trip. I worked and ate with the Spanish crew members; the officers were Norwegian."

Work on the return voyage consisted of painting, polishing brass in the wheel house, scrubbing the decks and taking "watch duty." The majority of the time Al stood watch. The trip took eight and a half days. "If I hadn't of worked my way back, this would have been a long, cold and hungry semester of school," he said.

NSF offers 1,100 grants for graduate level study

Creighton students may apply for one of the 1,100 graduate and 125 postdoctoral fellowships given by the National Science Foundation.

Candidates may apply to the Fellowship Office, National Academy of Sciences-National Research Council, 2101 Constitution Ave., N. W. Washington 25, D. C.

Application deadline

The deadline for the receipt of applications for regular postdoctoral fellowship is Dec. 22, 1959, and for the graduate fellowship, Jan. 1, 1960.

Open only to citizens of the United States and awarded solely on the basis of ability, the fellowships may be applied to advanced study in mathematical, physical, medical, biological, and engineering sciences, including anthropology and psychology (excluding clinical psychology).

Geography, mathematical economics, econometrics, demography, information and communication theory, experimental and quantitative sociology, and the history and philosophy of science.

The annual stipend for graduate fellows are as follows: $1,800 for the first year; $2,000 for the intermediate year and $2,200 for the terminal year. The annual stipend for postdoctoral fellows is $4,500.

Little Caesars, IKE's, Six Packs show power

Dugan does it all for Caesars

It was all Dugan as the Little Caesars rolled over Nanfite's Studs in a Sunday afternoon touch football game. Mike Dugan ran for two touchdowns and passed for another.

In addition, he kicked for the extra point following his first run in the 20-6 victory.

The Studs held the powerful Caesars to one counter in the first half, but couldn't continue even though they managed a touchdown of their own in the second period.

Bernie Berry provided most of the action for Binder's Studs. One of his tosses went to Doug Brown for a first period touchdown, and he hit Tom Roe for another in the second half. Berry also passed to McNamara for a two point conversion.

Interfrat games

In a make-up game from last week's schedule, Delta Sigma Delta shut out the Zips II. McCoy passed to Meehen for the only score in the 6-0 contest.

Delta Sigma Pi rolled over Phi Chi to the tune of 14-0 in another Sunday battle. Schroeder ran for one marker and Hahn threw to Barry for the other touchdown. A touchback accounted for the rest of Delta Sig's scoring.

The IKE's put on a scoring exhibition as they romped over Phi Beta Pi, 37-0. Schall ran for one touchdown and passed for two more, one a 50-yarder to Peterson. Jim Slattery passed once to brother Bill and again to Rowen for six-point plays.

Bill Balak turned in one of the top all around plays of the game, blocking a Phi Bet punt and taking the ball out of the air and into the end zone for a touchdown.

Independent League

Trailing 6-13 as the first half of play ended, the Syz's rallied behind the passing of Guinan. Terry Tibbels, Paul Determan and the Harrington brothers handled most of his tosses, four of which went for touchdowns.

Stan Fulcher picked up a counter on a six-yard run and Guinan's arm came through for the extra point, making the final score 32-19.

The Six Packs continued their winning ways in the Independent League as they topped the Hawks, 18-0. Tedesco accounted for two of the Packs' markers. An 11-yard end run and a 55-yard pass play with Serian on the receiving end were contributed by him.

Serian also took a 43-yard pass from McCabe and scored the second Six Packs' touchdown.

Odds 'n Ends

By JOHN GARDNER
Assistant Sports Editor.

Like most old soldiers who never die, or some who just refuse to die, ball players eventually fade away into obscurity. Father Time and short memories are destined to place many of this season's headliners among the ranks of the forgotten men of baseball. Let's gaze into the crystal ball and see who won't be around next year.

Musial and Williams

The biggest blow to ball fans will be the limited action seen by Musial and Williams. Musial, who sat out nearly every other game, has faint hopes of playing another two or three seasons.

With Musial, the legs are gone, the eye is gone, and only the reputation remains. The St. Louis club was the first to realize that you can't win games on reputations.

Williams, physically sounder than Musial, is accident-prone. His adeptness at procuring a variety of injuries has cost him dearly in his fight for many records. Like Musial, he still believes he has a chance. Like Musial, he finds it harder and harder to get into shape, and keep up with the younger boys.

The playing days for the remarkable Williams may run out before next season is through, signaling an end to the career of the finest hitter in modern baseball.

Will Stengel stay?

It may be that we're in a transitional period, in which a new crop of heroes and stars is being shaped. The old master of confused English, La Stengel, appears destined for a polite and courteous dismissal by the Yankees. No one will ever publicly state that Casey was fired, only that he "voluntarily retired."

Series standout Ted Kluszewski may feel the blade of Chicago's new build-up. Granted, the Sox were lost without him during the series, but then such was the situation with the Giants and Rhoades in '54.

Dusty is now content to roam the pastures of the Pacific Coast League, consoled by his great showing in the '54 series. Will the "Big Klu" also be forced into this type of "memory baseball"? The chances are more than 50-50.

And what of Herb Score? The lanky southpaw who came up with such a blazing fastball and spent most of the '59 season on the trainer's table. This year Herb became more familiar with the whirlpool

Students to open bowling

The opening of the Intramural Student Bowling League will be Sunday, Oct. 18, at the Forty Bowl.

Game time will be the same every week. The league has the hours from 12 noon until 2:30 p.m. Captains of the teams are asked to be there a little early to get things completely organized.

The cost for the three games will amount to $1.05 per person. Only five players of any one team may compete at any league session.

The schedule for the remainder of the bowling season will be given to the team captains at the first meeting.

The schedule for Sunday:
Delta Sigma Pi—Hilltoppers
Soas Miners—Alpha Kappa Psi
The Crew—Demman's Demons
Argonauts—Jaesing's Five
Californians—Syndicate

IKE's plan rugby game

A touch of merry old England strikes Creighton this Sunday as rugby is initiated on the campus. The 2 o'clock game will match the IKE's against an independent team.

Promoters Bob Conklin and Jim Phalen said that the traditional uniform of bermudas will hold for all participants.

Although there is an organized rugby league in Omaha, this will be a first for Creighton. The game is the English version of football and is usually just as rough. With 15 players to a team, you can easily see why.

Site of the game has been set at the area bounded by Turner Blvd. and California St.

than the baseball.

Cleveland probably won't let their problem boy go, but he might be shipped back to AAA ball, or left to tan in the bullpen.

Schoendienst of Milwaukee, Garcia of Cleveland, Vernon, Slaughter—great names, names of an era that is passing. And next year—more names and more memories.

Touch football schedule

A look at this week's game finds the Syz's tangling with the Six Packs in what should be the top contest on the slate. The Little Caesars, another of the tougher teams, perhaps they will prove the toughest before the season is up, should have an easy time with the Half Pints.

The Delta Sigma Phi-IKE contest winner could easily be the top contender for the Interfrat title. There's a lot of action promised in the stadium the next few days and nights.

The schedule for this week:

Saturday, October 17
1:15 Zips II—Phi Rho
2:15 Zips III—Phi Chi
3:15 Delta Sigma Delta—Phi Beta Pi
Sunday, October 18
1:15 Little Caesars—Half Pints
2:15 Studs (Nanfite)—Hawks
3:15 Delta Sigma Phi—IKE's

Remember touch football is still rough enough to provide a lot of excitement for any spectator who might happen along during a game. So why not succumb to the old pitch and go out and see a game?

Leightley picks twenty

Contestant predicts all games on grid ballot

It can be done! Those of you who scoffed at the possibility of anyone predicting all 20 games on our ballot take notice.

Al Leightley, an Arts junior, turned the trick last week, and he has taken the lead in the points column. Leightley received 40 points for his efforts. (Double the usual amount because he had 20 correct picks.)

We at the sports desk managed a strong 17 picks, but put too much trust in the "old" powers, Oklahoma and Army. John Binder, Jack-Delaney, Merrill Kullbom and Ed Reilly, all among the top 15 in the point standings, picked both of these games correctly.

Binder, Bill Fangman and Tom Fretz almost picked 'em all, needing only one more correct guess.

The "prize"

There have been a few mild inquiries around here lately concerning the reward that the leader in the final point standings is to receive. We're working on it.

An evening on the town, including theater tickets and dinner at one of Omaha's finer restaurants is being arranged. There is a possibility of another "surprise" in addition to the evening, but nothing is definite.

The current front-runners in the balloting are:

Al Leightley	69
Jack R. Delaney	59
Tom Fretz	49
Mike Mason	49
Bill Fangman	47
Ron Jacques	47
Merrill Kullbom	47
Mary Ann McDermott	47
Ron Rannels	46
Ed Rejda	46
John Binder	46
Ken Hirsch	46
Mark Czechut	44
John Kellogg	44

These are the predictions that the leaders and you have to top us on this week.

As you read down the list and come upon the Gustavus Adolphus-Augsburg game, do not immediately question the sanity of the sports desk. There are such schools. The "Gusties" and the "Augies", both Minnesota products, raise quite a few eyebrows in their area, not to mention what they raise around here when we include them in our picks.

We need an advantage of some sort. Our picks are usually final by Tuesday, and we don't have the benefit of comparing our choices with those of every other football expert throughout the nation. By including a game of this sort we make you work just a little harder for your points.

Football prediction ballot

Entries in the football prediction contest must be filled out according to the following directions. Place an "X" in the bracket before the name of the team that you think will win. For a tie, put an "X" in both brackets. Ballots must be turned in before 4 p.m. on the Friday that they appear. One Ballot box is located on the sports desk in the Newsroom A330. Another will be placed near the teletype machine on the first floor. ALL NAMES MUST BE PRINTED. ANY BALLOT NOT PRINTED WILL BE AUTOMATICALLY DISQUALIFIED. The Sports Desk's predictions are elsewhere on this page.
