FR. MCGUCKEN WILL CONDUCT C. U. RETREAT

Is Noted Retreat Master from St. Louis University

S. S. C. GOAL 100 PER CENT

The Rev. William McGucken, S. J., head of the department of education at St. Louis university, will conduct the annual three-day Creighton retreat for Catholic students from Jan. 30 to Feb. 1.

At St. John's Church
 The retreat for the boys will be given in St. John's church and is of obligation for all the Catholic male students of the university. Non-Catholic students are invited to attend. At last year's sessions a large number of non-Catholic students was in evidence.

The retreat for the girls will be conducted by the Rev. John J. Keefe, S. J., assistant professor of English at Creighton. The girls will meet in the Law building.

Attendance Urged
 In commenting upon the retreat, the Rev. J. A. Herbers, S. J., dean of men, compared it with the methods employed by the average businessmen of today who takes an inventory every year. The retreat, according to Father Herbers, is just an inventory of the past year's activities with the same methods employed for spiritual welfare as for business.

The Students Spiritual council is making every effort to have the attendance at the retreat 100 per cent. Below is a letter to the students from the council:

"The attendance at the annual retreat in past years has been very good. This year we are appealing to your organization to attend 100 per cent. At the last accounting, although several classes, fraternities and other organizations averaged well over 90 per cent, only one organization reached the century mark. That was the Creighton Chamber of Commerce. Now we ask that class presidents, fraternity leaders and organization heads bring their entire membership. We refer in this letter to Catholic members only."

SIX ORATORS WILL COMPETE FEB. 18

Liebert, Gleason, Quinlan, Blaes, Halley and Walsh Are Chosen

Six Creighton orators were chosen to compete in the finals of the annual Oratorical contest in the preliminaries held last Thursday night in the Arts college library. Twenty-two men were entered in the competition.

The six winners who will compete for the championship of the university on Feb. 18 are Emmet Blaes, Law senior, Cherryvale, Kans., whose subject was "America's Political Heritage"; James J. Gleason, Arts sophomore, Omaha, "Prohibition"; Donald Holley, Arts sophomore, Ottumwa, Ia., "Aviation"; Frank Liebert, Arts sophomore, Coffeyville, Kans., "The Constitution"; Thomas Quinlan, Law freshman, Omaha, "Prohibition," and John E. Walsh, Law junior, Yankton, S. D., "Russia."

Judges of the contest were the Rev. Joseph C. Flynn, S. J., dean of the College of Arts; the Rev. J. J. Keefe, S. J., assistant professor of English, and Mr. John T. Newell, S. J., of the high school faculty.

Selection was made on the basis of speech content, originality and delivery. Each contestant was permitted to speak for three minutes on a subject of his own choice.

The finals will be held in the Creighton auditorium Feb. 18. Speakers will be given ten minutes to present their subjects at this time.

'THE VALIANT' IS CONTEST WINNER

Play, Directed by Bernard Sheridan Wins Overholt Trophy

"The Valiant," a one-act drama by Holworthy Hall and Robert Middlemoss, directed by Bernard Sheridan, Law senior, won the Overholt trophy contest as the best of a series of ten radio plays presented by the Creighton Dramatic club over station WOW. The play was given Nov. 5 as the second of the series.

"The Bishops Candlesticks," directed by Mrs. Anna McCormick Strahl, Commerce freshman, placed second, and "The Exile," directed by Harold Kroloff, Arts freshman, was awarded third place. Judges for the contest were Mrs. Martin Harris, former president of the Omaha Women's Drama league; Judge John W. Batten, judge of the municipal court, and W. O. Wiseman, radio editor of the Omaha Bee-News.

Adelaide O'Keefe, alumna of the College of St. Mary; Harold Kroloff, Arts freshman; Hyman Shrier and Joe Vinardi, Law juniors, comprised the cast for "The Valiant." Bernard Sheridan, besides directing the play, played one of the parts.

Votes from the judges were mailed to the Rev. J. A. Herbers, S. J., who made the announcement to The Creightonian Tuesday afternoon. The Creighton Dramatic club is continuing the presentation of the radio plays.

"Manikin and Minikin," a bisque play, written by Alfred Kreyborg, and directed by Virgil Wolfe, Law senior, was presented last night over station WOW. It is a semi-puppet play of pantomimic drama. The characters are two statues which, though they are inanimate objects, come to life and speak of their dreary life and tell of their love for each other.

The character, Minikin, is played by Miss Doris Adkins, Commerce sophomore, and Manikin is played by Virgil Wolfe.

Next week "Moonshine," by Frank Wolf, will be played by Lawrence Welch, Law senior, and Bernard Martin, Law freshman. The play will also be given at the Father Agnew Student Loan Fund Benefit to be held Feb. 5 and 6.

One week following the Pittsburgh debate, the University of California will meet the Creighton squad in the Creighton auditorium. The same subject is to be debated. Lyle O'Rourke, Law senior, and Stanfield Johnson, Law junior, will represent Creighton.

Discussion on the questions of free trade and prohibition, two of the questions to be used on Creighton's southern trip, occupied the meeting of the debate squad Monday night in the moot court.

On the affirmative team were Frank Roach, Creighton prep senior; Helen Claire Olsen, College of St. Mary sophomore, and Margaret Edney, Holy Name High school. The other members of the negative team were Theresa Higgins, Duchesne sophomore, and Gladys O'Donnell, St. Mary's High school.

WORK ON FRATERNITY PART OF ANNUAL BEGUN

Sittings for the fraternity section of the Bluejay, which began Tuesday, started work on another important section of the book. According to Joe Murphy, editor of the annual, letters have been sent to all fraternity presidents with dates for the respective groups to appear for pictures. In requesting the cooperation of all fraternity men, Murphy said:

"Due to the shortness of time and the amount of pictures to be taken, all fraternity men must appear on the days appointed or be omitted from their respective pages."

Evidence Given By Prosecution at Mock Trial

Witnesses Testify That Wohlner Is Guilty of Three Major Offenses

Harold Wohlner beat Eddie J. Kroupa unconscious after refusing to hoist a fire hose through the window of a burning house, witnesses for the prosecution in the annual ROTC mock court martial testified Tuesday afternoon. Trial Judge Advocate Leo W. Smith introduced three witnesses at the second meeting of the court martial. Proupa, the third witness to take the stand, told the court that he attempted to detain Wohlner from deserting and was kicked in the face by him. James R. Flynn, first witness to testify, said that as company commander he had placed Wohlner in the guardhouse for desertion on Dec. 31. A graphic description of a burning house at Fort Creighton and of Wohlner's refusal to enter it was given by Francis C. Monroe, second witness. Under questioning by Defense Counsel John O'Brien, Monroe, as post fire marshal, admitted that he did not see the alleged assault on Proupa. Wohlner was arraigned on three counts, desertion, assault and refusal to obey orders, at a meeting of the court in the moot court room of the Law building Tuesday, Jan. 14. The defense will present its case at the next meeting of the court martial, which culminates when members of the second year advanced military class will render their verdict on the case as members of the court.

OUR SINGING STRENGTH

In years past, the Creighton University Glee club had reflected credit on the university and on those who composed it. To say that in the past the Glee club was one of the superior organizations of its kind in this part of the country is not an exaggeration.

This club unfortunately was allowed to lapse. Recently the officers of the university took all the necessary steps to re-awaken student interest in singing. They were actuated in this by the realization that such an organization was, among all the activities sponsored by the school, one which was best calculated to cultivate in the students cultural development.

Up until the present time, in spite of every effort of those in charge, the reaction of the undergraduates has not been such as to permit the appearance of a Glee club which would be at all creditable to the student body. In all likelihood this is due to one or two causes. First, the very fact that the club has been unable, with its present limited personnel, to make such public appearances as would render membership attractive, has kept from many students that knowledge of its affairs which must precede an active interest in it.

Secondly, this same lack of public appearance has kept the students from an appreciation of the value, cultural and recreational, to the club members themselves. Participation in the Glee club first strengthens and then modulates the physical voice, an asset in any work in life.

Though the sphere may seem somewhat limited as one booms in the second basses, or squeaks high up in the first tenors, the knowledge of technique acquired by these gymnastics will stay with one many years, adding an increased appreciation of music to the other benefits of education. The singers would carry out into life a good selection of songs worth knowing, both classical and popular. And though the first few sessions would be hard work, until voices were limbered up and proper places located and a sufficiently varied repertoire built up, the result obtained would be as pleasant as could be found. No group of men can sing together all evening and not part friends.

The University Glee club has met with moderate success because, through no one's fault, it has been neither known nor appreciated. We are sure that the student body of the university will not remain indifferent to an activity which has long held an honored place in college life, which reflects credit on the school, and which, for the student, combines educational advantages and pleasant associations in such happy proportions.

THE MID-YEAR INTERLUDE

The end of the semester should mean fatigue for the vast majority of students. Four and one-half months of study, eighteen weeks of social affairs, one hundred and thirty-five days of the constant round of classes, physical exercise, meals, arguments and the thousand other occupations that consume a student's time are sufficient to cause him to suffer from a bodily and mental weariness that must be heeded.

Spiritually, perhaps, that fatigue is even greater. During that hectic first semester, with its Christmas and Thanksgiving holidays and its pre-Lenten activity, spirituality is for most students only a half-hearted, arid thing; and the end of the semester usually finds each student sadly in need of a spiritual renaissance. Very wisely, the annual students' retreat has been provided to fill this very need. Three days of rest, of meditation, of soothing and silent introspection are admirable means of recouping all that was lost during the preceding months. Add to that the periods of instruction by an outstanding retreat master and the aura of those three precious days glows brighter still.

All Catholic students, of course, are required to make the retreat. But the manner in which they will make it is the important thing. Those who are capable of serious thought, who see the true value, physically, mentally and spiritually, of a three-day interlude at the half-way point of the year, will enter into the spirit of the retreat as they would into an athletic contest or a political campaign—enthusiastically, wholeheartedly and unrestrainedly.

NO FACT FORMULA FOR WRITING—JACKS

Dr. Leo V. Jacks, assistant professor of classics, spoke on the short story before 20 students representing various departments of the university last Thursday, at 7:30 p. m., in the committee room of the Knights of Columbus club.

"It is difficult to tell you just how to proceed to write a short story," said Dr. Jacks. "Should I attempt to state anything definite to you, some one later on might tell you just the opposite. Everyone has his peculiar way of writing. I usually have some fixed idea in mind. Then I proceed to put everything I know down on paper. After doing this I review my manuscript carefully."

Dr. Jacks advised beginning writers to fix the story in their minds. An outline of some form should be worked out so that the writer might have an organized plan to work from, he said.

CREIGHTONIAN AND CREIGHTONIANS

By J. A. HERBERS, S. J., Dean of Men

Three of the most important and profitable days of the year will be spent by the Creighton boys and girls in the exercises of the annual Retreat, which begins at 9 a. m. on Jan. 30, and ends at 3 p. m. on Sunday, Feb. 1.

During this time you will devote yourselves to thought and prayer. You will pray for the graces and blessings that you need in this life and you will ask for the guidance that can come from God alone. You will consider the past and what it has brought for or against you and you will prepare yourselves for the work that lies before you.

It is an important work and it is expected that you will give yourselves with heart and soul to the task. If you are seniors understand that it will be the best Retreat you ever made. If you are underclassmen be resolved that it will be a help to you to do even better work during your years at school.

HILLTOP ANGLES

By G. W. Melcher

During the holidays—
I also looked up—
"Colonel" Kent Eubank—
Grey haired veteran of—
The Wichita Eagle staff—

A star of the old school of journalism, he is one of those able all-around, respected, self-made members of the University of the World. With his wholesome, pleasingly old-fashioned philosophy of life he is a lovable character—and is remembered and liked by all that have come to know him. He's fond of reminiscing.

While we were in his office talking, in came a former schoolmate of mine (now a young society reporter) and joined us. She was inquisitive as to the frequencies of Creighton formal and asked about Omaha social life in general. Eubank jokingly remarked that the big parties of his youth, back in ol' Kentucky, were the huskin'-bee barn dances. Knowing of his local reputation as a story teller, we two embryonic journalists saw the opportunity and urged him to tell us something about them.

In his own homely words, this is about the way he told it:

"In those days, at the huskin' bee the thrifty farmer with a barn larger than his house, would gather in the corn from the fields, and dump it in one big pile in the middle of the barn. The word would be sent out that so and so would entertain with a huskin' bee on Saturday afternoon and night, and the younger set would make great preparations for the occasion. For miles and miles around the countryside would come bucksome young damsels in red and blue calico and gingham gowns and linsey-woosey petticoats with just a bit of white lace peeping from above their high top shoes.

"After the crowd had congregated the names of the girls would be written on a slip of paper, dumped in the feed basket, then the boys would draw names for their partners. After the partners were selected we circled around that corn pile and tore off the husks with amazing speed. There was method, too, in our speed, for every time the boy found a red ear he was entitled to the pleasure of kissing his girl—and the lassie was granted the same privilege. I used to slip out to the barn early in the evening, hunt out the red ears and place them in a pile where I could find them when the huskin' started.

"Then at night, when the corn was shucked, we cleared away the space in that big barn and the dancing started. We didn't have any waxed hard-wood floors either for our parties—nor tuxedos or patent leathers. Sometimes we went out in the woods, cleared off the grass under the shade of the trees for two or three hundred feet square, hauled saw dust and bedded down the ring, and all was ready for the fray. We wore hickory shirts and jeans or cottonade breeches, and a silk handkerchief or a necktie, and later married the girls, and multiplied and replenished the earth.

"However, in the final windup I don't reckon the younguns of today are much more going to the devil than we were. The well-meaning, cronic old brothers and sisters talked about us just the same as they do today. But, I'm telling you, here and now, if you have any more fun at your country clubs than we had at those barn dances or sawdust rings, or picnics—"

Suddenly the telephone interrupted. The quaint, little Kentuckian excused himself to answer the call of his boss, old man Murdock, the pioneer Wichita editor, who, too, is a long-time friend of Kent's.

As he ambled out the feminine cub remarked, "Gil, isn't he an ol' dear."

PROGRAM ANNOUNCED

The Rev. Louis F. Doyle, S. J., professor of English, will be on the spring program of the study club of the Omaha Diocesan Council of Catholic Women, according to the schedule announced last Sunday.

Father Doyle will discuss Chesterton and Belloc, at the meeting on April 10.

Four More Boxes Are Collected in Mission Cause

Letter of Thanks for Christmas Boxes Is Received by University

Four more large boxes of discarded clothing, toys and notions were sent to the Rev. A. C. Riester, S. J., of Holy Rosary Mission, Pine Ridge, So. Dak., for the Indian mission last Monday by the officers of the Students Spiritual Council.

"The Christmas drive went over good and continued to bear fruit even after the holidays," said the Rev. Thomas Egan, S. J., faculty representative of the campaign.

Miss Marcella Houlton, secretary of the Law school, did much work in handling and packing the items which were sent. Miss Houlton took the boxes to the freight station and billed them out to the missions.

Last week a letter was received from Father Riester, thanking the Creighton students for the things which were sent before Christmas. In part he said, "The boxes arrived and have been unpacked and some of the contents are now on the backs of the noble Red Men. Many thanks for your interest in the Indians."

He also sent two photographs, which have been posted in the Law school, showing the nature of the land where the mission church is situated.

UNIVERSITY ORCHESTRA

The University orchestra will begin active work immediately after the opening of the second semester. Everyone who is interested please bear this in mind and help us make this a worthy organization.

Director.

PARABOLA DISCUSSED BY MATHEMATICS CLUB

A discussion of the parabola in its different phases and applications was held at the meeting of the Mathematics club last Thursday. Papers were read by four members of the organization.

E. Gordon Hannon, Arts sophomore, talked on the "Applications of the Parabola." "A Unique Application of the Parabola," in which the speaker claimed that if the weight on a bridge was distributed evenly, the cable supporting the bridge would form the shape of a parabola, was given by Frank E. Marrin, instructor in mathematics.

"The Most Mysterious Manuscript in the World," a talk given by Torrence D. Kay, Arts senior, secretary of the club, concerned the experiences of A. Voynich, a connoisseur, who found this paper in the form of a cipher, which is thought to contain the scientific facts developed by Roger Bacon.

Alvin K. Bettinger, dean of the mathematics department, read a paper on the "Application of the Parabola in the Path of a Projectile," a method which was used in the war.

Refreshments were served after the regular meeting was over.

JONES MARRIED

Delbert Jones of Columbus, former Creighton student, was married Sept. 13, to Miss Opal Crowe of the same city. Announcement of the wedding was made last Wednesday. Mr. and Mrs. Jones will make their home at Grand Island.

Jones was a member of the freshman football squad.

Father Doyle Calls 'Green Pastures' An Old-Time Religious Mystery Play

"It is startling to think that the latest hit on Broadway is nothing more than an old-time religious mystery play, such as was used in the Middle Ages by the Church to teach lessons from the Old Testament," said the Rev. Louis F. Doyle, S. J., assistant professor of English in the colleges of Arts and Commerce, speaking on "Green Pastures" in the university auditorium Sunday night.

The play, a mystery dramatization by Marc Connelly on Negro spiritual life, has been running at the Mansfield theater on Broadway for nearly a year, and is still attracting large crowds, Father Doyle said.

"The play is a pleasant satire on something that should be satirized," the speaker declared. "It pictures the garbled notions that arise from personal and literal interpretation of the Old Testament. It presents the Negro idea of heaven as a place of unending fish-frys, free ten-cent cigars and angels flying about on golden wings. This literal interpretation is something that the church has consistently warned against in its teachings."

"It also demonstrates that a play does not have to be unclean to succeed," Father Doyle said, "for there is not an offensive line in it. We laugh, not at God, nor at religion, nor at the Old Testament, but at the art of Marc Connelly."

"The play is not great art, but it is fine art. It is a handmade play, not the machine-made, synthetic type that is thrown together over night by a group of dramatic racketeers, sees

The Rev. J. A. Herbers, S. J., was pleased with the results of the first week of the campaign. As to the possibility of the fund reaching the $1,000 mark by the end of the week, he said, "This is a question that can be determined by the students. It is their work and the success or failure of the enterprise depends upon them."

IOWA STATE FIVE HERE SATURDAY NIGHT

BLUES FAVORED OVER CYCLONES IN NEXT CLASH

Thomson, Flashy Forward, Is Big Threat of Iowa State Quintet

With their second place position in the Missouri Valley conference virtually insured for the time being, the Creighton cagers have returned home for a non-conference battle with Iowa State on the Hilltop rink Saturday night.

The Cyclone machine has been kicked around in the Big Six conference, but boasts five veterans as well as a flashy Omaha sophomore, Ralph Thomson, who has edged into the starting lineup.

The Creighton five last week showed real scoring power in second half drives, which netted victories over Drake and Grinnell. New combinations which Coach Schabinger tried out in these games worked smoothly and the guarding of the quintet was excellent. The Jays held the powerful Drake team to a single field goal in the last half after trailing the Bulldogs 16-10 at the intermission.

Among the bright spots in the Creighton play was the work of John Tolan, elongated Iowa sophomore, who scored four points against Grinnell Saturday night and displayed a flashy floor game. He is likely to start opposite Van Ackeren at a forward post Saturday, with Melchoirs and Binder at the guards, and Paben at center.

THE DOPE BUCKET

By HARRY JOHNSON

DO YOU KNOW THAT?

Connie Collin, all-around Jay athlete, and Jack Campbell, frosh signal caller, know more Rockne stories than most sports-writers.

Ken Clancy, versatile Jayhawk, stays up until the wee small hours of the morning listening to Husk O'Hare and his band.

"Wee Willie" Worthing, football and basketball star, has a decided weakness for blondes.

Eddie Jelen, varsity quarterback, has lost considerable poundage these last few weeks worrying over semester exams.

"Bull" Endicott, former Tee Jay athlete, is playing with Bustling Bernie Burroughs Basketeers, an independent five.

"Gloomy Gus" Rosch has developed "Flashy Fred" Wagner into an extraordinary cage performer. "Flashy Fred" is showing a lot of speed.

Art "Radio" Kiely was twice selected on the all-state cage teams of Montana, while performing with Butte high.

Tom "Tripod" Tighe, was considered one of the best backs in the state during the 1928 season. He played with Bancroft.

"Bones" Sklenar, big Wahoo tackle, is accorded a chance of making the all-western grid team in 1931.

This paper has recently been informed of the outstanding athletic accomplishments of Eddie Triba, former Columbus athlete.

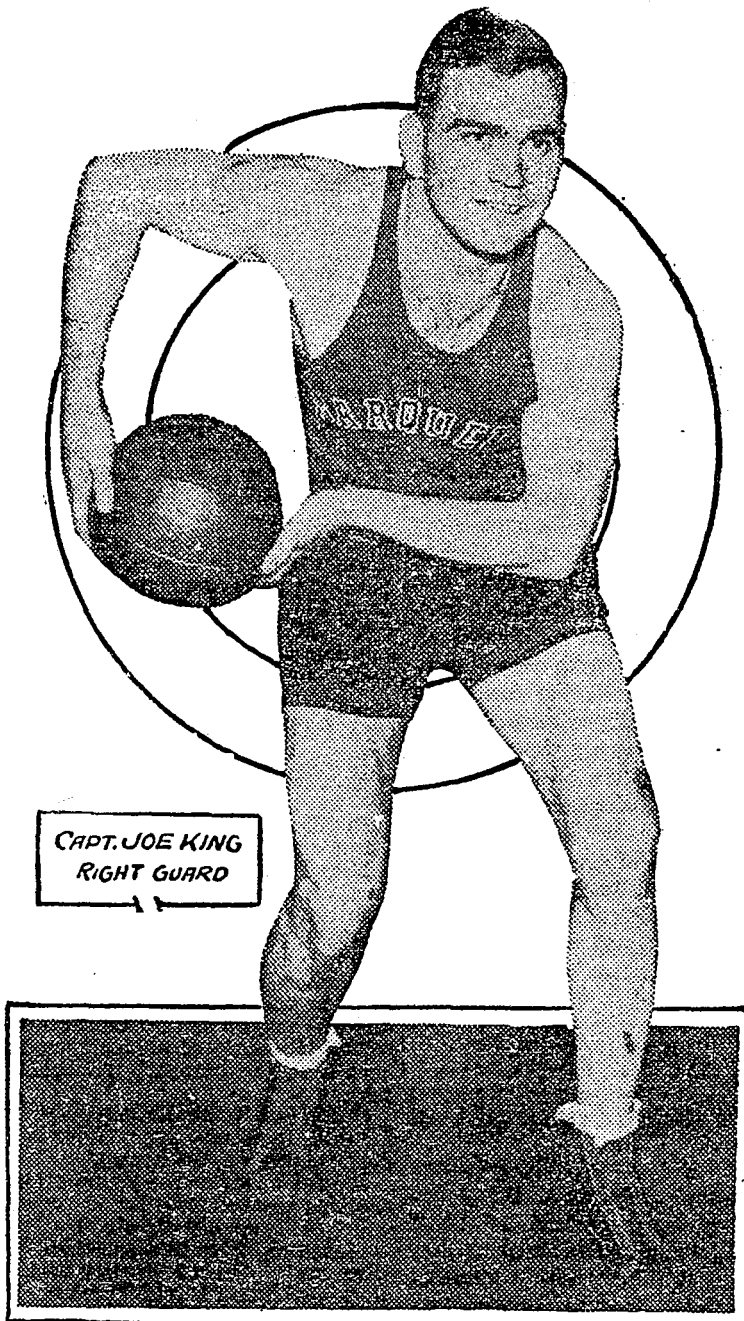

Two beany boys, Sullivan and Greary, were members of the Casper, Wyo., cage team that participated in the national basketball tourney at Chicago.

By virtue of wins over Drake and Grinnell during the course of the past week, Creighton stands a good chance of annexing the conference lead. The Oklahoma Aggies, generally accorded the doubtful honor of being the weak member of the valley circuit, are now occupying that enviable position. They have engaged in but a single fray, however. Washington, after downing the Jays, proceeded to lose to both Drake and Grinnell. Grinnell has lost to the Oklahoma Aggies and Creighton. Drake has lost to Creighton. Thus the outlook for a conference championship coming to the Hill is brighter than it might seem at first glance.

One day last week your correspondent had the pleasure of watching the Beany aggregation go through their drills in preparation for a few of their forthcoming battles. Instead of a poorly drilled, misfit outfit, the quintet presented a fast-breaking, high-scoring offense and one which afforded a defense equal, if not superior, to the attack. That St. John's team could down about three-fourths of the high school quints outstate. The team is composed of McEachron and Sullivan at forwards, Rupp or Engler at

King will have one more chance to engage the traditional rivals of the Milwaukee school, when Marquette plays the Jays in Omaha on Feb. 25. At that time Skipper Fred Melchoirs and his buddies will endeavor to even the count.

center and McCreary and Clifford at the guards. McEachron is the high-scoring of the Beany league, closely followed by Sullivan. There are two men from as good a pair of forwards as you could wish to see and they are ably seconded by either Rupp or Engler, who alternate at the pivot post. At the barricades Coach Schneider is using Clifford, an O'Neill Academy product, and McCreary.

Other good cage men in the Beanyery this year include Keiter, Campbell, Leary and Stahle. There are four teams in the Beany league and they are playing a double round robin. At the present writing all four of the squads have a chance for the title. The Cowboys are leading with four wins and no losses. As before stated McEachron is in the lead of the scoring van. He has an average of eleven points a game. Sullivan, in second position, has averaged ten markers a fray thus far.

Connie Collin, all-around Hilltop athlete, tells this one. Collin, Crawford, and the versatile Jack Campbell were in Chicago to see the Army-Notre Dame fracas, and after seeing that particular game decided to take in another one. So Collin, always adept at talking himself out of tight places, strutted up to the gatekeeper at one of the gridirons where the Chicago Bears were engaging the Green Bay Packers. "Say, we are members of the Drake football squad"—Drake was returning from a game with Templeton in Philadelphia—"and we wondered what the chances would be to get three comps to this melee," said Collin. When asked to identify themselves, Collin assumed the name of Don Carlos, Bulldog center, Campbell introduced himself as Lynn King, quarterback, and Crawford modestly admitted that his monicker was Ossie Solomna, the Drake coach. The gatekeeper let them in without a dissenting word.

ST. MARY'S PIN STARS BEGIN BOWLING SEASON

A team piloted by Miss Marjorie Van Ackeren bowled its way to victory over two other teams from the College of St. Mary when the school's keggers tested the alleys at St. Joseph's last Wednesday.

Miss Kathryn Sumnick's team was second in the competition and Miss Martina O'Donnell's team was third. Miss Van Ackeren and Miss Genevieve Monroe were first and second respectively in the individual scoring honors. The girls bowl every Wednesday afternoon at St. Joseph's.

JAYS DEFEAT DRAKE AND GRINNELL IN CONFERENCE CLASHES, BUT LOSE TO AVALANCHE ON EASTERN JOURNEY

Fast Breaking Offense Clicks After Failure in Home Games as Bluejays Show Rallying Power in Victories

MELCHOIRS REGAINS FORM

With a fast breaking offense finally working to perfection the Jay cagers of Coach A. A. Schabinger scored two conference victories and dropped a close decision to Marquette in a three-game eastern jaunt.

Beaten in their last two starts at home and meeting what on paper were stronger teams, the Jays were figured to have great difficulty in getting a victory out of their first venture away from home. But the scoring power of the Jays, which had been absent in home games, suddenly appeared, and the Creighton machine romped through Drake and Grinnell for surprise wins.

Melchoirs Goes In

Against Drake, the Jays came back strong in the second half to hold the Bulldogs to a lone field goal, while tallying 18 points to gather a 28-18 victory. A feature of the Drake contest was the return to form of Capt. Freddy Melchoirs. The Creighton pilot tied with Van Ackeren for high point honors, scoring eight points and working to advantage in the guarding department.

In the Grinnell tussle the Jays gained a 30-26 decision. The Pioneers were unable to break through the Jays airtight defense for points in the last half and the Jays, led by Maurice Van Ackeren, cashed in on a number of long shots to win.

Tolan Aids Jays

After fighting an uphill battle for the lead throughout most of the game and succeeding in finally obtaining it, the Creighton five was stopped when Bill Chandler's Marquette quintet staged a strong finish to win, 22-18.

The trip, on the whole, proved very profitable. The Jays showed powerful comeback play in all three games and sufficient power to bring victories against the Valley foes. Another pleasing feature of the trip was the work of John Tolan, a sophomore, playing at Willie Worthing's forward post. The "Falcon Flash" was playing regularly for the first time and his four points against Grinnell aided materially in the Jays victory.

Van Ackeren led the Blues in scoring in all three tilts, tallying a total of 25 points to bring his season's total to 51.

Power of Suggestion Used; Girl Now Walks

Francis Nash of Council Bluffs, who has been a patient at St. Joseph's hospital, was able to walk after Dr. Ernest Kelley, assistant professor of psychiatry at the Creighton School of Medicine, was finally able to convince her she could.

Miss Nash had gradually lost the use of her left leg until it was completely paralyzed. The nerves had been so deadened by disuse that even sensations in the leg were gone.

Several attempts to make her believe that she could walk by use of her own will power failed, and finally a combination of suggestions, with the belief that she was aided by electricity, caused the nerves to break through the barrier and she was able to move her leg.

When Miss Nash completes her lessons in walking, she will study to be a nurse.

of Huron, So. Dak., is hailed as one of the best all-around athletes even to enroll at Creighton. His high school record includes four years of basketball, four years of football and three seasons of track competition.

To our knowledge he is the only man to ever make the All-American high school cage team in his freshman year. In addition to this he was three times chosen all-state forward. He was all-state, half-back on two different occasions.

He is also the holder of the state low hurdles record. He was a regular member of the frosh football team this fall and at the present time is holding down a forward berth on the frosh cage five.

BLUE SPLASHERS LOSE FIRST MEET

Jay Team Opens Second Season of Competition with 61-23 Loss to Grinnell

Grinnell college swimmers downed Creighton's tankmen last Friday at Grinnell, 61 to 23. Although the Bluejays failed to gain a first place, they came through with six second places and four thirds.

The Pioneers began the melee by winning the 400-yard relay in 4 minutes 35.1 seconds and from then on were never headed. Bergin made a bid for first honors in the 200-yard breast stroke, the second event on the program, but was overtaken in the last 40 yards by De Long who nosed him out by inches.

De Long again upset the Bluejays by taking the fancy diving. Schwaab and McGuire finished second and third in this event.

The summary:
100-yard relay—First, Grinnell (Wolffinger, Roth, Picheur, Adams); second, Creighton, Time—4:23.1.
200-yard breast stroke—First, De Long, Grinnell; second, Bergin, Creighton; third, Conrad, Grinnell, Time—3:07.
50-yard dash—First, Wolffinger, Grinnell; second, Adams, Grinnell; third, Crowley, Creighton, Time—0:34.8.
440-yard swim—First, Miller, Grinnell; second, Skoug, Grinnell; third, Langdon, Creighton, Time—0:34.8.
150-yard back stroke—First, Thomas, Grinnell; second, Durr, Creighton; third, Picheur, Grinnell, Time—2:32.1.

COLLEGE INN OUTFIT EXPECTS TO CONQUER VICTORIOUS QUINTET

"Bustling Bernie" Burroughs' College Inners (or rather in and outers) will tangle with the Campus Inn five for the Boarding House championship next Saturday morning.

The "Bustler" has a team lined up, which he firmly believes can take "Flashy Fred's" outfit for a ride. The College Inn squad will include 10 men due to the fact that Manager Burroughs could not find five men who were in condition to stand the gaff for the full game.

The team is training on Lucky Strikes and goat's milk with a little spinach thrown in for good measure. Another training regulation that will be strictly enforced is one which states that no member of the squad shall eat more than a seventy-cent meal on the day of a game.

"Bustling Bernie's" prize performers include Max "Bull" Endicott, former Tee Jay star; "Howie" Gordon, another former Tee Jay luminary; Ken Clancy, the bookworm of Delta Sigma Pi; "Jumping Jack" Knowles, of the never-say-die spirit; "Curly" O'Connell, former Underwood, Ia., star; Tom "Tripod" Tighe, the man of many absences; "Hairbreadth Harry" Johnson, Norbert "Whattaman" Bauer, "Big" Payne of Beanyery fame, and last but not least, that extraordinary basketeer "Bustling Bernie" himself.

Although Burroughs never made the All-American, his many followers still insist that he is entitled to such ranking. With the above named stars he anticipates little or no trouble in annexing the boarding house title.

A telescope at the University of Nebraska was found in the depths of the university heating tunnel recently.

FRATERNITY CAGE TOURNEY DIVIDED INTO TWO LEAGUES

Only Seven Teams Entered in Intra-Mural Tourney; 16 Needed

Interest in the intra-mural and inter-basketball fraternity leagues which lulled during the vacation period has been renewed. The schedule will be drawn up the fore part of next week and play will commence at that time.

The fraternity tournament has been divided into two separate leagues, the Hilltop league composed of fraternities of the Hilltop campus, and the Valley league consisting of fraternities from the Pharmacy and Medical schools.

Fraternities entering the Valley league are Kappa Psi, Pharmacy, and Phi Chi, Phi Rho Sigma, Phi Beta Pi, Medical. Teams in the Hilltop league are Delta Sigma Pi, Commerce; Xi Psi Phi, Dentistry; Gamma Eta Gamma, Law; Delta Kappa Delta, Social. Delta Sigma Delta and Delta Theta Phi, national dentistry, and law fraternities will probably enter teams.

In the inter-class tournament only seven classes have entered teams to date. Sixteen teams are needed to make the league complete. Teams wishing to enter must notify the athletic office before Saturday noon, Jan. 10.

The winner in the inter-fraternity league will be presented with a silver loving cup, while individual members of the winning team in each group will be awarded gold medals.

Marquette and Minnesota puck teams battled to a 1-to-1 tie last week at Milwaukee. Both teams scored once in the second period.

Campus Inn Five Wins; Will Play College 'Inners'

By Gus Rosch

The long, coffee stained sleeves that belong to Fred "Flashy" Wagner, held one excellent scoring play that enabled his Campus Inn team to run up a 52-27 score against the hitherto undefeated Beanyery team in their game last Saturday morning before a crowd estimated at 25 spectators.

Before the game the Beanyery ranked as top favorite due to their long list of impressive wins. The first score of the game, however, propelled from the brawny arms of "Ethel" Johnson, sent the Wagner charges into a lead that they never relinquished.

The end of the first quarter found the score 13-7 for the Campus Inn team. The fast footwork of Joe Shepard, who made 10 points by dribbling toward the center of the floor and passing the ball to either Cortese or Miller, was outstanding. The Beanyery boys evidently were suffering from an overdose of favoritism that seemed to draw them away from the basketball game altogether.

The half-way mark found the Wagnerites leading by a score of 20-9. Substitutions were numerous, nearly 25 men being sent on the floor to quiet a riot when Thomas "Hard Luck" Gorham claimed a spectator had informed that a shoestring had become untied on one of his rubber-soled slippers. The trouble was soon settled when it was found that the string was still tied in a difficult half nelson.

The last quarter was the scene of a scoring bee that found Gus Rosch moving his size 13 brogans down the floor, tripping all the opposition and enabling his team-mates to score at will. The Beanyery boys managed to solve this trick of basketball long enough to accumulate 14 points during this period.

The scoring honors of the battle went to Miller, who tallied 18 points and he was followed by Cortese and Rosch, who tallied 12 apiece. Dehant, the jovial "beefy," found time to garner 4, and Harry "Dope Bucket" Johnson was credited with but two points before leaving the game to seek cooler climates.

Scheider played best for the Beanyery, being credited with six personal fouls and three field goals.

The next victims of the fast moving Campus Inn team probably will be the Burroughs-coached team representing the College Inn. The ticket sale, according to "Ham Hands" Garrison, is moving along rather briskly and a large crowd is looked for next Saturday.

MARK TWAIN IS WOW SUBJECT SAT.

Dean Fore Continues Lecture on Noted American Humorist

H. F. Fore, acting dean of graduate school and professor of English, renewed his educational talk on Mark Twain over WOW, Saturday, Jan. 17. His subject for the broadcast was "The Americanism of Mark Twain."

According to Mr. Fore, the United States, prior to the Civil War, so far as literature was concerned, consisted of two parts—the North and the South. The people of both sections were not interested in each other, except for the question of slavery, and that interest was not what might be regarded as wholly sympathetic and friendly. The feelings of the two sections were not mutual, consequently they had no desire to know anything about each other, and for that reason their literature was distinctly provincial. Soon after the war the West appeared to be reckoned with as a literary force. And the man who was to take leadership was Mark Twain. He, along with Bret Harte and Loquin Miller, discovered, it may be truly said, a new world.

It is the opinion of the dean of the graduate school that, although many humorists preceded Mark Twain he was the great American humorist. Nature made him a comedian. His very manner was humorous. He looked upon life from a viewpoint quite different from that of the conventional world about him; and he expressed his drolleries in a peculiar, half-southern drawl that was provocative of mirth.

Continuing his discussion Mr. Fore described Mark Twain's humor as a humor of drollery, of exaggeration, of understatement, of youthful abandon, of incongruities, contrasts, practical jokes and hoaxes. It is the humor of the elemental man. It is the humor that produces the loud laugh from the man of the street, not the laugh that expresses the inward mirth of the cultivated man. It is emotional, rather than intellectual; it is the obvious, rather than the delicate and subtle. It is the humor of horse-play and slap-stick.

The Oklahoma Aggies still hold their lead in the Missouri Valley title scramble by virtue of their early season victory over Grinnell. Close behind the Farmer cagers are the Creighton Bluejays with two wins and one loss.

Drake, with one victory in two starts brings up third, and Grinnell and Washington are tied for fourth with two setbacks against one win each.

The play of the Hilltop Jays featured the activities of the loop last week. Beaten back on its own floor by Washington, Creighton showed a sudden reversal of form during its week-end road trip by downing the Bulldogs of Drake, 26 to 18, on Friday, and then taking Grinnell, 30 to 26, on Saturday.

Two conference games loom up for this week-end. The Oklahoma Aggies will get a true test of their mettle when they encounter the Washington Bears at St. Louis Friday night. On the same night the great rivalry between the two Iowa schools in the conference, Drake and Grinnell, will be resumed, the meeting taking place at Grinnell.

Maurice Van Ackeren, Creighton stalwart forward, jumped into the lead in the scorers' race by raising his total points made in Valley contests to 27. Ted Sauselle, Washington red-head, dropped to second place with his 22 markers.

THIRTEEN TEAMS NOW ENTERED IN CAGE TOURNAMENT

Play Will Begin First Week in February Immediately After Retreat

Thirteen class heads were present at the meeting held last Thursday night to organize the intra-mural basketball league. They adopted rules and made plans to begin the tourney the first week in February, immediately following the annual Retreat.

The classes which now have teams entered in the elimination are: Freshman Dents, sophomore Dents, junior Dents, senior Dents, freshman Pharmacy, junior Pharmacy, senior Pharmacy, junior Commerce, senior Commerce, freshman Arts, junior Arts, junior Law and freshman Medics.

Those classes which have, as yet, failed to enter the tourney are: Sophomore Arts, senior Arts, sophomore Medics, junior Medics, senior Medics, freshman Law, senior Law, freshman Commerce and sophomore Commerce.

The tournament will be divided into two leagues this year, according to Duce Belford, and at the conclusion of the elimination the winners in each league will stage a big championship game to wind up the season. Members of the victorious team will receive medals.

The presidents of the classes named above which have not yet entered the tourney, but intend to do so, are urged to get in touch with Belford at once and turn in an application for their team.

CRIME STUDENTS HEAR POLICE CHIEF ALLEN

The need of more friendly relations between the public and the police force was stressed by Assistant Chief George W. Allen of the Omaha police department in a talk before students of criminology, Jan. 14, in the Arts college.

"The public, usually in a hurry to criticize the policeman, forgets that he must work alone, facing the criminal without the ready aid, advice and direction, which is received by the soldier in combat or the fireman at work," Mr. Allen said. "He must guard against surprise and when an emergency arrives he must make instant decisions and take charge of the situation. His errors are magnified, but his services are taken as matters of course by the public."

At the Theaters

RKO Orpheum Theater

Week Commencing Friday, Jan. 23
The fourth big hit of RKO Second Anniversary Greater Show Month, brings you for the week of Jan. 23, America's most popular young tenor, who is none other than Peter Higgins. This is Peter Higgins' last appearance prior to his radio picture debut. This youthful and handsome tenor, who has already flashed across the theatrical firmament as a radio, talking picture, recording and radio star, is hailed as one of the most popular singers of the day.

Next in brilliance on this forthcoming program, is that radiant array of real artistry, the doings of Maurice Colleano and his versatile family. Jack Usher comes along with two most delectable assistants in "Married Life." Usher, one of the funniest members of the Usher family which has contributed generously to RKO stages in the past is funnier than ever.

Jack Worthy and Ed Thompson, those two colored dancing stars, who did their part toward making Lew Leslie's famous "Blackbirds," the success that it was, are an additional feature. These boys dance as only Worthy and Thompson can dance.

"Free Love" is the screen attraction, with those two popular stars, Genevieve Tobin and Conrad Nagle. Both will be remembered for their remarkable work in "A Lady Surrenders." It is a delightful, satisfying solution of modern marriage, which everybody is discussing now.

Paramount Theater

If you can't laugh your head off with safety, leave it home before you go to see "The Bachelor Father," with Marion Davies, starting at the Paramount Thursday.

Miss Davies is a harem-scarem product of Hogan's alley, who is transplanted, as it were, upon an aristocratic estate in England, where a grumpy baronet, who believes he is her father by a distant marriage, tries to make a lady of her. She rebels at almost everything that transpires except in the case of an incipient romance with the baronet's young attorney.

C. Aubrey Smith distinguished British stage veteran, repeats his adroit performance on the screen. Ralph Forbes as the young attorney supplies the romance for the picture, which was capably directed by Robert Z. Leonard, who also directed "The Divorcee." Others in the cast are Nina Quatro, David Torrence, Ray Milland, James Gordon and others.

World Theater

All those sayings about good things coming in small packages and the more modern "Little, but oh, my!" will be brought forcefully to the attention of Omaha theatergoers Friday when Ike Rose's Midgets arrive at the World Theater.

These little men and women are representing seven different countries including Italy, Germany, Hungary, Java, Ireland, Poland and America. They have their own band, dancers and special scenery.

In addition to the Midgets there will be other acts of high standard vaudeville.

The screen offering in connection with this showing will be Clara Bow in "No Limit."

The story concerns the fortune and loves of a little usherette in a big metropolitan movie palace and later ends up in a notorious but fashionable gambling palace.

Miss Bow is surrounded with a splendid supporting cast, including Norman Foster, Stuart Erwin and Harry Green.
