The concerts are designed to be of enough to allow even the busiest students, businessmen and townspeople to hear them.

Letters of invitation have been sent to every parish in Omaha, all the churches and professional men's clubs, fraternal organizations and schools. Officials are making preparations to handle a record crowd.

Classical numbers will be varied in the latest in popular sheet music, as well as the marches of John Philip Sousa, famous bandmaster and composer.

A raised platform has been built the football field. Students in the grand course of the R. O. T. C. act as ushers.

The committee on credentials has warned all that admission requirements will be strictly enforced. None who come "dressed up," in rented cars or taxicabs will be admitted, they say.

The club expects one of the largest crowds of the year, according to the chairman, who is in charge of the dance tonight.

"Minick," Last Play of Year is Scheduled for Thursday and Friday

SHAUGHNESSY HAS LEAD

"Minick," comedy drama, will be presented by the University Dramatic Club Thursday and Friday of this week in the University auditorium. Because of a conflict in requests for the auditorium dates, officials at one time last week ordered the production to be given Friday and Saturday nights, but they were able later to guarantee the original dates.

Students are asked to disregard signs which were posted giving the dates as Friday and Saturday.

Paul Shaughnessy will be seen in the leading role of old man Minick, and will be ably supported by Kathleen Shaw, Dorothy Hussie, Kathryn Southard, James Cash, John Gillin, and Patrick Heaton. "Mickey" Maguire and Charles Juergens will portray a couple of Minick's old cronies. Rowena Foley, Helen Wilson, laughs as a trio of parliamentary and Helen Foley should collect many law club women, and Gene Vana is the protesting maid.

"Minick" is from the dual pens of George S. Kaufman and Edna Ferber, and the entire cast has been rehearsing faithfully every day in order that this final production of the year may be the most successful. As usual student tickets will be honored on either Thursday or Friday night.

The Omaha Alumni senate of Delta Theta Phi will take an active part in the program.

TO ENLARGE FACULTY FOR JOURNALISM

Two New Instructors Will Be Added to College of Commerce, Finance, Journalism

Two more professors will be added to the faculty of the present College of Finance, Commerce, and Journalism, and a complete course of journalism subjects will be offered beginning next fall, according to an announcement from Floyd E. Walsh, dean. Mr. Walsh returned Tuesday from a tour of eastern schools of journalism in which he conferred with several of the leaders in this line, as well as eastern newspaper men.

One of the new instructors will be assigned to strictly commerce subjects, and one to the technical courses for journalistic aspirants. A complete schedule of courses is contained in the catalogue which went to press last week, and will be ready for distribution soon.

The School of Journalism, it was pointed out by Mr. Walsh, will be not a new school but rather an enlargement of the present schedule. The college was founded in 1920 as a night school, and the day school began operations three years later.

The journalism department will be combined with both the present Arts college, and the present Commerce college under the plans.

Students interested in the study may register in either college, take the required course there for a degree from that department, and take electives in the journalism school. Graduates will be issued a certificate of Journalism upon completion of a total of twenty-four credit hours. Indications point to a large enrollment of journalism students next fall.

ADD INSTRUCTORS FOR SUMMER SCHOOL

Two expert instructors, Sister Richard Marie, of St. John's Parochial School, and Dr. E. A. Weinke, instructor in education, have been added to the list of summer session instructors published last week. Sister Richard Marie is a kindergarten expert and will have charge of the instruction in kindergarten work. Dr. Weinke will direct the graduate courses.

Other instructors added are Dean Floyd Walsh of the Commerce college, Rev. A. S. Hahn, S. J., Dr. Chas. F. Crowley, and Rev. Francis Bausch, S. J.

The summer session will open June 20 instead of July 20, as published in the Creightonian last week.

EULOGIZE MOTHERS IN SUNDAY SERVICE

Five Hundred Attend Annual Mother's Day Exercises on North Lawn

"A mother's heart holds the highest place among mortal hearts because the love that flows from a mother's heart is the purest, the most powerful of human loves," said the Rev. Joseph A. Herbers, dean of men, addressing the Mother's Day crowd on the north lawn of the twenty-fifth street campus Sunday. Despite threatening skies more than five hundred people attended.

Father Herbers spoke of Mary, the mother of Christ, as the Mother of the whole human race, and compared her care over it to that shown by an earthly mother to her children.

The eulogy was followed by hymns, sung by the entire assemblage, and solemn benediction of the Blessed Sacrament in the college chapel, St. John's church. President Grace was celebrant, assisted by the Rev. T. J. Moore, S. J., Arts college professor, and Father Herbers.

Logue New Vice - President; Schmidt Chosen Secretary, and Figge Treasurer

CASH WAR VETERAN

Paul J. Cash, Law junior student and World War veteran, was elected President of the Creighton Students Union last night at the first regular meeting of the newly chosen Board of Governors.

Charles R. Logue, Pharmacy junior, of Jackson, Nebr., was chosen vice-president of the Board. Logue is known as one of the most popular students at Creighton.

Wendel A. Schmidt, Dental junior, of Chamberlain, S. D., won the secretaryship. Schmidt is best known at C. U. for his athletic prowess, being prominent in track and fistic circles.

Reginald B. Figge, Commerce junior, of Ossian, Iowa, was unanimous choice for treasurer. Figge came to Creighton from Campion College and has merited many honors here through his ability and popularity.

Cash came to Creighton four years ago from Anamosa, Iowa, where he had been engaged in the newspaper business with his father following his discharge from the U. S. Navy. At that time he was Commander of the American Legion Post there, having the distinction of being the youngest post commander in Iowa.

Since coming to Creighton the new president has been active in nearly all branches of student activity. In his first year he was a class officer.

NOTICE!

participated in intramural debating and athletics and was a member of the first Bluejay staff.

In February of his second year he was named editor-in-chief of the Creightonian and served as head of the Creighton weekly for a year. Upon the failure of Don Berry, his successor as editor, to return to school last fall he again took up the duties as editor and served until February of the present semester. During his administration as head of the Creightonian the paper received first place in competition with the other papers of the North Central Press Association as well as an award as distinguished newspaper. He is the present business manager of the paper.

In the spring issue of Shadows he was placed in the first "Hall of Fame" honor roll.

He is a member of the Omaha Post of the American Legion, has been a member of the Knights of Columbus for nearly ten years, serving as Grand Knight of his home town council for two years. Cash is also a member of the La Societe des 40 Hommes at 8 Chevaux, and an officer in the Creighton chapter of the Gamma Eta Gamma legal fraternity.

"The Poor Nut" at the Brandeis Next Week

Harvey Leahy, William Kirwin, Frank Carroll, Maurice Powers, William Dozier and John Dugan. Frank Carroll, popular cheer leader, has been chosen to display his wares in the same capacity in "The Poor Nut". In the play he will direct the yells of a representative group of Creighton rooters who will occupy the stands during the dual track meet between Creighton and Marquette. In the original script the plot of the comedy centered around Ohio State and Wisconsin. Elliot Nugent, a student at Ohio State University, wrote "The Poor Nut" in collaboration with his father, J. C. Nugent. The younger Nugent, who received his "O" for the recognition he brought his school, took the leading part of the "poor nut" when the play was produced at the Henry Miller theatre in New York on April 27, 1925. He was formerly in the cast of the Chicago company of "Dulcy". Extensive arrangements are being made to handle capacity crowds at the Brandeis all next week as such a unique production will attract the entire student body and hosts of alumni.

"C. U. Ideal Location For Journalism School"

Eastern newspaper men and college authorities whom Dean Floyd E. Walsh visited last week were enthusiastic over the possibilities of a journalism school at Creighton.

H. F. Harrington, dean of the new Medill School of Journalism at Northwestern university thought that Omaha is the logical site for the hola middle west. "You have every advantage that we have here in Chicago," said Mr. Harrington. "Omaha newspapers have all news services that Chicago papers have. They are complete metropolitan papers in every respect, and would offer every advantage for observation. In addition as Omaha is smaller than Chicago, students will find it easier to get practical experience on the dailies. I am strong for Creighton."

EDUCATION CLASS TO HOLD PICNIC SOON

The "methods and principles class" under the direction of Dr. E. A. Weinke, are planning a picnic for the near future. Melvin Sears, Clara Harte, and Grace Matous are in charge. The same group will attend in a body the play, "The Poor Nut" being sponsored by Creighton at the Brandeis theatre next week.

is based upon conversations which the writer has had with a number of athletes of today and yesterday. In some universities the trainer is given as much credit for the condition and playing of the team, as is the coach. In a spirit of earnest co-operation we would suggest the addition of a competent trainer to the Creighton athletic plant, and that the department would go a step farther and insist upon frequent physical examinations for athletes. At the same time we suggest a program of education to insure that athletes do not minimize the danger of a scratch or bruise, which untreated can easily develop into far more serious proportions.
 Our final thought is that if by a consideration of Edwin Cutshaw's death, there can be instilled into the minds of students and future athletes of Creighton university and other institutions where the intercollegiate and intramural athletic systems are followed, a calm, yet reasonable caution and regard for their physical well-being, in the matter seemingly unimportant as well as major health essentials, then, it can indeed be said, "he did not die in vain."

CONNING THE CAMPUS SHADOWS

Shadows! Filmy, phantastic shapes that distort and obliterate—vague silhouettes of half-hidden objects trying to make themselves seen. Then there are shadows which magnify and bring out esoteric qualities like mantles, that, while cloaking, suggest.
 And there is a place on our campus that makes "Shadows". It is a dingy, cluttered room in the Arts college where "copy" is gathered for our quarterly magazine. You will find "Shadows" of other years there too—delineations that are now dim because there is no one here to recognize them. Files and files of dusty magazines with that symbolic title across the cover repose unobtrusively in neat rows. A shadowy past lies within their pages, but gone are the interpreters.
 "Copy" is pushed in through a slot in the door. Unknown editors glean it from unknown sources, but when the quarter is up the shadow is complete, and we may read it easily enough.
 Before each issue is published, a meeting is held at night in the still library where no one is around to disturb the gatherers of "copy". Low voices discuss literature and literary policies. Methods are proposed which will induce new contributors to cast their tints and skiagrams on future pages. Advertising crops up in the lulls and pauses, but that is a topic for editors. Besides, the advertising manager look to making the ends meet. Nebulous articles are more fitting for discussion than many advertisements, however necessary they be.

 The meeting terminates. Soft footfalls are audible as the audience files out. The search for "copy" goes on relentlessly. Material, trash, which material is what the editor wants. He rejects "stuff" and calls for literature.
 When the "deadline" is reached all "copy" is sent to the printer. Further shades are smeared on it, but the proof reader brightens up the dull spots. The magazine is printed neat, and the murky type through its cloud on the glossy paper to bring out in bold relief the shimmering reflections of the literati.
 Now all is finished. The circulating manager distributes the publication so that students may read and pour over its contents. Once more "Shadows" casts its contours and profiles over the campus. The reader is complete. Shadows fall gently and merge with the crepuscular twilight until night comes when everything is shadow.

"Patsy" at Brandeis

In presenting "The Patsy" this week at the Brandeis theatre the Clewman-Walsh Players are offering one of the newest plays to their patrons, as the original New York company of the production is now playing in Chicago. The term "patsy" is slang for the proverbial "goat", and the comedy presents a delightfully amusing plot from a decidedly different angle.

A charming little nineteen year old girl is the brunt of her mother's social ambition, her father's neglect, and her older sister's spite. She has a 'lonesome complex' and invests in a set of books guaranteed to make one popular, whereby she awakens the parental love of her father but merits another kind of devotion from her sister's sweetheart.

Although the name of Marie Stewart was omitted from the program, this young lady appears her best as Patricia Harrington, the girl who became tired of taking the blame for everything. Her characterization throughout is splendid, and especially so in the love-making experiment. William C. Walsh is her hen-pecked father, who after twenty-five years of subjugation asserts himself as a triumphant husband. Claire Sinclair provides the majority of laughs in the play as his eternally nagging wife. Iva Garrett has the difficult role of the selfish, ambitious, older sister, and she packs an abundance of sarcasm into her lines.

The Tony Anderson of Charles Harrison is due to increase the growing popularity of this prominent member of the company. Mr. Harrison is boyishly fresh as the suitor of first one of the sisters and then the other, and is just dumb enough to make the plot plausible. Stanley Smith is convincing as his successful rival for the hand of the older Harrington, and Dora Clewman, Millard Vincents, and William F. Thompson, make brief but impressive appearances.

COSMO PICNIC ON ASCENSION THURSDAY

The annual outdoor frolic of the language clubs, the Cosmopolitan picnic, will be held at Elmwood park, May 26, Ascension Thursday. Contests, games, races and a "big feed" are on the bill for the day's entertainment.

BEAUX ART DIRECTOR TALS AT MT. ST. MARYS

"To say that Art has no foundation in real life is a confession of blindness to the inspiring things in life," said Alvin Goesser, director of the Beaux Arts club, addressing an audience of 400 at Mount St. Mary's college last Wednesday. Mother love, which is so much celebrated by poets and painters has greater examples in life than those given us by artists, he said.

"Weeping Niobe on lonely Mount Sipilus has innumerable progeny in the homes of America today. Antigone is an actuality," he declared.

CAUTIONS STUDENTS ABOUT ACCIDENTS

"Don't hurl yourself into eternity at a railroad grade crossing. Be careful," urged John A. Bennowitz, contract attorney for the Union Pacific system at the regular Arts college assembly last Thursday in the auditorium. Mr. Bennowitz, a graduate of 1903, and a former teacher in the Law and Commerce colleges, spoke on behalf of the Safety First division of the National Railway Association.

The number of people killed at grade crossing accidents in 1926 was 2,492, almost the total enrollment at Creighton, he said. More than six thousand more were injured. "You would not ride with a man with small pox. Riding with a careless driver is just as bad," he declared.

...LA 'ERSKINE SIX'—SON ÉLÉGANCE EST SANS REPROCHE'—L'AUTO, PARIS

"Hey, hey... SMART! Lots of good looks, trim lines, sophisticated air... plenty pep, too, I bet!"
"Right, but you're a bit late... she's wearing a Duke pin now."
"I mean the car, you ham—that new Erskine Coupe!"

JUNE DAYS... Youth steps on the gas. A round of golf... sailing, with rails awash... tennis... a dip in the surf... a spin down the road at twilight...
June nights... white flannels... a dance at the country club. A riot of music... white hot. The girl with the asbestos slippers... on with the dance. Then home—the way silvered with June moonlight—in your Erskine Sport Coupe.

Dietrich, America's peerless custom designer, has styled it with the sophisticated Parisian manner for America's youth. Trim as a silk glove, yet at no sacrifice of roominess... two in the commodious lounge seat and two more in the rumble seat—just a foursome.

Youthful in its eager performance too. Rides any road at sixty—smoothly as a drifting canoe. Goes through traffic like a co-ed through her allowance. Skyrockets up the steepest hill like a climbing pursuit plane. Stops in its own length, turns in its own shadow and parks where you want to park.

Joyous June, All too short... lots of glorious living to be crowded into one month. Make the most of it—with an Erskine Coupe—the car that matches the spirit of Youth.

The Erskine Six Sport Coupe, as illustrated, sells for $995 f. o. b. factory, complete with front and rear bumpers and self-energizing 4-wheel brakes. See it at any Studebaker showroom.

CAGE PRACTICE ENDS; "SCHABBE" GLOOMY

A two weeks session of spring basketball practice came to a close last Friday. A. A. Schabinger, cage mentor, fairly exuded gloom after the practice had closed, indicating that the next year's team will not measure up to the calibre of this year's title winning outfit.

Capt. Al Brown, Syd Corenman and Jack Ryan are lost to the team this year. Letter men back are headed by "Honest Joe" Beha, captain elect and second to none as a guard, Louie Trautman, center, Hugh Fogarty, forward, Bud Deising, center and forward, Harry Trautman, forward and guard, Fred Kampf, forward. New men out and fresh fill up the ranks to give the Blue coach a fairly large squad of tried men to start work on when the next hard court campaign rolls around.

SOPHS MAKE MERRY WITH S. DAK. STATE

Visitors Offer Little Resistance to Bluejays' Balanced Squad

By Robert G. Phipps
Totally undepressed either because Captain Sas Keane was out of the competition or because of threatening skies and a soggy field, the sophomores on the Bluejay track team made merry with the laddies from South Dakota State last Saturday in the stadium, running off with the dual meet by a score of 93 to 87. Every first garnerer was turned in by a soph, and most of the seconds and thirds as well.

Osmond Flint, flashy Pharmacy youth, won high honors with 12 1/2 points, winning first in the two dashes, trying for second in the broad jump and running on the winning relay team. Flint looked impressive in both dashes, and considering the track, turned in the best times of the day. He clocked 101.1 in the century and 22.7 in the furlong.

Weldon Solomon won both hurdle races for the Blues. Jimmy Bertoglio, in his first time out for track this spring, came within six inches of Sas Keane's conference record in the road jump. He won the event with a leap of 22 ft. 8 inches. Bill Lynch, another surprise winner, took a fancy to the javelin throw, walked over to where it was being held and cast the bean pole 130 feet to take first.

Creighton scored a "slam" in five events, the two dashes, the two jumps and the pole vault. The Hilltoppers took ten first places.

With their ace on the sidelines, a victim of injuries at the Drake games the Staters made almost no bid to take the meet. Their efforts were confined mostly to the work of Schweinfurt, conference holder in both the shot and discus. Sorbel, distance man two-miler, Sorbel took both his favorite events, the half and the mile, but only after a stubborn resistance offered by Hugh Fogarty. Fogarty ran a heady race, holding the lead almost to the last. Sorbel out-sprinted the Blue representative to break the yarn in the last one hundred yards.

State had nothing to offer in the shorter runs. Reed won easily in the 440. "Butter" Butterfield placed second to please the stadium fans. In the mile relay, the quartet, Fisch, Schroeder, Reed and Flint, ran a pretty race and forced the visitors to relinquish all hopes of winning when Flint took the stick to run as anchor man. Fisch gave Schroeder a good lead who passed it and then some, when he gave the stick to Reed. Flint thrilled the spectators with his running, stretching out along the curve in a way that made many think of it was "Sas" himself.

The summary:
100-yard Dash: Flint (C), first; Schroeder (C), second; Solomon (C), third. Time: 1:5.5.

Me
and the joy-friend...
Prince Albert

WHEN my father was in college, "Put that in your pipe and smoke it!" was considered snappy conversation. I'm ready to take this old line literally when the talk centers around Prince Albert. Because P. A. makes two of what I like in a pipe.

All wise-cracking aside, P. A. is the money when it comes to deep-down satisfaction in a smoke. It's got everything! Cool as the trail of the ice-man across the kitchen. Sweet as vacation. Fragrant as a pine forest.

Think up your own similes. You'll write them all in the column headed "Superlative Degree" when you learn the joys of a jimmy-pipe and Prince Albert. If you don't know this grand old smoke, come around to my room and I'll give you a load.
