McFarland to address Booster Days audience

Nation's top speaker has rich background in business, economics

Dr. Kenneth McFarland, recognized by the American Junior Chamber of Commerce as the nation's foremost public speaker, will address a Student Center audience Feb. 24.

Dr. McFarland's talk will highlight the second annual Business Administration Booster Days activities at Creighton.

Educational consultant and lecturer for General Motors, Dr. McFarland has built a reputation as a superior public speaker upon his conviction that effective speech is a great medium for beneficial public service.

Stresses opportunity

Following a belief that no greater service can be rendered to others than to provide the awareness of the nation's rich heritage and opportunities; he has inspired audiences to live by a philosophy that will help them gain fully their own capabilities.

Dr. McFarland's broad educational background includes a bachelor's degree from the Kansas State Teachers' College; a master's degree from Columbia University, and a doctorate from Stanford University. He has also received numerous honorary degrees.

Described as "the teacher who has made the whole continent into a personal classroom," he achieved a national reputation when he designed and built the trade school in Coffeyville, Kans., which has since been named after him.

Outstanding salesman

Dr. McFarland is a church leader, businessman, personnel consultant, civic leader, industrial advisor, farmer, and stock raiser.

The McFarland farm near Topeka, Kan. is renowned for its Hereford cattle and prize-winning Tennessee Walking Horses.

A leader in the field of sales, Kenneth McFarland was named "America's Outstanding Salesman" by the National Sales Executives in 1957.

"Speaker's speaker"

Sincerity, helpfulness, and humor characterize Dr. McFarland's speeches. He has helped others interested in the field of public speaking to such an extent that he has earned the title of "the speaker's speaker."

Activities scheduled for Tuesday evening, Feb. 23, include a panel discussion entitled "Personal Relations in Business."

Speakers for the session are Howard H. McCully, marketing vice president, Fairmont Foods; J. O. Grantham, personnel director, Northern Natural Gas; and Bill Murphy, personnel director, Mutual of Omaha.

Dr. Kenneth McFarland, business, civic, agricultural leader, and the nation's foremost public speaker.

Experiments to highlight Pharmacy School event

Pharmacy students will conduct experiments to illustrate sources of cardiac drugs at the School's first open house since 1955, according to Dr. Tully J. Speaker, director of the program.

Scheduled for Feb. 13 from 2-7 p.m., open house will feature demonstrations which show the relationship of cardiovascular and cardiotoxic agents.

Also included will be demonstrations showing the identity, extraction and purification of these drugs' active principles; their effect on the heart and blood vessels, preparation of suitable dosage forms for their administration; and quality control of the finished product.

Representing typical student experiments and conducted by the pharmacy students, other demonstrations will include: response of the turtle heart; circulation in the frog; recordings of blood pressure; microscopic exam of crude drugs producing cardiotoxic agents; and tablet production and tablet granulation.

"The practice of pharmacy has radically changed in the last decade, and the profession has now moved from a position as a branch of applied chemistry to an even more important role in the work of medicine and biological sciences," Dr. Salvatore J. Greco, dean of the School of Pharmacy, said.

The open house is designed to show how pharmaceutical education and preparation of the practicing pharmacist has changed to keep in step with the profession's extended scope, he said.

All students and faculty, Creighton alumni, pharmacists and high school science teachers in the Omaha area and high school students interested in pharmacy or the healing arts have been invited.

Free refreshments will be provided by the Coca-Cola and Sealtest companies.

Grad announcements

The Campus Store and Medical Book Store are now taking orders for graduation announcements, Manager Don Kobold said Wednesday.

Orders for the printed announcements will be taken up to March 1, Kobold said.

T. W. Emery is placement officer

T. W. Emery, a Creighton alumnus, will assume his duties as job placement director for seniors and alumni Feb. 15, on a part-time basis.

Until his retirement Jan. 31, Emery had been affiliated with

Registrar announces enrollment drops 300

The all-university enrollment for the spring semester is approximately 300 less than the 1959 fall semester, according to Jack N. Williams, registrar.

Williams said this decrease has been a normal trend during the past years with percentage of decrease about five per cent each year.

The comparative figures for the year's semesters according to the registrar's enrollment data release are:

	Fall '59	Spring '60
Arts and Sciences	1356	1256
St. Catherine's Hospital	110	63
St. Joseph's Hospital	130	52
Mercy Hospital	26	22

(Note: The nursing school totals are not to be taken as totals for those particular schools. They are independent schools and only their students that are enrolled in courses at Creighton are included here. Creighton's Department of Nursing students are included in the Arts and Sciences total.)

Two frosh to play leads in 'Carnival'

Arts freshmen Judy Sieben and Paul Clements have been selected to play the leads in the forthcoming production of "Thieves Carnival," according to the Rev. Anthony P. Weber, S.J., co-director of dramatics.

Miss Sieben and Clements will portray Lady Hurf and Peterbono, respectively. The juvenile leads will be played by Mary Lynch as Juliette and Tom Zimmerman as Gustave. Both are Arts freshmen.

Supporting cast members are: Tom Guilfoyle, A1; Roger Bradley and Marian Schiel, A2; Bob Bowe and Steve Cannon, A3, and Roger Guilfoyle, A4.

The light humorous-romantic farce will be staged on the campus March 10-13. Admission for the French play will be $1 for the general public and 75 cents for students.

Ralph Ellsworth, Jr., choreographer, will direct dance numbers.

Non-speaking extras will be chosen from those who appeared at the try-outs, Father Weber said. He added that those interested in helping in publicity, ticket, stage and makeup work should contact him.

Candidates must file applications: Registrar

Candidates who expect to graduate at the end of the second semester must file degree applications and cap and gown cards by March 1, Jack N. Williams, registrar, has announced.

Degree candidates must first obtain graduation fee tickets ($15) from the Business Office. On presenting the tickets at the Registrar's office, they will be given the necessary forms.

Seniors who applied for degrees earlier but did not graduate must file new applications if they expect to receive a degree in June 1960, Williams said.

Candidates must attend the annual university commencement June 1 to graduate, he said.

Jesuit professor wins fellowship

The Rev. Richard L. Porter, S.J., director of the department of economics, has been awarded a Ford Foundation Fellowship for the Faculty Research Seminar at the University of Michigan, June 20-August 12.

"National Income: Problems of Stability and Growth" will be the subject of the seminar.

The award carries with it a cash grant of $1,100 for the summer and expenses for the follow-up meetings during the academic year, 1960-61.

KOCU news rescheduled

Campus radio station KOCU has rescheduled its newscasts, according to G. Benjamin Paxton, assistant professor of radio and television speech.

The United Press International teletype machine, which has recently resumed operation under the sponsorship of Liggett and Myers Tobacco Co., will supply news for the broadcasts.

Newscasts over KOCU are scheduled for 12:30 p.m. Monday through Friday, and 7, 8, 9 and 10 p.m. Monday through Thursday, Paxton said.

The 7 p.m. evening news period will be followed by a sportscast.

Pat Green and Pat Baxter discuss their scheduled trip to Washington.

Will go to Washington, D.C.—

Conference bids give students cause for joy

Millions of letters are delivered every day, and the great majority of them do not attract undue attention, even from their recipients. But when official-looking letters arrived at the homes of two Creighton students during semester break, the Hilltoppers had just cause for excitement.

The letters' contents were the delegates' official invitations to attend the Golden Anniversary White House Conference for Youth and Children in Washington, D.C. from March 27-April 2.

Pat Baxter, Arts 4th year, and Pat Green, A1, were selected delegates to the 1960 Conference which has been called by President Dwight D. Eisenhower. The White House Conferences, usually called by the President of the United States every ten years, began in 1909 when Theodore Roosevelt initiated the practice.

Sent by Federation, State
Miss Baxter will represent the National Federation of Settlements and Neighborhood Houses. She is to sit in on a campus on settlements Saturday, March 26. Then the conference officially opens Sunday morning at the University of Maryland.

Green is Nebraska's delegate. The nineteen-year old Omaha boy served as one of four major delegates to the Nebraska Governor's Youth Conference in 1959.

Each state, as well as Puerto Rico, has a conference which is based on the national White House Conference set-up, he said. "Since early in 1959 our committee has been preparing material which is used in the high school modern problems classes."

Group leader

For the past three years Miss Baxter has been employed by the Omaha Social Settlement as a group leader. Working with children of all ages, she teaches an arts and a crafts class and handles club activities.

Green, who is majoring in economics, is not employed during the scholastic term, but devotes his time to study.

"I'm taking a pre-legal program as I plan to enter law school after being graduated," he said. "Union Pacific and I get along well in the summer months, though," he added.

Participate in six sessions

Each delegate has been asked to sign up for six workgroups from the 210 that will be conducted. Green said, "I signed up for those which seemed most interesting to me. They deal mostly with juvenile delinquency."

Miss Baxter has enrolled in "The Effects of Mobility on Health and Living Conditions," "Current Trends in Marriage and Family Size and Their Influence on the Young," "Health, Welfare, Housing and Recreational Situations that Limit Opportunities for Children and Youth," "Resources for Leisure Time Learning and Recreation," "Immediate Personnel Needs and Ways of Meeting Them," and "Emotionally Disturbed Children and Youth: Causes, Diagnosis and Prevention."

Flattered, surprised

Miss Baxter said she was very flattered to have received the invitation to attend the Conference. "I feel that there are others more qualified to go than I," she said.

Green, too, is humble about having been chosen. He said, "I was rather surprised, because there are a good number of others who are more active in youth work than I. Certainly, though, I was pleased."

The White House Conference is important, because, as Miss Baxter said, "This Conference does all the planning and welfare work that is going to take place in the next ten years. People in law, governmental agencies, education, medicine, and others will be represented."

Green said, "With any problem it is always well to gather experts in the field and have them examine the problem. This gives the government a chance to examine the youth problem of today. The Conference has its traditional value, also."

Approximately 700 delegates for youth and children will attend the Conference.

While in Washington, both delegates plan to do a bit of sightseeing if time allows. Green hopes to visit the United States Supreme Court and Sen. John Kennedy (D.Mass.) whom he has met before.

Arts sophomore wins general physics prize

David Olive, Arts 2nd year, received a Chemical Rubber Co. Award for superior work in general physics Feb. 5.

Olive was presented the 41st edition of the Handbook of Chemistry and Physics by the Rev. Clarence M. Wagener, S.J., acting director of the department of physics.

The annual award is given for superior physics grades, laboratory performance, and initiative and originality in physics work.

Fraternity head schedules lost, found service hours

The lost and found department, operated by Alpha Phi Omega, service fraternity, will be open from 10 a.m.-2 p.m. Tuesdays and Thursdays, President Ted Lownik, Arts sophomore, announced this week.

Fraternity members will attend the department, located on the ground level of the Student Center, except during exam weeks and holidays.

Calling all photographers

The Creightonian needs two photographers who have some knowledge of the Speed-Graphic camera, and basic darkroom technique.

The darkroom is equipped with the latest equipment, and the work is interesting. Newsroom, A330 of the Administration Building.

Creighton enters bridge tourney

Creighton is one of the more than 125 colleges and universities throughout the United States which has entered the 1960 National Intercollegiate Bridge Tournament.

A practice session will be held Sunday in the Student Center at 1:30 p.m.

All official play will be by mail and will be conducted on individual campuses in a single session Feb. 24.

Qualified players

The Rev. Francis J. Moriarty, S.J., associate professor of philosophy and tournament director for Creighton, said that all who qualify are invited to participate in the contest.

According to the contest rules, a student must meet his college's eligibility requirements governing participation in comparable intercollegiate activities.

He must also be a full-time undergraduate at the time of the contest.

Father Moriarty said that those interested in entering should contact him.

Second entrance

Last year marked the first time Creighton competed in this tournament.

Although none of the Creighton teams placed in the regional or national contest, the university received a plaque listing names of the winners in campus competition.

Last year's winners were north-south partners Jeanne Luckett, Arts junior, and Richard Mansour, Pharmacy senior. East-west winners were Robert J. Bowe, A3, and Richard Settgast, Business Administration sophomore.

Fine Arts Festival favors all facets of 'Comedy'

Interests of Hilltoppers and faculty members tend to become bigger and better each year as they branch out to encompass more things.

The Fine Arts Festival, in its third annual appearance at Creighton, will come onto the scene from March 1-13. From its original premier in March 1958 the Festival's program has grown from three to nine items.

The 1958 performance saw three topics discussed, "Ballads," "Cinema as Art" and "Architecture as Art."

Theme is "Comedy"

The 1960 Fine Arts Festival will utilize "Comedy" as its theme.

According to Lloyd J. Hubenka, instructor in English, and Gordon N. Bergquist, assistant professor of English, Festival co-chairmen, "The students should find it both entertaining and educational. We hope for the educational. We guarantee entertainment."

The first program scheduled is the "Burlesque," concerned with slapstick comedy. Depicting comics of the Twenties in action, a movie, "The Golden Age of Comedy" will be shown. Short features on W. C. Fields and the Laurel and Hardy team will also be presented. Robert Reilly, director of public relations, will introduce this program.

A series on "Theories of Comedy" will be the second program. The various theories of Plato, Aristotle, Bergson, Baudelaire, Meredith, Kierkegaard and Freud will be discussed.

Panel discussion

Bergquist, Dr. Mary Ellen Parquet, assistant professor of English; Fred C. Herx, instructor in philosophy; and Hubenka, will lead a panel discussion on theories of comedy.

A lecture on "Comedy in Prose and Poetry" will be given by the Rev. Richard C. Harrington, S.J., dean of the graduate school, and Dr. Edward P. J. Corbett, associate professor of English.

The "Satirical Comedy," as the fourth program, will feature three films, "The Nature of Satire," "The Nature of the Satirist" and "Swift." The Rev. Paul F. Smith, S.J., director of the department of English, will introduce and comment on the films.

Pathetic comedy and Chaplin
The Rev. Robert D. Crozier, S.J., teaching fellow in English, will introduce the topic, "The Pathetic Comedy," which is to be accompanied by a 40-45 minute movie on the antics of Charlie Chaplin.

"Comedy in Art" will be discussed by George E. Graham, instructor in English, as another program in the Festival. Three movies will be shown, "Humor and Satire in Art," "Experimental Commercials" and one which is devoted to William Hogarth.

Other programs scheduled are "Greek Comedy" and "Comedy in Music."

As a finale to the Festival the movie "Teahouse of the August Moon" will be shown. The Rev. Leonard A. Waters, S.J., associate professor of English, will conclude the festival with a summary on "Comedy."

Creighton hires new biology prof

Dr. Robert Belknap, a native Omahian, is teaching advanced biology courses at Creighton this semester. Dr. Allen B. Schlesinger, director of the Department of Biology, said this week.

A Creighton alumnus, Belknap received his bachelor of science degree in 1949, and his masters of science in physiology in 1951.

Dr. Belknap, who is teaching comparative anatomy and advanced physiology, will partially replace Dr. John F. Sheehan, research associate professor of clinical cytology. Dr. Schlesinger said.

Dr. Sheehan has recently begun teaching at the School of Medicine.

Annual buys new equipment

A new 35 millimeter camera has been added to the yearbook's list of camera equipment, according to Business Administration junior Mary Ann Voeller, editor.

Featuring an f/2 lens, the camera will be used for informal campus shots, Miss Voeller said.

The purchase was made with funds allocated by the Student Board of Governors.

Other new equipment purchased includes a reflex camera, attachments, film holders and a drawing board set.

Reporting on the Blue Jay's progress, Miss Voeller said that half of the copy has gone to press.

The staff has met its deadlines, and all copy must be at the publishers April 4, she said.

Writers and photographers experienced in operating the 35 millimeter camera are needed, she added.

Coed Sodality collects stamps for missions

Students can help the missions by collecting stamps, according to Arts sophomore Karen Johnson, Coed Sodality project chairman.

The Sodality is collecting used postage stamps for the Jesuit Stamp Bureau in St. Louis, which in turn sells them to stamp collectors.

All stamps except the presidential one, two, three and four cent series are needed.

Stamps may be deposited in boxes which have been placed next to the main stairway in the Administration Building and in various campus dormitories.

Miss Redetzke receives award

Arts senior Cecilia Redetzke Thursday was awarded a $100 scholarship by the Associated Nebraska Industrial Editors.

A journalism major, Miss Redetzke is serving her second semester as news editor of The Creightonian. She has also served on the staff of the university newspaper as society editor and reporter.

The ANIE scholarship is given annually to a journalism senior at Creighton and the University of Omaha. Its purpose is to encourage promising students who have an interest in industrial journalism.

Student Health office to administer flu shots

Students who have not received flu shots may do so Monday, Feb. 15, from 2-5 p.m. at the Student Health office, according to Dorothy E. Vossen, director of the department of nursing.

The shots, which were priced at 25 cents each, were given to approximately 220 students Monday, Miss Vossen said. This number is somewhat lower than the number who received shots in September.

Miss Vossen said the shots give protection against several types of flu including the Asiatic variety, and are effective for as long as three months.

Dr. Parquet car-hopped through study of character

By JEANNE LUCKETT
Staff Reporter

"I was a teen age car hop," confesses Dr. Mary Ellen Parquet, assistant professor of English.

During her sixteenth summer and part of the fall Dr. Parquet served customers at the counter and the curb of an ice cream drive-in, which is now a used car lot.

"Every place I've worked is now a parking lot," she laughed. "If Creighton is taken over by a parking lot, I'll be very sad."

Her car-hopping days gave Dr. Parquet invaluable experience in meeting people, she said. "In my job, I met people in the rough—the quick and the dead, the drunk and the sober."

Character study

Dr. Parquet, who delights in character study, said while acting as a servant to these people, it is possible to see them as they really are. "You forget your stereotype judgments."

By observation, she learned the important lesson that riches and social prestige are not true indicators of a person's character.

Dr. Parquet had almost become accustomed to the orders for pine floats (tooth picks floating in water), and glasses of water turned upside down on the table.

But one day, she related, a young man came into the restaurant and ordered a chocolate malt. There was nothing unusual about this, until he pulled an egg out of his pocket and said, "Put this in the malt."

Assuming this was another prank, Dr. Parquet laughed and said, "Do you want me to put it in, shell and all?"

As it turned out, Dr. Parquet said, the man was on a "get-rich-quick calorie plan, and I had insulted a sick man." She recalls that this incident was more embarrassing than spilling a tray of food on a customer.

Strike

A strike was staged at the drive-in during the summer, and the lone striker was none other than Dr. Mary Ellen Parquet, who had decided she was worth more money than she was receiving.

After giving her boss two-weeks notice, Dr. Parquet said she was given one bluff after another until the cash register closed on her last night. The boss, seeing that his most valuable car-hop remained staunch even in her last hour, asked her to come back the following day on her own terms. She did.

Night-time and Sunday afternoon work tore into her social life, but Dr. Parquet recalls the many compensations. There was an abundance of social life on the job itself; she gained a new insight into people; and earning her own money gave her a feeling of self-reliance.

"Another happy instance she remembered happened around closing time every night. "It was fun to count up the tips," she said, "and know that other people thought I had done a good job."

Students like big band

What would Homecoming be without the parade? According to Leonard Suchanek, Law second year, it would be similar to the Junior-Senior prom without a big name dance band.

The majority of students interviewed this week agreed that the prom's success hinges on hiring a big name band.

Many stated that a nationally-known orchestra is an integral part of the prom and that students expect it.

Arts sophomore Tim Joachim said that while the prom's success should not depend solely on the dance band, star entertainers draw better crowds and create a different atmosphere.

When state universities hire big name bands, non-students as well as students attend the dances, according to Jim Stanosheck, Medicine 2nd year.

Stanosheck added that big bands add glamour and are well worth the expense.

Pharmacy freshman Ron Givlisco agreed with Stanosheck. "The better the band, the better the crowd. A small band just isn't as good," he said. "Students wait all year for the prom because it is the only social event of the year which features a name band," according to Judy Hladik, P2.

"The band shouldn't be the only factor which determines the prom's success, although name bands draw larger attendance," Business Administration junior Delores Birks said.

Freshman medical student Bob Recker answered that the dance's success hinges on hiring a name band because it has become traditional and students would not attend otherwise.

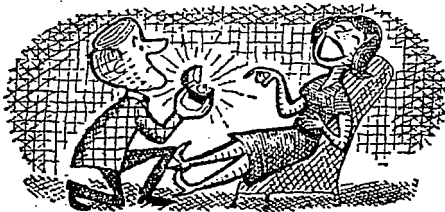

Arts junior Bill Slattery was the only dissenter: "Since the Junior-Senior prom is Creighton's biggest social event of the year, I don't see why the lack of a big name band would affect its success."

LUCKY STRIKE presents Dear Dr. Frood:

FROOD TELLS HOW TO CLEAN UP ON YOUR LAUNDRY

(see below)

Dear Dr. Frood: I told my girl I was in love, and she laughed. I told her I wanted to get married, and she laughed. How can I make her realize that I'm serious?
Serious

Dear Serious: Marry someone.

Dear Dr. Frood: I have been having trouble sleeping at night. Do you think it could be because I drink coffee?
Wide-Eyed

Dear Wide-Eyed: Possibly. It's very difficult to sleep while drinking coffee.

Dear Dr. Frood: A lot of the guys complain because their mothers don't pack their laundry boxes properly. Is there a certain way they should be packed?
Spokesman

Dear Spokesman: Indeed there is. Clip out the instructions below and mail them to your mother.

Clip and Mail

Instructions:

1. Place bills of varying denominations in shirt collars (A) to keep them stiff.
2. Wrap socks around rolls of dimes (B) to keep them from getting mismatched.
3. Place other change in pockets (C) of khaki pants. This way it won't roll around and rattle in the box.

Dear Dr. Frood: Do you believe in the old adage, "Choose a girl by ear rather than by eye"?
Shopping

Dear Shopping: This maxim is indeed a fine guide for any young man who is looking for a girl. But while choosing by "ear rather than by eye," he should also make sure she has two of each.

Dear Dr. Frood: Every night I come home tired and I find the house in a mess. There are dirty dishes and pans in the sink, and clothes are thrown all around. I'm fed up. What should I do?
Married Student

Dear Married Student: You should notify the police. Someone has obviously been there.

Dr. Frood, Ph.T.T.

Dear Dr. Frood: How far ahead should I call for a date?
Straight Arrow

Dear Straight Arrow: It depends. Some girls must be called at least a week in advance. With others, you just holler as you enter the dorm.

Dear Dr. Frood: My husband is an absent-minded college professor. He went out 7 years ago to buy a pack of Luckies and hasn't returned yet. I don't know what to do.
Patience

Dear Patience: Better buy another pack. He's probably smoked them all by now.

Success is requirement for support of Bluejays

The sweet smell of success seems to be the only thing that can entice most Creighton students to support their basketball team.

Remember when the Bluejays defeated Colorado State and broke a hundred for the first time? Basketball was the major topic of conversation for days.

The enthusiasm continued through the victories over the Air Force Academy and Texas Christian. Not even the defeat by Loyola of Chicago managed to dampen the spirits of the Creighton rooters.

Defeats at the hands of South Dakota, Xavier, Detroit and St. Louis caused the question, "What's the matter with those guys, anyway?" to circulate the campus.

A thrilling game between Seattle and Creighton with the Bluejays emerging as victors managed to revive the flagging spirits for a while.

Losses to Seattle, Portland, Gonzaga and Idaho State on a western road tour dropped the Bluejay popularity rating to a new low.

It is ironic that victory should be the only condition for student support. A fairly typical attitude seems to be, "If you win," we're with you; if you don't, we won't support you."

True, many students support the teams no matter what its win-loss record may be. But most of these people are basketball fans. Their interest in basketball is enough to carry them through the losing periods.

Most of the students are interested in Creighton's basketball team because it represents their school. It seems odd then that their support should be manifested only when the team is winning.

The Bluejays faced the season with a new coach and the toughest schedule they have played in a long time. They need time and encouragement.

Spirit, especially school spirit, is an emotion very easily stirred by externals. But winning should not be the basis upon which students give their support to the team.

The Bluejays are representatives of Creighton and should be supported on that basis, whether they win or lose.

Fashion yourself after self portrait

by REV. J. CLEMENT RYAN, S.J.
University Spiritual director

Why don't you really try to be the person that you have always wanted yourself to be—In some forgotten corner in that vast recess of your mind, one night you stored away a most noble self-portrait that you had fashioned, fabricated and painted of yourself. That portrait is a true likeness of all that you had always wanted to be. How close could you fit into the outlines of that picture today?

For some good and valid reason God gave you the paints, supplies the hammer and the chisel, provided the rough materials of that picture of yourself. He could not and would not force you to make that self portrait of you become alive in your living, but He did commit Himself that He would help you to achieve that rich likeness of yourself in living form.

All is not lost and you still can, even at this late hour of your life, bring that touch of true greatness into your life. The process is similar to salvaging a treasured picture from the attic. You carefully carry it out into the light. You dust off the cobwebs, polish the glass, oil the frame, retouch the faded areas, cut off the accumulations of age, and perhaps modernize the frame so that it will match present day trends and tastes.

This process of becoming yourself will take real courage and self determination. You have to know what God wants of you: you have to want what He wants, and you have to be determined to give to God that which He wants from you. You have to put away your inane fears and be willing to admit the unvarnished truth. There is much good in you yet, but you have picked up so much excess baggage in your journey through life, that the good is sometimes hard to find. Get rid of the rubble in your make-up. Be determined that with God's help you will be that grand person that you have always wanted to be.

Campus groups boost university activities

Working quietly behind the scenes, doing their job well and with little effort to grab the limelight, several campus organizations have done much to enrich the spiritual, cultural and mental life at Creighton.

The Business Administration Booster Days, sponsored by Alpha Kappa Psi and Delta Sigma Pi fraternities, is but one example of the work and planning which go into such efforts.

Attracting businessmen and top speakers to the campus, the Booster Days serve to encourage outside interest in Creighton as well as to stimulate intelligent thinking about business by such panel discussions as "Personnel Relations in Business."

Besides bringing an internationally known speaker to Creighton each year, Alpha Sigma Nu, Jesuit honor society for men, is sponsoring a series of outstanding movies. Artistically and technically sound, the movies should give Creightonians the opportunity to see the best of a fairly modern medium.

For originating the Missa Recitata at the Thursday and Friday student Masses, the Men's Arts Sodality should also be commended. The sheets containing the responses and the direction of the leaders demonstrate an effort to make the project as successful as possible.

The Xavier Forum, which Wednesday sponsored a talk by Dr. Nicholas Dietz on birth control, and Delta Sigma Rho, which sponsors a series of Monday evening discussions, have instigated considerable thought on timely and serious problems.

The list is impressive. These organizations have done much to add to the flavor of university life.

Monday morning editors

This space is reserved for Creightonian readers who wish to submit opinions and comments on any subject of interest.

Letters should be limited to 150 words. In certain cases where the writer feels that adequate treatment of his subject requires more than the usual 150 words, his letter will be printed on this page as a signed editorial if the editors deem it to be of special interest.

Anonymous letters will not be accepted under any circumstances. Noms de plume will be permitted in certain cases and the writer's name held in confidence.

The Creightonian reserves the right to condense letters. Letters must be in the News Room on the third floor of the Administration Building by noon Monday to be considered for publication in the following Friday's issue.

Attack and defend

To the Editor

Only occasionally do I read something in your paper to which I can take exception. One such item is the letter signed by Tim Rouse, A2, in the issue of Feb. 5.

I do not claim the wisdom of Solomon in judging the content of the letter, but I do feel that some of the misunderstanding that is so popular in certain circles around the campus is mirrored in the contradictory passages of the letter in question.

Mr. Rouse began his letter with a paternal commendation of your paper for "chiding"—an interesting word connoting scolding rather than correcting—the class officers. Then he went on to explain that the paper should shoulder more of the blame, since it did not heap glory on the fair heads of the election winners.

Finally he stated that the selfless officers weren't seeking popularity in their offices. Then he backed up his contention by stating that he personally talked to some fifty people, including the officers who were "discouraged" because they had not received front page coverage.

Come now, Mr. Rouse, do people who are not interested in popularity polls worry about whether or not they make the front page of the school paper? This is not the answer to the question of the inertia of the officers.

Mr. Rouse turned to the resolution of the Student Life Committee regarding the creation of duties for the class officers who have nothing to do except to worry about not being popular or to complain to Mr. Rouse because they were "disappointed" with their entombment on page three of The Creightonian.

If my memory serves me right, the only project the class officers have undertaken since I have come to Creighton was the Arts Ball of last year which left a deficit that still remains on the heads of the officers.

Not only these officers but also the august governors of the Student Board demonstrate a lack of administrative ability. Two items mentioned in the Feb. 5 issue of your paper show this weakness. The Student Board is in a maze of confusion regarding the preparations for the prom and has twice run invalid elections.

Other trivia bogging down the Student Board have been the childish carping regarding the nature and purpose of the Student Union Building Fund and such things as having menus printed in advance, etc., etc., ad nauseam.

If our student leaders are in such a muddle now, let us relieve them of further duties and maybe they will remain harmless.

In other words, it is evident our student leaders have their failings which will be corrected neither by publicity or by adding duties as Mr. Rouse suggests.

All that is required is that everybody involved act his age and forget about becoming penny-ante Castros in this school.

My humble capsule summary of this letter: The position of Mr. Rouse—ridiculous; the position of The Creightonian—objective, the position of the student officers—pitiful.

Dave Holloway, A2

Greetings, Valentines

While tipping our hats to December "New Yorker,"
We offer our friends this Valentine corker.
Though sidewalks are icy and winter snows fall,
Warm hearts on the campus are beating this call:
To Dean Father Roach goes our valentine greeting,
To Father McKenney the same we're repeating.
And even though parking fine tickets are due,
Be mine, Father Miller, and Father Linn too.
To Clare Mahoney, a heart-shaped receipt,
As rising tuition we struggle to meet.
Athletic hearts bursting for Belford, the head,
We send you our love, Father Lemke and Red.
With reasoned emotion, greet Father Renard,
Fathers Vaske and Davlin on our list are starred.
Our arms we outstretch to Creighton's fine nurses—
Ouch!; next Father Murphy, controller of purses;
Fathers Deglman, Ginsterblum, sweethearts of all;
Colonel Adams and Allison, hearts they enthral.
A large box of chocolates for Egan, M.D.,
A mouthful of pebbles for Mr. McGee.
To the English department we send a bouquet:
Fathers Harrington, Waters, Smith, Williams, S.J.
We court Mr. Courtney, Dean Walsh and John King;
Doctors Lynch, Byrd and Stormberg, your praises we sing.
To Dean Mrs. Hamilton, valentine roses,
To Mary Ann Voeller, some valentine poses.
O'Kief and O'Connor, McMahon, Sei and Dowd,
Greetings to you and the rest of your crowd.
Oh Fathers Fitzgibbons and Kelley be our Valentines. Fathers Ryan, Jung, Sharp and Dachauer; DiMauro, McCarten, Charvat and McGreer,
And Fathers Spitznagle, Quinn; Mr. Cloutier:
Our valentine wishes to you we extend;
To Deans Doyle and Greco more greetings we send.
The biggest heart's for Father Reinert, our prex;
And love to each student, regardless of sex.
Our catalogue's finished, don't think it a crime.
If your name wasn't mentioned. It just didn't rhyme.

Greek Notes

Xi Psi Phi

James-O. Brown, Dentistry junior from Glendive, Mont., has been elected president of Xi Psi Phi dental fraternity.

Completing the list of new officers are Jack Kingery, D2, Spokane, Wash., vice president; Louis F. DiGiacomo, D3, Napa, Calif., secretary; and Aaron Walter, D2, Bridgewater, S.D., treasurer.

Donald L. Hearon, Dentistry junior, from Tacoma, Wash., was elected athletic director; Herman J. Blankenau, D3, editor; and Robert Langenfeld, D3, Carroll, Ia., social chairman.

Alpha Kappa Psi

A business meeting of Alpha Kappa Psi fraternity was held in the Student Center, Wednesday, Feb. 3.

Arrangements are being made by Don Schaefer, Business Administration senior, for a pledge smoker to be held Feb. 17.

Committees for the coming semester were rearranged by Tom Hogan, fraternity president.

Jack Atkins, Bus Ad senior, showed slides of Homecoming and the National Convention of Alpha Kappa Psi held in Seattle, Wash., last fall.

Atkins also gave a report on the progress of Bus Ad Booster Days, and encouraged the members to participate fully in the coming activities.

Iota Kappa Epsilon

Iota Kappa Epsilon, service fraternity, sponsored its second annual "Rush Smoker" Thursday, Feb. 4, in the Student Center.

Master of ceremonies Bill Balak, Arts senior, traced the fraternity's history for the crowd of approximately 80 actives and prospective pledges.

Past and present social chairmen Joe Beuttas, A4, and John Riley, A2, out-

Initiates honored at dinner

Dining, dancing and the presentation of awards comprised the tri-sorority dinner-dance program Saturday, Feb. 6, at the Sheraton-Fontenelle Hotel.

Sorority members and their guests danced to the music of Bob Schiller's band after the dinners which honored initiates of Alpha Sigma Alpha, Theta Phi Alpha and Theta Upsilon.

Five initiates received awards from their respective sororities.

For outstanding pledge-ship, Judy Kay Ramer, Arts freshman, received the Margaret Maguire award from Alpha Sigma Alpha.

Theta Phi Alpha named Arts freshman Marla K. Artzer its outstanding pledge, and honored Patty O'Brien, A2, who earned her pledge class's highest quality point average last semester.

Theta Upsilon's awards went to Roberta Eckerman, A1, outstanding pledge, and Mary Ann Meister, A2, for her high scholastic average.

Arts senior Sandy Walenz was chosen "Sweetheart of Alpha Sigma Alpha."

Rush Notice

Second semester rush parties have been scheduled as follows: Theta Phi Alpha, Monday, Feb. 15; Theta Upsilon, Wednesday, Feb. 17; and Alpha Sigma Alpha, Thursday, Feb. 18. All parties will be held in the faculty dining room from 4 to 6:30 p.m.

The rushees' preference letters are due in Mrs. Hamilton's office by 10 a.m. Wednesday, Feb. 24. Each rushee must list all three sororities in the order of her preference.

Deadline approaches

The deadline for entrants in the Mademoiselle College Fiction Contest has been set for midnight, March 1.

All women undergraduates under 26 are eligible to enter the contest, which will be judged by the editors of Mademoiselle. The two winners will be given $500 each for serial rights to their stories, which will be published in Mademoiselle.

But all I wanted to do was say I was the first to study in Creighton's new library.

Rings 'n Things

Caniglia-Reilly

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Caniglia have announced the engagement of their daughter JoAnn to Kevin D. Reilly, son of Mr. and Mrs. Brian Reilly.

Miss Caniglia, a senior in the College of Arts and Sciences, is a member of the Women's Recreation Association and NSEA.

Her fiance, a 1959 summa cum laude graduate of Creighton, is presently attending the University of Nebraska Graduate School, where he holds a Woodrow Wilson Fellowship in physics.

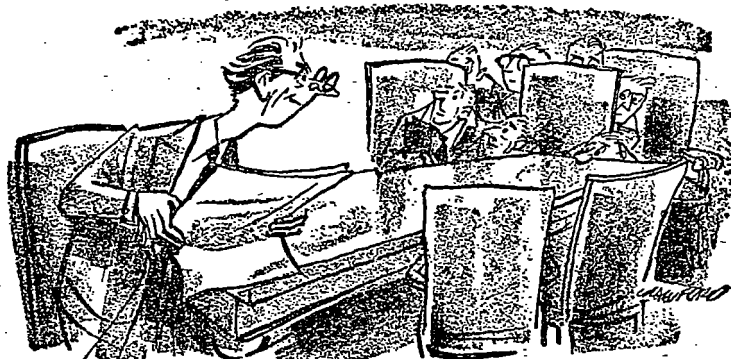

If you have an item for Greek Notes or Rings 'n Things, please call The Creightonian newsroom or the Society Editor. Deadline for articles published in Friday's paper is 10 p.m. Tuesday.

COMMITTEES: AN AGONIZING REAPPRAISAL

To those of you who stay out of your student government because you believe the committee system is just an excuse for inaction, let me cite an example to prove that a committee, properly led and directed, can be a great force for good.

Last week the Student Council met at the Duluth College of Veterinary Medicine and Belles-Lettres to discuss purchasing a new doormat for the students union. It was, I assure you, a desperate problem because Sherwin K. Sigafoos, janitor of the students union, threatened flatly to quit unless a new doormat was installed immediately. "I'm sick and tired of mopping that dirty old floor," said Mr. Sigafoos, sobbing convulsively. (Mr. Sigafoos, once a jolly outgoing sort, has been crying almost steadily since the recent death of his pet wart hog who had been his constant companion for 22 years. Actually, Mr. Sigafoos is much better off without the wart hog, who tusked him viciously at least once a day, but a companionship of 22 years is, I suppose, not lightly relinquished. The college tried to give Mr. Sigafoos a new wart hog—a frisky little fellow with floppy ears and a waggly tail—but Mr. Sigafoos only turned his back and cried the harder.)

Invictus Millstone was a man of action

But I digress. The Student Council met, discussed the doormat for eight or ten hours, and then referred it to a committee. There were some who scoffed then and said nothing would ever be heard of the doormat again, but they reckoned without Invictus Millstone.

Invictus Millstone, chairman of the doormat committee, was a man of action—lithe and lean and keen and, naturally, a smoker of Marlboro Cigarettes. Why do I say "naturally"? Because, dear friends, active men and active women don't have time to fuss and fumble and experiment with cigarettes. They need to be sure their cigarettes will never fail them—that the flavor will always be mild and mellow—that the filter will always filter—that the pack will always be soft or flip-top. In short, they need to be sure it's Marlboro—dependable, constant, tried and true Marlboro. Smoke one. You'll see.

Well sir, Invictus Millstone chaired his doormat committee with such vigor and dispatch that, when the Student Council met only one week later, he was able to rise and deliver the following recommendations:

1. That the college build new schools of botany, hydraulic engineering, tropical medicine, Indo-Germanic languages, and millinery.
2. That the college drop football, put a roof on the stadium, and turn it into a low-cost housing project for married students.
3. That the college raise faculty salaries by $5000 per year across the board.
4. That the college secede from the United States.
5. That the question of a doormat for the students union be referred to a subcommittee.

So let us hear no more defeatist talk about the committee system. It can be made to work!

You don't need a committee to tell you how good Marlboros are. You just need yourself, a Marlboro, and a match... Or if you like mildness but you don't like filters, try Marlboro's sister cigarette—Philip Morris.

A face in the crowd—

Congenial vet blends travel, job and study

By JANE RECKER
Staff Reporter

His ready smile, ivy league sweaters and briar pipe are probably the most familiar aspects of Tom Lickteig.

A third-year Arts student, Tom joined the faces in the Hilltop crowd after four years in the U.S. Army. Three of these years were spent overseas as a chaplain's assistant.

In addition to attending classes, Lickteig works part-time as a passenger agent for United Airlines.

Over a cup of coffee in the Student Center, the soft-spoken 25-year-old Croi-Vet can tell many stories of his travels and experiences in the Army and in his job with the airlines.

Sees Broadway

Many dream of spending at least one vacation during their college careers in a far-away place. Because of his work, Lickteig was able to realize this dream.

Using his United Airlines travel pass, Lickteig flew to New York for a four-day vacation between semesters this year. During this time he saw three Broadway plays.

He served Mass in St. Patrick's Cathedral for the priest to whom he had been chaplain's assistant overseas. Lickteig remarked that it was the first time he had served Mass for his friend while in the United States.

Nine countries

In his position as chaplain's assistant, Lickteig served at various times in nine European countries: England, France, Spain, Germany, Austria, Italy, Portugal, Switzerland and Norway.

The ex-soldier enjoyed each country for a different reason.

Tom Lickteig

He liked England because there was no language barrier, but declared emphatically that Italy has the most beautiful girls.

While Lickteig was in the Army, he helped to promote "the biggest, best Holy Name Society in Europe." He said that the Society was known for its merits as far away as Africa.

Through his Army training and his work with the airlines, Lickteig has traveled extensively. He hopes to broaden his travels when he finishes school. He hopes to some day attend law school, provided that he maintains his "single status, a good job, and reasonable grades."

Tom Lickteig's heavy schedule of classes and part-time work limits his studying time and social activities. Yet he asserts: "I wouldn't give up my job for anything. We college students prepare ourselves for a profession by studying from books; we learn how to deal with people through actual experience gained only by working with people on a job."

Club watches Greco act

The Spanish Club met Feb. 4 to discuss plans for a club dinner and for the showing of a film to a student audience.

After the meeting, the members attended a local performance of Spanish dancer Jose Greco.

The Feb. 14 Spanish Club meeting will feature talks by Camilo Gazaine and George San Martin from Panama. Topics will be the country of Panama and the Spanish bullfighter, Cantinflas.

The snows came—

Creightonians were greeted Wednesday morning with the second substantial snowfall of the year.

Churning tires on California St., precarious footing and cold, cold did not prevent the beauty of campus snow scenes from rousing the romantic in many a Hilltopper.

Below, students trudge through the white cold on their ways to and from the Student Center's warmth.

Find full- and part-time work—

CU job hunters use 2 employment offices

Creighton students who need financial assistance while in college, and those who are looking for full-time work after graduation may find the Student Placement Service offices the most likely places to take their problems.

As other university departments, the placement offices have looked for relief from "growing pains."

Two offices now serve as placement centers: the Student Service Office in the Student Center handles requests for part-time job offers, and the Student Placement Service office in the gymnasium furnishes job possibilities for graduating students.

Help students, employers

Both offices perform a two-fold service: students contact them for job possibilities and companies or individuals looking for employees also list their needs with them.

Students seeking part-time work file information about their preferences and qualifications. When a firm files a corresponding request indicating a job possibility, the student contacts the firm offering the job.

Clerical employment ranks high on the business firms' "help wanted" lists, but the types of work range from sales-work and custodial services to bartending and babysitting.

Initiative, responsibility

The part-time employment service's success depends on student initiative. Keeping in touch with the office and notifying it when he accepts a job is the student's responsibility.

By accepting this responsibility he makes it easier for the staff to keep accurate records and thus enables other students to obtain work sooner.

A recent addition to the Service Office in the Student Center is the bulletin board where brochures and bulletins

Something new—

Building decor brightened by Regents' picture panel

The Administration Building's newest addition is a panel of pictures which lines the south wall of the corridor from the switchboard to the President's office.

These 42 pictures represent past and current members of the Board of Regents, according to the Very Rev. Carl M. Reinert, S.J., university president.

Valued at more than $500, they were donated by an unidentified benefactor. They were collected and chosen by a committee composed of wives of present board members working with Mrs. Maurine Hamilton, dean of women,

Father Reinert said.

Identification

He said a bronze plaque identifying the men as board members will soon be placed near the switchboard.

Individual nameplates on which will be inscribed the man's name and dates of service will accompany each picture.

Remaining frames will be used for new members as they are appointed, Father Reinert said.

The veteran asks

Q—I am going to college under the Korean GI Bill. If I take a part-time job this summer will I have to report those earnings to the VA?

A—No. Students taking classroom college training under the Korean GI Bill need not report outside earnings, and outside earnings do not affect allowance checks in any way.

Q—Is there any special procedure for notifying my VA district office of my change of address? I have a GI insurance policy.

A—No special procedure is necessary. However, it will be best and most convenient if you will use the premium payment envelope VA sends you. Print or type your new address on the inside flap, sign and mail it to the VA, which will change its records accordingly.

NEXT WEEK The Creightonian will announce plans for the 1960 Campus Capers, presented by Alpha Psi Omega.

Full-time work

Prospective graduates looking for permanent work may find the Student Placement Office helpful. Under the direction of John Potter, the office schedules student interviews with company representatives.

The university calendar lists times, places, dates and names of firms sending representatives to interview students.

Representatives from the Montgomery Ward Co., the Internal Revenue Service and Burroughs Office Machines have visited Creighton during February.

Future interview dates and companies sponsoring the interviews are: Arthur Young and Co., Feb. 16; IBM Corporation, Feb. 17; Arthur Anderson and Co., Feb. 18; the Public Housing Administration, Feb. 24; Aetna Life Insurance Co., Feb. 25; and Haskins and Sells, Feb. 29.

K. C. Athletic players hold Court on Creighton campus

Carroll, Tuttle, Daley in Omaha

Parks Carroll, Kansas City Athletic General Manager, brought two of his bread and butter ball players to Omaha and Creighton University this week.

Bill Tuttle and Bud Daley accompanied Carroll on another leg of a midwestern tour.

Tuttle, who batted .300 for the Kansas City club last season, and Daley, a 16-game winner, took turns handling the questions of Creighton's baseball fans at a special session in the Student Center parlor.

Queries about Yankee-Kansas City trades, Kansas City chances this year, the third major league, bonus ball players and baseball for the Omaha territory were among the questions both on and off the beaten baseball track.

Yankee trades

The first question, one the group has been facing throughout the 72-stop promotion tour, concerned the latest trade with the Yankees.

Tuttle and Daley, whose bearing suggested they might be members of the Kansas City chamber of commerce rather than the K. C. ball club, dug in and analyzed the trades made by the club.

The barter of Roger Maris to the Yankee organization, along with two other players in return for the services of Hank Bauer, Don Larsen, Norm Seibern, and Marv Throneberry was described as "the best trade made by any club" over the layoff.

"We got at least three regulars and only gave up one, and we strengthened our pitching, hitting and outfield depth with the trade," said Tuttle.

Speaking of the Yankee trades, Tuttle laughed, "Maybe we can trade them out of the first division."

Third major league

When one of the listeners asked about the third major league, Daley quipped, "It's a good deal for us. We'll have some place to play after our major league days are over." He went further, "The league will probably be a group of 45 year old has-beens and 18 year old clean-up hitters."

Tuttle picked up the next question concerning the fate of the bonus babies, and dropped a little advice to the young man with big league potential. Bill, who attended Bradley University, placed a $25,000 value on a college education.

"If you are offered a bonus or less than that in high school or as a college freshman, don't accept it."

The group came to Omaha for promotion purposes. Close to 40 per cent of ticket sales are to non-Kansas City residents. Omaha, open territory since the departure of the Cardinal's AAA club, was fair game for the Athletic boosters.

Omaha—"baseball town"

Carroll, general manager, expressed the opinion that "Omaha is too much of a baseball town" to be without an upper division farm club for very long. You have a fine ball park, and the enthusiasm for a ball team still runs high here."

When asked about the American League scramble this summer the ball players, always optimistic about their own chances, were otherwise undecided.

"Detroit looks good on paper. Chicago won't win 40 one-run games again. Cleveland is close to another pennant. We are as close as we've been for a few years."

The visit to the campus was sponsored by CUHLA, Creighton lettermen's organization.

Alpha Kappa Psi tops Trojan Interfrat play

Alpha Kappa Psi continued their winning ways in the Trojan division of the Interfrat League with a 59-15 lacing of Phi Chi.

Don Schaefer dropped 21 for the winner and Pat McGreevy contributed seven to a losing cause.

Delta Sigma Delta I also stayed among the leaders with a 40-24 victory over Delta Sigma Pi.

John McCoy led a balanced attack with 12 points for the winners. Tom Mahoney countered with 10.

IKES win out

IKES I and IKES II kept their hopes alive in their division with wins.

IKES II outscored Phi Rho III 52-32 as Denny Rooney collected 22 points for the winners. Ron Smith led a losing Phi Rho cause with a half dozen counters.

IKES II had easier sledding as they won from Zips III via a 2-0 forfeit.

The Zips I had better fortunes than their understudies. Dick Kilpatrick dumped 11 in a 44-21 triumph over Phi Beta Pi. Paul Fee topped the Phi Beta's with six.

Phi Rho comes close

Two Phi Rho teams provided most of the excitement in a slate of otherwise lop-sided scores. Phi Rho II dropped a close game to Phi Alpha Delta 33-32. Lou Alexander of the losers matched Jim Casey and Jack Connor for game honors with nine points.

Phi Rho I also came a little short in their court battle with Delta Sigma Delta II. Gerry Larson's 11 markers were enough to lead his team-mates to a 32-28 win.

Delta Theta Phi won by forfeit over Phi Delta Chi as did Delta Sigma Pi II over Alpha Phi Omega.

Jays pursue .500 mark as court season wanes

The week of opportunity has come for Red McManus and his Bluejay squad. Including last night's outing against South Dakota, Creighton will play three games in six days.

The roundball fortunes are looking up, and Red hopes to have his team above the .500 mark after next Tuesday's tussle with Omaha University on the Civic Auditorium boards.

Barring some twist of the court jester's tail, Creighton could easily end the season with a 12-12 accounting. Analyzed in the light of the tougher competition the Bluejays met this season, the record is not a poor one.

The last three teams on the schedule will undoubtedly provide the roughest competition. The trip, invading the domains of DePaul and Notre Dame, would leave very few first year coaches with a confident feeling.

The season finale with

Marquette at the Civic Auditorium is also a little less than grade A liquid for a coach's ulcer.

The Marquette team that invaded the Auditorium last year was fortunate to get out with their scalps. This might be the year for the big trim.
