This year's McShane Speech contest will hold the attention of several Omaha service clubs. Each contestant's speech will be about the philosophy and activities of a specific service organization.

This plan has met with the approval of all service clubs concerned. Mr. Edwin Puls, director of the speech department, has received many letters of acknowledgement.

After the preliminaries held Jan. 7 in the radio speech room, the six contestants drew for their organization to represent. The winners and organizations are: Roger Vipand, Lions Club; E. J. Mohanna, the Optimist Club; T. D. Sullivan, Kiwanis Club; J. B. Maloney, Cosmopolitan Club; John McBride, Rotary Club; and G. W. Armstrong, the Co-operative Club. Board of Judges Comments On Paper

Three Creighton college students, a senior, a junior, and a sophomore, placed second, fifth, and sixth in the mid-west Jesuit intercollegiate English contest.

Bryan M. Riley, A 4, last year's winner of the Jefferson-Mullen Essay contest, won $20. William L. Kelligar, A 3, collected $5, while James O. Emerson, A 2, finished just out of the money.

The Creighton board of judges made the following comments on the papers:

Mr. Riley's paper was attractive because of the verve, style, and judicious use of anecdotes to illustrate his points.

Mr. Kelligar submitted the most carefully documented paper. His theme concerned the train of thought between praise and blame of Catholic colleges in the development of leadership.

Mr. Emerson, in the oratorical style befitting a good debator, gave an excellent account of the Catholic leadership controversy which has been running in the Jesuit magazine "America."

These three papers were selected from the dozen submitted here and sent for final judgment to St. Louis university.

EXAMS, REGISTRATION

The revised examination schedule appears on page 4 of today's Creightonian. Report all conflicts to your dean immediately. A $1 fine will be charged for all exams missed excluding conflicts. Students with more than three exams scheduled for one day should report to the dean's office.

"Antigone" Practice Resumes Jan. 26

Currently in rehearsal, the stage presentation, "Antigone," is swinging along with rapidity. The play will be presented Feb. 22 in the Joslyn Memorial.

Gene Edwards, director of the play, expressed his gratitude to the cast this week, and said he was proud of the effort thus far extended toward making the production a success. Practice will be discontinued during the week of exams and resumed on Monday, Jan. 26.

Honor Jays After St. Louis U. Tilt

The basketball squad of Creighton university will be honored by the student body at a dance in the main ballroom of the Fontenelle hotel immediately after the Jay-St. Louis game Jan. 31.

Members of the team and Coach Duce Belford will be presented tokens of appreciation for their spirit and play by the students of the Hilltop.

Although the dance is being sponsored by the Student Union Board of Governors, it was suggested to the board by a group of students who conferred with the group at a recent meeting. Board President Bill Jurgensen, M 4, is in charge of the arrangements.

Official dancing time is between 10 p. m. and 1 a. m. Jimmy White and his orchestra will furnish the music and price of admission is set only to cover the costs of the program. Tickets are one dollar for a tag and two dollars per couple, and can be obtained at the bookstore or from board members.

Fr. Linn Resigns As Co-Director Of Labor School

The Rev. Henry W. Linn, S. J., founder of Creighton's Institute of Industrial Relations, announced his resignation from the co-directorship of CIIR. The Rev. Austin E. Miller, S. J., former assistant director, will assume full control.

Registration will be Feb. 12 for the seventh ten-week session which will begin Thursday, Feb. 19.

Invitations are being extended to a greater number of the members of Omaha's chamber of commerce in an effort to enhance the industrial relations aspect of CIIR.

Father Miller stated that he was very pleased with the number of Creighton students enrolled in the last session of the school, but that it is impossible to over-emphasize the need that CIIR can fulfill for students, most especially majors in law and commerce. In modern industrial relations " . . . ignorance is a vice as well as malice."

At present there are 26 institutes of industrial relations under the auspices of Jesuit schools in the United States. Among them are such newcomers as Loyola University of the South at New

Last Saturday night the Ak-Sar-Ben coliseum was packed for a hockey game between the Omaha Knights and the Kansas City Pla-Mors. Over two-thirds of the 6,000 strong crowd were in their seats minutes before the teams were scheduled to skate on to the ice.

The fans were seated there at the request of the Omaha sports writers and newscasters, there in order to pay tribute to a fighting team.

Creighton will have a chance to show its appreciation of its only representative in the field of sports, the basketball squad of Duçe Belford, immediately following the Bluejay-St. Louis Billiken game, Jan. 31. The place will be the main ballroom of the Fontenelle hotel, where an appreciation dance will be held. Tokens of appreciation will be given to the squad members and Coach Belford.

Surely if the people of Omaha can pay their respects to a professional hockey team that represents them in name only, the students of Creighton university will turn out to hail a bunch of fellow students, who as amateur players on an amateur team, represent them in name and spirit. Attend the "Appreciation Dance."

Education For Public Purpose

In the recent report of the president's commission on higher education there was voiced a sentiment which has long prevailed among American educators. Namely, that the goals of modern college students are too profit-seeking. "All too often the benefits of education have been sought and used for personal and private profit, to the neglect of public and social service." "Teaching and learning must be invested with public purpose." So reads one section of the committee's report.

Such a revelation is not startling. This feeling has been expressed widely in the past by leading educators. It is the source of this latest pronouncement which renders it so noteworthy. That the government is questioning the traditional American educational system, constitutes a victory not only for the present administration, but for the educators as well. The commission, is in fact, taking issue with the Constitutional clause guaranteeing one the right to the pursuit of happiness. The commission has had the courage to intimate that perhaps it has been this very principle which, far from being our strength, has through mis-interpretation, become the fundamental weakness of our society.

A Man of Peace

Blood runs through the streets of newly freed India like water down a drain as racial, religious, and nationalistic bigotry takes the lives of hundreds of Indians every day. Men blinded by their fanaticism have forgotten all too soon India's long struggle for independence and are putting their nation on the road to anarchy and eventual destruction.

One man, the pathetically heroic figure of weakened Mohandas Gandhi, raises his voice in protest to all the bloodshed. But his is a powerful voice. Many times in the past, this revered religious leader of millions of Indians has seemingly accomplished the impossible in dealing with his people, and with the British, incidentally.

And his weapon, as unique as the little man himself, is the hunger strike. Able to survive for long periods without food, he has nevertheless several times been on the verge of death as a result of his fasting. At these times he has accepted nourishment only when death was indeed hovering at his bedside. And this because he well knew what the possible result would be of unleashed religious emotion at news of his death.

So now as religious strife in India threatens to become full scale warfare he has cried out again against it. And his voice finding few sympathetic ears, he must resort once more to his only weapon, the hunger strike.

But we are told that this time he is likely to fail. It is said that India is in too advanced a stage of its illness for him to save it. And it is said further that because of his advanced age he cannot hope to survive another extended fast.

We may well hope that these reports are false. For Mohandas Gandhi is one of the few sincere voices of peace today, in this weary, disillusioned world which seemingly has forgotten the meaning of the word. Though we may question his methods, we cannot question his motives. We cannot doubt his sincerity. He not only preaches peace, he lives peace. And he seems willing to sacrifice his health or even his life for its attainment.

That New Leaf

With the ushering out of the old year there is always an accompanying rustle as innumerable persons begin turning over those new leaves. Now many persons ridicule the practice of turning over a new leaf, as they believe that such a practice denotes weakness. Such thinking betrays an ignorance of the psychological value of turning over a new leaf. To cite a case. A person seeing the error of his ways determines to start afresh. "I will turn over a new leaf," he exclaims, becoming enthusiastic as he pictures in his mind's eye the new man which he hopes to be. With his list of resolutions before him, he launches forth with naive exuberance. Temptation, where art thou? he wants to say. And so through succeeding days, weeks, perhaps months, he maintains this ardor, but then life's forces gang up on him and he finds himself once again back at the old level. But now what does he do as he realizes that he has failed to live up to his resolutions? The wise man decides to turn over a new leaf. With the knowledge gained through failure he launches forth anew, determined that the past is past he looks again to the future. But, as a rule, history repeats itself and he is forced to shuffle back to the book shelf to find another leaf.

Now the point is that turning these leaves does not reveal weakness but strength. A person works up momentum for each fresh start and while under the influence of this momentum, he is at his best. It becomes obvious that a man under the spell of such propulsion soars at a higher level than the man living without the benefit of this incentive.

And Now in Parting . . .

The end of another semester approaches, and as is the custom, with the beginning of the new semester new staff assignments go into effect on the Creightonian. We who have had the pleasure of handling editorials for this past semester will push aside our typewriters with mixed feelings. At times things have been pretty slow, as material suitable for editorial comment on a college newspaper has seemed to evade our perusal of daily newspapers and other sources.

With one notable exception there has been little campus activity of sufficient importance to merit space in the editorial columns. We have tried, however, to present a diversified editorial page to its (we fear) limited readership and all in all it has been enjoyable work. As a parting gesture may we extend our thanks to Joe Stalin and Co. for providing us with an unusual amount of editorial material and to the organizations on the campus which have, unwittingly for the most part, helped us liven up the sheet a little. If we have made any friends—fine. If we have alienated anyone's affections—well, a new semester is coming up.

Student Counselor Says

By F. G. Degleman, S. J.

The undergraduate retreats are scheduled for Jan. 26, 27, and 28. At a Catholic university, the retreat is an essential and indispensable activity of the year. And rightly so. Men and women are formed for leadership. But leadership depends on motivation. And the retreat is, by very nature, a school in motivation. One need but read the beautiful encyclical of Pius XI on the retreat movement to realize the high purpose and the abundant fruit of a fervent retreat.

Benjamin Franklin in his memorable autobiography has a passage on leadership formation which is a lesson for every well-winded person. He relates how he struggled to rid himself of certain defects in character, and gives in diagram his simple method.

He may have been acquainted with the valuable little retreat volume of St. Ignatius in which that method was prepared by the Saint several centuries before.

"He who tried to avoid the opportunity is most in need of it," is more than mere trite saying. St. Augustine compares the work of sanctifying our lives to the erection of a lofty building and adds that he who wishes to build high must lay a deep foundation. So it is too in leadership; the greater the influence, the greater the preparation.

Let us all pray that these three important days prove a blessing to each and everyone.

OVER 'n OUT

By BILL FOGARTY

Word has it that the administration's semi-annual purge (which they laughingly refer to as the "Final Exams") is just around the corner. This diabolical little game held every so often as a public service, is designed to do two necessary things. First, it is intended to destroy any smugness left in the student after 18 weeks of spot quizzes and lengthy term papers. Secondly, it affords the instructors a legal method to retaliate for as many weeks of sleeping students, over-cuts, and trite excuses for work not turned in. At first glance this seems to leave the student strictly on the deficit side of the ledger, which is exactly what it does. Buchenwald was never like this . . .

Before we forget it, there's a deal coming up two weeks from Saturday which will give the students a chance to do something about the much discussed school spirit. From where I sit, it doesn't seem like too much trouble for us to attend a dance to show our appreciation to a great bunch of guys who have been knocking themselves out trying to prove the school isn't as dead as it seems to be. Let's surprise the hell out of each other and show up at the Fontenelle hotel following the St. Louis U. game.

The distinguished service cross is awarded this week to the bunch of students who were observed in front of the beanery week before last throwing snowballs at St. John's grade-school kids.

If the "Missing Socks Bureau" at a local laundry doesn't come through with the desired information on my unmentionables, I will inaugurate a "Boycott Your-Local Laundry Week" which will make Creighton students stand out in any crowd. Probably by request . . .

The Creightonian bites its lower lip this week at the history II class for their "reciprocal trade agreement" in the matter of book reports. Seems as tho' the professor had to read an object lesson to them from the New Testament.

Not much more going on this week so in the interest of conserving newsprint let's leave the column here to die a natural death. It's been a pain in the neck but I've hated every minute of it and hope you have too. I'll be back at the old corner again sometime when I get to the point where I hate people again, so take it easy and prepare your crib notes early to avoid the rush. A revvaderchi, paezonos,

No Smoking

Athletic Director Frank Hagan requests that all students refrain from smoking in the gymnasium during exams and registration. The request is made in compliance with fire safety regulations.

"I guess it began when I was just a kid, making non-stop flights around the dining-room table. Later on, the town got an airport. I got to know every plane, right down to the smallest bolts and screws.

"During the war I took off with the Aviation Cadets. The folks were all for it. They figured—correctly—that it was the best way to get me into the air where I belonged.

"I made it all right. Trained in the best planes the Air Force has, and now I'm heading for transition work in jets. The pay? Now that I'm a pilot, $336 a month, plus $500 for each year of active duty. And there's plenty of room for promotions.

"But that's not the real point. Some men belong in the air. They were born wanting wings—with the action, the pride, the freedom that go with them. There's no better way to have all that, along with the world's finest flying training, than to join the Aviation Cadets. And the future—in civilian aviation or in the Air Force—is as wide open as the horizon. If you want the fast-moving life, why not drop around to the Recruiting Station in your community or the nearest Air Force installation."

C. U. Of Air Praised By Dr. Dunham

In a letter to the Rev. R. C. Williams, S. J., director of the current series, "The Stream of the American Heritage," on the Creighton University of the Air, Dr. Franklin Dunham, chief of radio in the United States office of education said: "The outline of your new series, 'The Stream of the American Heritage,' is just the kind of material we will need for our 'Zeal for American Democracy' program of activity, which is being prepared now by this office."

Dr. Dunham also said that the "wonderful work" being done in radio and television at Creighton would be noted in the next issue of the Bulletin of the Federal Radio Education Committee, published quarterly by the U. S. Office of Education.

Barry Mahool, Eastern Radio Director of the American Heritage Foundation, sponsor of the Freedom Train, expressed his appreciation for Creighton's contribution to the American Heritage Program. The Freedom Train, which will be in this area next spring, is but a symbol of the broader aspects of the Foundation's program of education in the rights and duties of citizenship and rededication to the fundamentals of our way of life, he said.

Board Continues Plan For Prom At Peony April 16

Two personnel changes and one contemplated change in the Creighton university Student Union Board of Governors were discussed the last meeting of the board, Jan. 8. Bob Duffy, CC 3, has been elected by the students of Creighton college to replace Ray Keller as junior representative.
Tom Kelly, junior representative from law, informed the board that he must resign from his position in order to start spring training with the St. Louis Cardinal baseball system.

Ralph Bradley, J 4, was elected treasurer to finish out the term of Jim Ryan, L 1, who resigned upon transferring from Creighton college to law school.

The board voted that the Junior-Senior prom, to be held April 16 at Peony Park, should remain a semi-formal dance, as it has been in the past three years. It was also decided that the band chosen for the affair would be a local organization or one that would be within the financial limitations set by the Board of Deans and Regents. The ruling of this board has set the amount that the board of governors may spend for an orchestra at $250.

An appeal for greater freedom in determining the amount allowed for the hiring of a band was refused.

The primary election for the selection of princes for the prom will be held Feb. 13. Male students in each school will vote on the two seniors that will be their school's candidates for the honorary title of King Creighton XXIV.

Dental Instructor Attends Denver Meet

Dr. William F. Hemphill, clinical instructor in gold foil manipulation at the Creighton school of dentistry, spoke at the annual mid-winter meeting of the Denver dental association held in Denver Jan. 12-14.

Dr. Hemphill, a member and past president of the Woodbury Study club, spoke on the exemplifying teachings of Dr. Woodbury. He studied under Dr. Woodbury for 25 years.

V. J. Skutt, LLB 23, was elected president of the Omaha Community Chest. He has served on the Chest board since 1945 and is also a member of the Ak-Sar-Ben council. Mr. Skutt is a past president of the Creighton university alumni association.

Meet C. C. Governors

N. B. This is the third in a series of articles to acquaint the students with their representatives on the Board of Governors.

Have you seen His Holiness the Pope?
Perhaps you would like to read about a fellow student who was chief clerk to the Mediterranean theater chaplain and accompanied his military superior to the audience with His Holiness.

He is Edward J. Redle, CC 3, a representative of the Creighton college on the Student Board of Governors.

Ed has a variety of interests. He is direct, vigorous, courteous, and soft spoken, with a great force of character and an inherent toughness.

Redle, 25, born in Sheridan, Wyo., was graduated from the Sheridan high school in May, 1940. After working a year Ed enrolled at St. Louis university and remained at that institution until October, 1943, when he entered the Army and became a member of the Infantry's Tenth Mountain Division.

In February, 1946, he attended private and public consistories of the elevation of the Cardinals at Rome. Later his military superior held an audience with His Holiness the Pope, and Ed was also in attendance.

"I was extremely impressed," Redle remarks, "by the outward manifestation of piety of His Holiness and also by his intellectual grasp of the hierarchy in the United States."

Ed was one of the 32 men from the Mediterranean theater of operations given the opportunity to tour the Holy Land, Greece, and Switzerland.

Ed, who majors in history at Creighton, was especially interested in the area around the Sea of Galilee and in the city of Nazareth. At Nazareth Redle went into the excavation which was the home of Mary, Joseph, and Jesus.

Ed returned to the United States in April, 1946. He enrolled at Creighton the following Sept. and has since been studying principally history and philosophy to equip himself for entrance in the Creighton school of law next fall.

After his graduation from Creighton with the B. S. and LL. B. degrees, he intends to go into private law practice at Sheridan, Wyo., with his brother, a Creighton law school graduate in 1938.

Ed was elected a member of the Student Board of Governors last Oct.

"I would like," says Ed, "to see the Student Board of Governors' authority in activities returned to what it was before the war, and I would also like to see football returned to Creighton on an amateur basis similar to the method now carried on at St. Benedict and St. Thomas colleges."

Redle wants to hear from the students. "The male students, as members of the Student Union Corporation," he says, "should realize their responsibility to be active in expressing their opinions."

"Education," he remarks, "increases a person's appreciation of things about him, and also increases his duties and responsibilities to himself and to his fellowman."

Robert Paul Duffy, CC 3, is the junior member of the Student Board of Governors from Creighton college.

Bob is well-poised, rugged and impressive with a direct manner and likable personality.

Representing the students of Creighton college as a member of the Student Board of Governors is on the first responsible job that Bob has had.

Possessed with a great understanding and quick decision, his naval assignments ranged from executive officer to skipper.

Bob, 25, was born in Omaha. He was graduated from Creighton Prep in 1940. A year later Duffy entered Creighton to begin working on his A. B. degree, but he found himself in the navy by July of 1943.

Bob's combat experiences occurred around the Philippines and Borneo where he served as assistant navigator aboard the USS Cyrene, executive officer aboard the PT-120, and skipper aboard the PC-1120.

He went into civies in Aug., 1946, and registered at Creighton for the first available classes.

Duffy was elected a member of the Student Board of Governors at the last election.

"If Creighton," he says, "is to have an athletic setup, it should concentrate on basketball and a good intramural program—getting more members of the student body to participate in the intramural sports. It should be made a compulsory program if need be."

Bob is not without experience in sports. He has always been interested in basketball and is now a member of the Creighton university basketball team. He played two years on the Creighton Prep basketball team and was center on the Navy Doane V-12 team while stationed at that institution.

"I can't," he remarks, "forget that game which we of Doane played with the Iowa Seehawks in 1943—and we beat them."

Bob does not yet know what he will do after graduating next Jan.

"My main interest," he says, "is English. Am not sure, but I may teach."

When asked about that other main interest, he replied with unusual emphasis and directness, "I'm not in the market for a wife. Oh, I'm looking . . . but looking for one who will work 18 hours a day and has a million dollars."

Dr. Gerrie Speaks

Dr. Norman F. Gerrie, senior dental surgeon of the U. S. public health service, will be a guest in the dentistry school on Monday, Jan. 19.

Dr. Gerrie will speak to the seniors on the opportunities of the public health service in America.

Jays Stop Wichita; Lose To Regis Five

Regis Hands C. U. Sixth Loss, 52-38

The Regis college Rangers handed Creighton their sixth loss of the season Monday night, 52-38, on the Denver floor. The Bluejays' old failing—their heavy fouling—cost them heavily in this one. The Rangers connected on 18 of 35 tries from the free throw lane, as four of Creighton's first-stringers fouled out of the lineup. Gene Lalley, Subby Salerno, Dick Wiedenfeld and Pinky Knowles all sat out the final minutes on the bench. Of the 47 fouls called in the contest, Creighton owned 31.

Rally in Last Period

Regis took an early lead, and held a 23-12 lead at halftime. The Rangers surged again after the intermission to lead 27-13. Then Pinky Knowles and Subby Salerno went into action. Capitalizing on their fast break, the Jays rang up 19 points to narrow the Regis advantage to 33-32 in the final quarter.

Subby Salerno, playing his best offensive game to date, connected five times from the field to lead the scoring for the Creighton five.

Regis rallied midway in the fourth period to hold the Jay offense to one field goal in the final seven minutes. Bob Fisher and Center Gerry Simon led the Regis scoring attack from this point, to compile their total of 52. Fisher was high scorer with 13 markers, Simon added 11.

Gene Lalley and Pinky Knowles hit for 16 points between them to back up Salerno's effort.

Wichita Tilt First MVC Conquest

The Creighton Bluejays passed their first Missouri Valley tilt Friday night, rolling up a 40-30 margin over the Wheat Shockers from Wichita.

Knowles Hits 16

The Bluejays overcame an early lead in the first period to lead 17-11 at halftime. It was Pinky Knowles who sparked the Creighton offense past the Shockers, hitting six times from the field and adding four free throws for 16 points. The Jay captain stole the show with several pass interceptions and dribble-in shots.

The game was a rough affair; 43 personal fouls were called, 25 against Creighton. Both Knowles and Subby Salerno fouled out of the contest in the final period.

Suppress Wichita Star

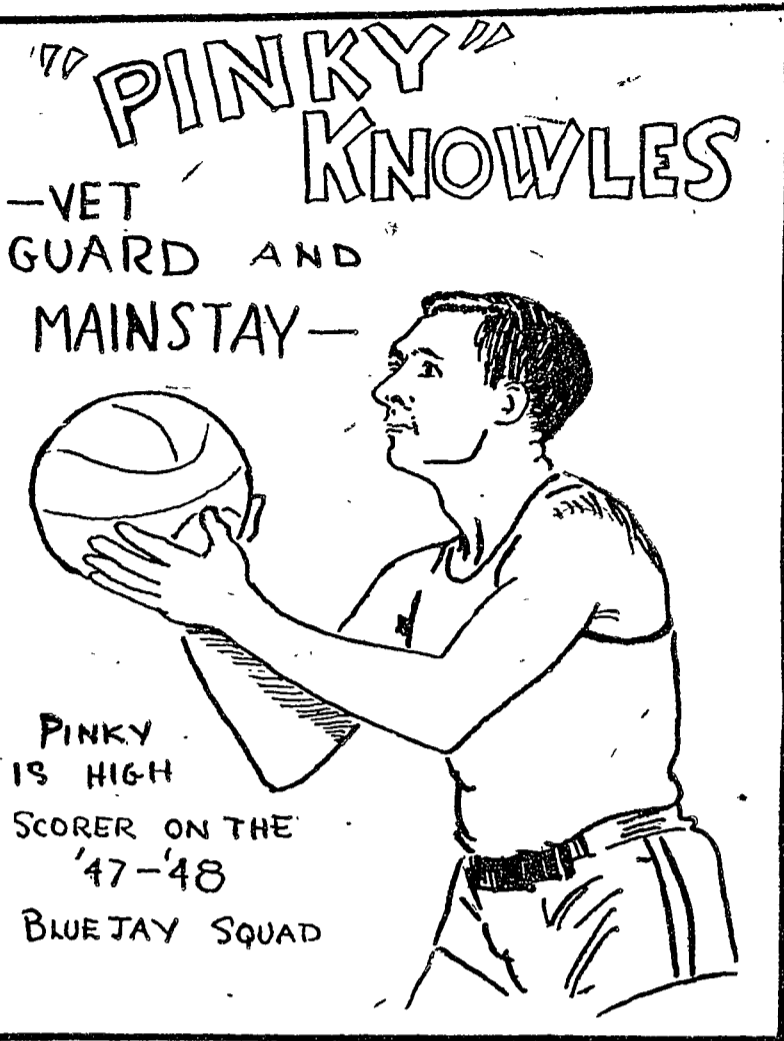

Dick Mullen, tall Wichita center, connected for 13 points to lead the Shockers. Bob Monty, the star Wichita forward, was held to one field goal. Dick Wiedenfeld added eight points to the Creighton scoring.

The contest was the first Valley encounter for the Jays this season, and was Creighton's first win away from home.

Square Off Against Bills January 31

After a disastrous road trip, the Creighton Bluejays return to the hilltop tomorrow night with hopes of getting back more solidly in the win column.

The Belford crew will tangle with the Washington university Bears from St. Louis. In 24 previous contests, Creighton has won 17 and Washington has registered seven wins. Highest score during the 20-year-old rivalry was in the 1936-37 season. That year the Jays downed the Bears 79-46.

Split Last Year
Last season was only a mediocre one for Washington. They dropped 14 cage clashes and won 11. Jay-Bear play during the 1946-47 competition ended even-up. In the first game the Blues lost 54-40. However, the second time they met last year, the Creightons managed a 49-44 revenge score.

In the probable starting lineup for Washington there are three men over six feet tall—Forward Elmer Belsha 6-1, Forward Bob Light 6-2, and Center Jack Barker 6-4½. The two Bear guards, Bill Gerstung and John Palcheff, are each 5-11.

Barker Leading Scorer
Barker was high-scorer for Washington last season as he netted 63 field goals and 50 free throws for a total of 176 points in 25 games played. Gerstung is the only member of the 1947 Bear football team to be on the basketball squad. Despite his late start as a cager he is reported to be coming along very well.

Like Creighton, Coach Blair Gullion's five is basing its offensive on the fast-break style.

St. Louis Next
First chore for the Jays after second semester registration is a game on Jan. 31 with St. Louis university. In what promises to be one of the hottest contests of the season, Creighton will be pitted against a team that has rolled over all opposition except one in such an easy manner that they have placed themselves in the national cage limelight.

Suspense will be added to the game because of the fact that the Billikens new mentor is former Creighton coach Eddie Hickey. Another factor that will figure as a possibility for a fiery fray is that the Bills will be out to revenge a surprising defeat handed them by Creighton last year. During that game, "Easy Ed" Macauley was rendered practically impotent. It was their only conference loss of the season.

Proceeds Of Omaha Game To Olympics

Creighton Athletic Director Frank Hagan announced this week that the Creighton-Omaha U. game, to be played Feb. 25 will be the means for procuring the Creighton and Omaha U. contributions to the Olympic fund.

The game will be played on the Creighton floor, but will not be a Creighton home game. Students with activity books will be charged an admission fee of 50 cents.

Creighton students will have the use of the bleachers on the north side downstairs and both ends of the gym. The south side and south balcony will be reserved for Omaha U. The 90 reserved seats in the north balcony will be sold for $1.25 each.

Wives or dates of students will be admitted for the regular 90 cents admission fee.

He added that most schools made their contribution to the fund through football and that "we feel that the Olympics are important enough to the students to warrant their support by the university."

The Omaha frosh team will face the Bluejay freshmen in the curtain-raiser.

FROM THE PRESS BOX

By Jim Quinn

Although it's the custom, to leave the publicity for social events to the society editor, I feel that the Appreciation Dance to be held under the sponsorship of the Student Board of Governors on Jan. 31, following the St. Louis basketball game, needs an additional plug from the sports department. The dance, which will feature the introduction of the Duce Belford "play-for-fun" team, and a presentation of gifts to all the members, is a fitting gesture of appreciation to the team from the students they represent.

Eddie Hickey's Billikens took an unexpected spill last week when they ran into the defensive trap of Hank Iba's Oklahoma Aggie crew. The Aggies throttled the Bills all through the first half and came to life again in the final minutes after the St. Louisans had rallied to tie the score at 27-all. Making the upset more convincing, is the fact that the Aggies turned the trick on the St. Louis floor.

The Billikens, the subject of a full-page spread in the latest issue of Time magazine, had just a week earlier knocked off the Holy Cross Crusaders by a substantial margin. Which only goes to show you can't run a team through an undefeated season in this day and age.

Since this is the last issue to be published by the present newsroom "regime," due to the shuffling of editorships each semester, acknowledgments are in order from the editor to the scribes who contributed their time to filling up the Creightonian sports pages during the semester. With no sports for two and a half months, it was quite a trick.

The general handy-man on the sports staff was George Coffey, who turned his hand to general reporting, editing, and even feature-writing. He also had the thankless job of keeping the statistics and writing the stories for the faculty-student guessing game during the football season.

Feature-writer "par excellence" was Dwayne Brown, who also covered "run-of-the-mill" assignments for most of the issues. Tom Hughes turned in several creditable features and stories before his out-of-school job forced him to give up his newsroom work.

Ray Dryden had the most unique job on the staff; that of cartoonist. Besides the drawing of Pinky Knowles in this issue, Ray turned out exceptional likenesses of Coach Duce Belford and Athletic Director Frank Hagan in previous issues.

And with that, we write fins to the '47 sports staff and "From the Press Box." We'll see you.

Mural Teams Continue BB

The intramural teams picked up speed the past week, as both gym floors were opened to mural play.

Unreported games include a 33-26 victory of the Phi Chis over the Delta Sigma Pis, and a 36-14 lacing of Phi Beta Pi by Jack Schrader's Hawkeyes. Cornelius scored 16 points to lead the Phi Chis. The Hawkeyes were led by Wiedenfeld and Flecky with 13 and 11.

On Jan. 7 Tom Clark's Raiders raided the Warriors by a 29-24 count, paced by Joe Hebenstreit's 15 points. Deer got six for the losers.

On Jan. 8 the Hot Shots outran the Webster St. Bearcats 29-22. O'Malley paced the winners with 14 counters. Hunziker was best for the Bearcats, with eight. On the same night Schrader's Hawkeyes returned to action, smearing the Wizards, 38-22. Wiedenfeld hit six field goals to lead the Hawks. Tiernan added ten more for the winners. Cannon managed nine points for the Wizards.

The schedule for Jan. 16 to Jan. 19 is as follows:

Jan. 16, 8 p. m., main court, Big Boys vs. Schrader's Hawkeyes. Jan. 16, 9 p. m., main court, Southerners vs. Ravens.

Cornbelt League—Jan. 16, 9 p. m., third floor, Warriors vs. Scrubs. Sunday, Jan. 18, 2:30 p. m., main court, Clark's Raiders vs. Hot Shots. Jan. 18, 2:30 p. m., third floor, Webster St. Bearcats vs. Freshman Dents.

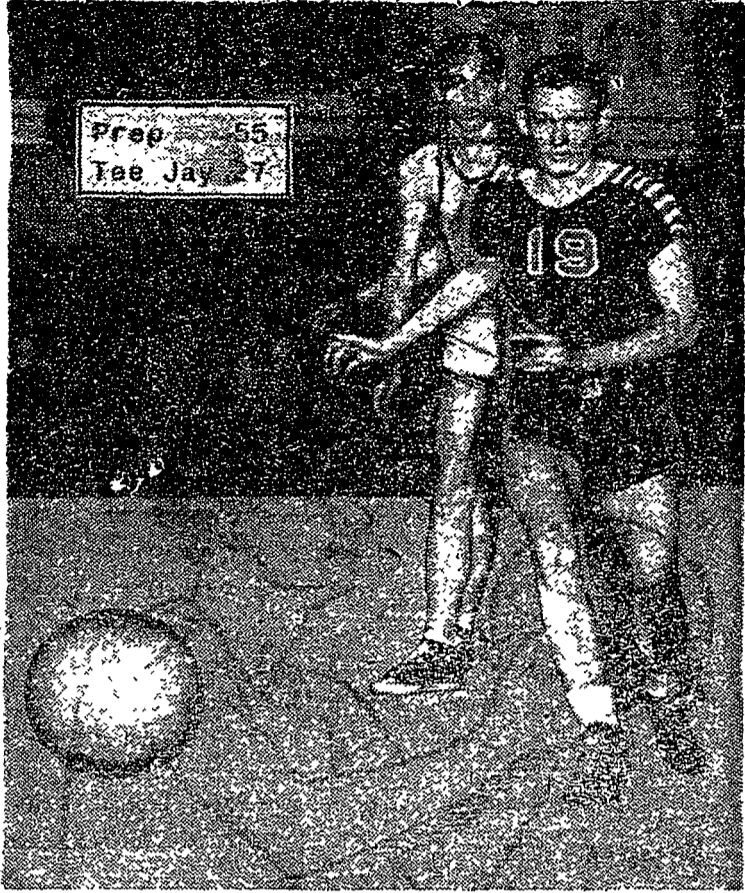

Midwest League—Sunday, Jan. 18, 4:30 p. m., third floor, Schrader's Hawkeyes vs. Wizards; Sunday, Jan. 18, 3:30 p. m., main court, Brady's Boys vs. Sloppy Joes.

Pan-Hellenic League—Friday, Jan. 16, 8 p. m., Phi Epsilon vs. Phi Beta Pi, third floor.

Creighton Boxing Matches Asked

Athletic Director Frank Hagan disclosed this week that both Peru and Wayne State Teachers colleges have indicated their interest in scheduling home-and-home boxing matches with Creighton sometime in the early spring.

Mr. Hagan asks that all men interested in boxing report to him as soon as possible to make plans for the formation of a boxing team.

Tee Jay's Jim Kennedy (19) goes after a loose ball in the Prep-T. J. game Friday night. In the background is Prep's Bob Benson.

Prep Adds Two Wins

Smother T. J. By 55-27 Count

Creighton Prep racked up their eighth straight lop-sided victory and their fifth intercity win last Friday night with a 55-27 conquest of Thomas Jefferson.

Prep started slow against their Council Bluffs rivals, trailing in field goals at the half. However, the young Blues connected 13 times from the free throw lane to lead 25-19 at the intermission.

It was after the half that the Prepsters began to roll. With Bob Benson and Bill Heyden, the twin giants, dropping in 17 and 15 points, respectively, and Jim Knowles, reserve guard, hitting from the floor four times, the Blues moved out in front to stay.

The Tee Jays were good for only two goals from the field in the final half. Prep connected on 14 tries, to double Tee Jays' harvest for the evening, 20-10. Prep hit 15 of 30 free throws against seven of 18 for Tee Jay.

Jr. Jays Outlast Packers, 43-29

The Prepsters took a 43-29 win over South High Tuesday night on the South floor. What looked like a runaway at the half turned into an interesting contest in the final two periods.

In fact, it was like watching two games—a 30-9 rout of South the first half, and a 20-13 pasting of Prep the second. The Packers

Hagan Publishes Recreation Book

The Creighton athletic department has recently published two books dealing with the Nebraska State Recreation program.

Athletic Director Frank Hagan is the author of "A State Recreation Program for Nebraska," of which 150 copies have been published.

The second publication is the official record of the minutes of the State Recreation meeting held at the Omaha Athletic club on Oct. 8, 1947.

came back from the halftime intermission breathing fire and drove through the Prep defense for 13 points, limiting the Jays to four in the third period.

The Benson-Heyden combination that had worked so effectively the first half continually missed fire the second period. It was Jack Cannon who kept the Blues in the running with four field goals the last half. Benson was the only other Prepster to score from the field during that time.

Scoring Trio

Bob Rodgers, Willie Gray and Shy Deras made up the trio of South trouble-makers. Each of the three netted eight points.

Cannon's eight buckets led the Prep scoring.

losing 11.

Of the ten returning lettermen Coach Hickey has to build with, his biggest asset is Macauley, who was granted positions on last year's Helms Foundation All-American team, and the Missouri Valley Conference five. The 6-8 center was high man in scoring with 395 points.

Another St. Louis bid to court supremacy stems from Captain Danny Miller. With two basketball letters and a spot on the All Missouri Valley group to his credit Miller is now playing his last season for the Billikens.

Unbeaten in their first seven starts this year the Bills suffered their first loss of the season recently at the hands of Oklahoma A&M. The Aggies subdued St. Louis by a score of 33-30. In that seven game win streak Hickey's hoopsters matched their fast break against six inter-sectional opponents from five conferences. Previous to the Aggie disaster the Billikens hadn't been held under 50 points per game.

Knowles Builds Scoring Margin

Individual scoring results after ten games show Pinky Knowles to be pacing his teammates again. So far he has accumulated 97 points by participating in all ten of the contests for an average of 9.7. In the Wichita fray he managed 16 points to better his previous one-game record of 15 points against Kentucky.

Socialights

By Kay O'Keefe

Before this semester becomes history, let's consider the advancement of the social aspect of our college career by attempting to answer one of the most controversial campus questions.

Is Creighton providing the necessities for the social development of its students so that these students can assume a position of leadership in post-graduate society?

Average Collegian Passive

It has been said that the average collegian is passive in regard to campus social activities. That is, the average student is more willing to receive entertainment without even slight exertion than he is to contribute positively toward making the activity not only a possibility, but a success.

However, if a collegian intends to contribute to post-graduate society, the groundwork for this future contribution must be laid during college years. This groundwork can best be constructed when students are left to develop themselves by solving the student problems of the student world by student means.

At Creighton, students have had an opportunity to develop leadership ability by making an able attempt to solve their own student social needs by student means.

Past Dissatisfaction

In recent years students have been dissatisfied with the amount and caliber of school entertainment. Many desired administrative consideration for social functions. The assumption of this policy, however, would have tended to increase the passive attitude of many students and would not have provided for student self-advancement.

By the successful efforts of the past months and the somewhat extensive plans for the ensuing semester, Hilltop students have proven that they can be social leaders.

What progress has there been at Creighton? Let's refresh our memories a little.

Already in this first semester of school we have had more mixers than we had in the whole of last year. The success of these dances and student interest in them have been proven by the attendance. Some 2000 of the slightly more than 3000 students attended the first mixer given by the student board at the Chermot. Approximately 600 attended the coed mixer the following week. The pre-Christmas sodality mixer was so well attended that the place provided for the party proved to be inadequate.

Cooperation Means Improvement

Another instance of improvement can be sighted in the cooperative attitudes displayed by both the fraternities and the sororities. In previous years, these groups have dropped an "Iron Curtain" at their functions to make them "strictly private." These groups have now decided that the social development of each individual member can best be attained by coordination of activities, since this gives members an opportunity to meet and know many more students.

Finally students have assumed active interest in the activities sponsored by the student board. Students have not failed to heap criticism when due—neither have they failed to congratulate success as was evidenced by the reaction to the first mixer which was held under student board auspices.

The student board is helping campus social progress by accepting student reprisal and by opening its ears to student opinion and advice so that student desires can be met.

Thus Creighton social activity is progressing. Students are beginning to assume the leadership which will give them the ability and confidence to become leaders in adult activity. The progress is not rapid, but there is progress.

Thank You

Over the hum of typewriters beating away before deadline, many names of the reporters behind the scenes are lost in the undertones. Now that the typewriters have ceased for this semester, it's time that the efforts of these journalistic aspirants were noticed.

Those who were candidates for Homecoming queen and Helen of Troy found sketches of their lives in print due to the efforts of the assistant society editor, Marilyn Wilkinson, J 3, who covered all leading social activities during the past months.

Sorority and fraternity functions were reported by Mary Louise Metoyer, Ann Denenberg, and Clair Skotz, all J 4, and Natalie Byrne, J 2.

Announcements of the many weddings and betrothals that have appeared in the Creightonian this semester were due largely to the efforts of Mary Delehant and Catherine Barrett, both UC 1.

To all the staff, as retiring editor, I extend a personal thank you for your cooperation.
