Tom Reynolds Is Manager Of New, Improved KOCU

Tom Reynolds, CC 4, was named station manager of the new KOCU at the executive staff election Monday, Feb. 6. Reynolds succeeds Jack Mazzie, CC 4, who resigned after serving as manager for the campus radio station for the past two semesters.

The newly elected station manager was chief announcer for KOCU last semester and has been affiliated with the campus station for two and a half years.

Bill Howard, CC 4, also a nominee for the station's managerial position, was elected program director for the forthcoming semester. Bill was program director last semester and was chief announcer the two previous semesters.

Other Staff Members

Elected to chief announcer on the KOCU staff was Don Hittner, CC 4. Don succeeds Tom Reynolds at this post. The news editor position was increased to two students on the new KOCU staff. Tom Brown, CC 2, and Mary K. Kavanaugh, UC 3, are the new electees to the position formerly held by Jerry Brazda.

Leo Weber will continue as commercial manager. Hank Meyensburg, CC 4, succeeds Bill Coon, CC 4, as publicity director for the station.

Dick Bay, CC 1, and Terry Kealy, UC 1, will be co-directors in the music department, replacing the one position held last semester by Delwyn Nagengast, C 2. Continuity director for this semester is Mary K. Delehant, UC 3. She succeeds Jack Keiner, CC 2, in this position.

New Plans
At the first meeting of the new staff, held Tuesday, Feb. 7, the following ambitions of the new KOCU were brought forth:

1. Programming will be kept up to as near a professional level as is possible.

2. Great attempts will be made to build the prestige of the station up to a new high. KOCU will be promoted over this entire area.

Jay Debaters Win 3rd Place At Tourney

Creighton debaters won seven out of a possible eight debates in the second annual college debate tournament, held last Saturday at Morningside college, Sioux City, Iowa.

"I was amazed at the improved quality of the debates," the Rev. Paul F. Smith, S. J., remarked, comparing Saturday's tournament with the first Morningside contest. Father Smith, moderator of the society, said that participants in this year's tournament were more numerous than at any time in the past.

3. Steps will be taken for a maximum use of the modern and expensive equipment. The KOCU facilities will be used to the best advantage of both Creighton and the students.

4. It will become an honor and a privilege to work with KOCU and not a grinding duty.

5. Students interested in the entertainment field will gain val-

Two New Colonels Chosen At Annual Military Ball

Shirley Miller, UC 4, and Emmett O'Brien, CC 4, were named honorary colonel and cadet colonel in ceremonies at the 21st annual military ball last Friday night.

Honorary majority commissions were presented to Edna Winter, N 4, honorary operations officer, and Dolores Bojanski, SJN 3, honorary executive officer.

Elizabeth Hartman, UC 4, Theresa Matras, SJN 3, Alice Lee, SCN 3 and Margaret Kennebeck, C 4, were commissioned honorary captains of A, B, C, and D companies, respectively.

All the girls will serve in their honorary capacities at the next federal inspection of the Creighton ROTC unit.

The presentations were made by master of ceremonies Ed Morgan, sports director of station KBON and past instructor in the Hilltop ROTC.

New Appointments

Major Lon D. Marlowe, Jr., adjutant of the Creighton military staff, read official orders appointing 27 cadets to junior officer ranks and other detachment promotions.

Cadet Major Gordon D. Clay, CC 3, is new executive officer and Cadet Major Gerald L. Byrd, D 1, will be operations officer. Newly appointed Cadet Captains James D. Adams, CC 3, and Leonard L. Schneiderman, C 4, will serve as

Giant Pep Rally

A rally will be held this noon in front of the arts building. All students are urged to attend and help rouse student interest in the proposed trip to Drake. The ROTC band will be on hand to play and members of the team will speak. A large gathering will let the team know that the students are behind them. Tickets for the trip to Drake will be on sale in the Newsroom immediately following the rally.

Air Force Will Sign CU Men, Women

Interviews will be given today on the campus to men and women interested in careers as officers in the U. S. Air Force.

Captains Robert R. Council and C. D. Mosher of the Air Force will be in the university gym to explain career opportunities, help candidates file applications and to give qualification examinations to applicants for cadet pilot or navigator training.

An Officer Candidate school program for women interested in non-flying duties with the Air Force is being offered in addition to the regular and reserve commission programs for men.

To be eligible for the programs, applicants must be between the ages of 20 and 26½. They must have completed two or more years of college and meet the physical and moral qualifications.

battalion adjutant and intelligence officer, respectively. Supply officer is now Cadet Captain William R. Glyn, CC 3.

New company commanders are Cadet Captains David W. Connolly, L 2, Co. A; Francis J. Duffy, L 2, Co. B; Sheldon J. Harris, L 2, Co. C, and Charles T. Brierty, CC 3, Co. D.

Other appointments made Friday night include:

To 1st lieutenant: Daniel J. Farrell, CC 4; Robert E. Rissi, CC 4; Gerald E. Ries, CC 4; James R. Irwin, C 2; Leon J. Garcia, L 1.

Bluejay Begins Group Pictures

Groups and organizations, whose pictures will appear in the 1950 Bluejay, will be notified of the time and place of their appointments in the near future, it was announced Wednesday.

Tom Clarke, editor of the yearbook, reminded students of the provisions made in connection with the taking of this year's group pictures. If a group is scheduled for an appointment and fails to appear, this group will not be given a second appointment by the yearbook editors.

ROTC Band To Go, Pep Rally This Noon

Approximately 300 Creighton students will be on hand tomorrow night to help cheer the Bluejays on to victory over their old rival, Drake. Providing that today's ticket sales boost the total to the required number a special train will leave for Des Moines at 2 p. m., tomorrow.

A pep rally will be held this noon in front of the arts building to boost spirit and interest in the migration day trip. All students are urged to attend the rally and get their tickets as soon as possible. An early surge in sales will assure the securing of the special train. If, however, student spirit should wilt and the goal is not reached, the tickets will be honored on the Rock Island railroad's "Corn Belt Special" which will leave for Des Moines at 11:30 a. m. Better service could be given all the way around on the special, however, it was stated by Rock Island officials.

Graduate Roll Is Announced For Mid-Year

A list of mid-year graduates, the largest in the history of Creighton university, was announced this week by the Very Rev. William H. McCabe, university president.

Ninety-five students were graduated, four of them cum laude. The four receiving the honor were:

Maurice Dutton, Red Oak, Ia.; Charles Frost, Omaha; Francis Goodell, Mitchell, S. D. and Edgar Huse, Hubbard, Neb.

Other degree recipients included:

Creighton College (Bachelor of Arts), Donald Duplex, John Mulhall.

Primary Vote Held For Prom Princes

Primary elections to name representative prince candidates for the annual Junior-Senior prom were in progress in most Hilltop schools this week. Final elections will be held next week.

Law school named Vincent P. Quinlan, Patrick H. Rensch, John J. Buford, Robert E. O'Connor and Philip H. Forehead as candidates in the primary at law last Monday. Monday, Feb. 13 has been set for the final election there.

In Creighton college, primary elections were held last Wednesday. The final election is slated for next Wednesday, Feb. 15.

Commerce, medicine, pharmacy and dentistry also will name candidates.

Sergeant Iler Added To ROTC Cadre

The R.O.T.C. office announced this week that Sgt. 1st class Ivan R. Iler has been added to the corps cadre here at Creighton.

Sgt. Iler served with the 82nd airborne for 5 years in Europe before coming to Creighton. He is replacing Sgt. Beecher, who's now stationed with the Army in Japan.

The ROTC band, which will make the trip, will be on hand this noon to play for the rally. Member of the team will be on hand to speak and Jim Emerson, CC 4, will lead cheers. Backers of the trip, which is entirely student sponsored, are hopeful of a large crowd this noon.

The Creighton athletic office is making arrangements for a special Creighton section to be set aside in the Drake fieldhouse. The band and cheer leaders will lead the organized section.

This migration day is the first that has been sponsored by Creighton students for a number of years. With the good record held so far this year by the Bluejays and the high level of student spirit backing the team it is hoped that the venture will be a roaring success. The success of this trip and the amount of interest shown will affect the organizing of future trips of this type.

Creighton alumni and other backers of the Jays have also been invited to make the trip along with the students. The train trip is open to all men who wish to go.

As a final precaution the university administration has asked that students going to the game remember that they are representatives of the university in an unofficial capacity. Any misconduct on the part of students on such a venture results in a reflection on the school.

Tickets for the trip will be on sale in the newsroom immediately following the rally. Students are again urged to get them as soon as possible.

To Discuss Plans For Boy Scout Frat On Hilltop

Plans for the organization of a new chapter of the Boy Scouts of America national service fraternity Alpha Phi Omega at Creighton, will be discussed at a meeting scheduled for Thursday, Feb. 16 at 7:30 p. m. in A435.

Any Creighton student who has ever been associated with the Boy Scouts, past or present, is eligible for membership, according to Brad Field, L 2, who is heading the movement at Creighton.

Demonstrating its worth by successful operation on more than one hundred major campuses throughout the country, Alpha Phi Omega combines a moderate social program with a fourfold program of service to the student body, to scouting, to the fraternity, and to the nation.

Activities such as sponsoring campus campaigns for charity donations and blood donations, ushering at student assemblies, and taking part in local scouting functions are included in the organizations program.

A Learnin' Man

Sunday America commemorates the birthday of one of America's—one of the world's—greatest men. Much has been written about Abe Lincoln of Illinois, our 16th President. Some is fiction, some is fact, but no one denies that Lincoln was a great man. His ready humor, pungent backwoods wit, and ordinary common sense were combined with a tenderness and love of justice that few men possess. And with these Lincoln had the courage to stand on his convictions.

Once he said, "A house divided against itself cannot stand," at a time when a less patient, less God-fearing and righteous man might have given up hope and said, "A curse on both your houses." Today we could well heed his words for "A world divided against itself—"

The mark of the mighty is their humility, and the man who issued the Proclamation that freed a people, also wrote an epitaph for a lone, dying Indian:

"God have mercy on poor Johnny Congapah
As he would if he were God
And you were Johnny Congapah."

Abe believed in God to the utmost. When asked why he went down on his knees so often, he replied, "Sometimes there is no place else to go."

And, during the war, when an aide said, "I hope God is on our side," Lincoln returned, "We know which side God is on. Let's hope we are on God's side."

On his second Inauguration Day, March 4, 1865, Lincoln promised, "with malice toward none, with charity toward all — to bind up the nation's wounds."

But, on April 15, 1865—less than a week after Lee gave up his sword at Appomatox—the President was shot while relaxing in Ford's theater from four years of war.

Known to all as the Railsplitter, he also welded a nation back together, smack on the Mason-Dixon line.

To some people fancy clothes or high sounding titles are the mark of nobility. But the greatest tribute we can pay the simple, homespun-clad giant is to call him: "Honest Abe, a learnin' man."

From where I'm sitting, tolerance is just a big word for peace. War can't get going where there's a sympathetic understanding of nation for nation, man for man, and creed for creed.—Bing Crosby.

The Man Has 'Guts'

A recent editorial expressed admiration for John L. Lewis, the head of the United Mine Workers, on the grounds that whatever else may be said about him, the man has "guts." The editorial went on to say that Mr. Lewis is to be admired for putting the administration on the spot by forcing the use of the Taft-Hartley law by refusing to submit the controversy to a three-man fact finding board.

When we admire a man because of his guts, we ought to be sure first of all just how he is using his virtue of courage. Nerve, impudence or guts combined with a wrong concept of what is right and wrong can lead to disaster if they have any amount of power at their disposal. Mr. Lewis has at his disposal a great deal of power. He has shown himself to be bigger than the government on several occasions by an open defiance of Federal orders. With this power there is also an enormous amount of responsibility. Mr. Lewis can be held accountable, in a large part at least, for the well-being of all the coal miners in the country who belong to the union of which he is the leader.

A man in the position of Mr. Lewis then, should not act only on impulse just because he has a lot of guts. He may have the courage to try anything but unless it benefits the miners under his control and the other people who are affected by the industry, any action he may take cannot be justified. The prolonged layoff of the miners has certainly not benefited either the miners or the welfare of the nation. The miners cannot make a living if they are not working, and the welfare fund from which comes the benefits paid aged and injured miners cannot exist unless there is coal being mined. Mr. Lewis' action in putting the United States government on the spot cannot be regarded as praiseworthy just because it demonstrates the great fortitude and daring of one man when the well-being of so many are at stake.

There is nothing particularly brave in acting when past experience has shown that such action is not going to result in any injury to yourself. But in the dispute between John L. Lewis and the administration there are millions of people who can be hurt. An expression of admiration for the fortitude of Lewis in this case can hardly be regarded as intelligent. The sacrificing of the best interests of so many for the glory of one man can never be a praiseworthy action.

The essence of the principles that are the real source of our strength is that men as individuals and in groups have rights that must not be denied or suppressed.—W. W. Waymack.

Recognition Not Approval

One of the topics occupying the lead story position in America's newspapers today is the Communist government in China. The United States government has found itself confronted with the problem of whether or not to recognize this government which has an ideology directly opposed to our own. The general opinion in the country seems to be that we should refuse recognition to this new state because it is Communistic.

This problem, when it is analyzed, seems rather stupid. The government exists. No one can deny that it exists, but we refuse to notice it. This is a virtual denial of an existing reality in the face of the knowledge of its existence.

We recognize Russia, the center of Communism in the world today. Our recognition of her is not an approval of her ideals or of her actions but only an acknowledgment of her as a citizen of the world. We can hardly have any relations or take any diplomatic action against a country which we maintain does not exist. For an individual to act in this way in his everyday life, refusing to admit that people he dislikes exist, would be impractical and would mark him as a mental case.

It is just as impractical for a government to refuse recognition to another government which it dislikes. We cannot hope to gain world peace unless we are realistic in our approach to world politics. The world is made up of good and bad governments. Refusal to admit the existence of the evil forces does not make them any less real or dangerous.

We owe our place in the world to the energies and ideas of men who came from many different countries and who have various racial and religious backgrounds. Here they live in equality and work for the common good. The more we can do to broaden that equality, the stronger we shall be.—Henry Ford, II.

The Student Counselor Says . . .

By the Rev. Francis G. Deglman, S. J.

A Catholic Student's Congress is planned for March 5 at Creighton university as one of the outstanding features of the Holy year.

The Congress is a student activity. Students are planning and executing the program. It is a school of leadership. Under competent direction students are taking responsibility.

The subject of the Congress will be various phases of social justice, as was well expressed at the recent Sodality Union officers' meeting. College men and women know their obligations as regards personal sanctification and very many are making earnest efforts in this field. But social justice, the duties man has to his fellowman, is often disregarded. In business, in the professions, in civic affairs, in the standards of just family relations as well as in other social relationships social justice and charity often yield to personal ambitions.

It is for that reason that social justice was chosen as the topic for student discussion at the coming Congress.

As a member of the family, of the community, of the state, of the nation there are open to all individuals grand opportunities of doing good, of making others better and happier, of helping develop a surrounding that sees in man a noble creature with a noble destiny. There are rights to battle for and obligations to live up to.

Sincerest congratulations are due to those planning the Congress for bringing social consciousness more emphatically to the college student body.

For Mercy Sakes

Where intellectuals gather (such as are manufactured at this institution) it is almost certain that spirited discussions will arise. The last of these which I overheard on one of my eavesdropping trips concerned the term "euthanasia."

Gene Wickencamp was offering what he considered conclusive evidence that euthanasia was an establishment located in South Omaha, while Reno Rizzuto was retaliating with equally impressive facts that it was a fellow born in Ethiopia and educated in Asia. Mary Delehant was the staunchest supporter of Mr. Rizzuto's philosophy. I got quite a charge out of this conversation, because anybody knows that euthanasia is a form of the "hoof and mouth" disease.

Is There A Nurse In The Crowd

The big question at the St. Joseph's school of nursing (besides, "Who threw that snowball on my bed?") is "Who will be Queen for a day?"

This will be determined on the gala night of Feb. 14 when the "Queen of Hearts" will be chosen at the dance of the same name.

Those lucky male individuals who will be at the dance in full splendor are busy trying to cut down costs by making black market arrangements for flowers, borrowing suits and so on.

If The Shoe Fits Wear It

It is comparatively easy to find out who went to the Military Ball and who didn't. As is the case of most other Creighton dances, a close inspection of the shins will provide the answer.

If the old school colors, black and blue are there, the answer to the Military Ball question will no doubt be affirmative.

Which brings an analysis of the different types of harmless ballroom dancers. The "digger" is the fellow who places his oh so firm elbow between your third and fourth rib and waits to see which part of whose anatomy will give.

The "adagio" type gracefully dances up and away from you, and has gotten some 15 feet away before he realizes that your head has become involved in his exhibition of the light fantastic.

The "communist" dancer believes in the share and share alike idea. He thinks he has a perfect right to walk all over your shoes just because you do.

The "Mack truck" type before collision finds you an innocent bystander, and post collision finds you wrapped around the nearest pillar or railing.

A Sure Cure

During another of the aforementioned discussions between myself, Bud Gaskill, Tom Clarke, co-ed Jones and others, Mr. Gaskill provided his idea of a sure cure for engageditis (rock on third finger left hand).

Leon promises that if you take a box of antihistamine tablets when you feel that initial symptom approaching (same symptoms as a cold) it will get rid of the foolish feeling within eight hours.

You Expected Maybe Okinawa?

Center of attraction in that hot spot on the campus, the snack bar, were two ordinary students with very much out of the ordinary decorations on their lapels. Numerous queries directed toward Don Schellenburg and Bud Bruegmehke finally revealed the origin of the simulated medals. Mr. Schellenburg, spokesman for the couple, announced proudly with upturned nostrils, "No, we didn't get them in the South Pacific area; we got these decorations for getting a chair in the snack bar three consecutive noon hours."

Fr. Casper Warns Of Red Approach

The Rev. Henry W. Casper, S. J., dean of the graduate school, was guest speaker last Sunday evening before a combined gathering of the Westminster Fellowship groups at the Wheeler Memorial Presbyterian church.

"If Communism Should Come to Town" was the subject of Father Casper's talk. He pointed out that in the event Communism should take over in the United States, the American citizen has no right to expect treatment any different from what is accorded the people living in Red dominated countries.

Father Casper further called attention to Myron Fagan's book "Red Treason in Hollywood." "What has happened there may happen throughout the United States," said Father. "Hollywood today is still Moscow's strongest fortress in America."

'Dungeon' Goes Chromatic

By Les Hausner

Creighton's records room in the administration building is no longer the "dungeon" it once seemed to be.

True, the same iron gate still marks its entrance, but the cold, dreary appearance of the room is gone.

Two months ago the floor was unpainted concrete. Today it is an appealing shade of red violet. The ceiling is now white where once it was brown with age. The walls are now a light tint of red violet.

Why were these colors chosen? The answer lies in the careful planning of Creighton's registrar, Jack N. Williams, who supervised the redecorating.

Red violet was selected by Mr. Williams because of its "psychological appeal, its stimulating qualities and because it is complimentary to green, the color of the filing cabinets."

Since the room has no windows, white was decided upon for the ceiling to aid in reflecting light. The furniture has been painted to match the filing cabinets.

In choosing these colors Mr. Williams had one main thought in mind. He wanted the surroundings to "be made more pleasant for the employees and promote the quality of work which is required."

Many students have referred to this room as "the vault" or "the powder room" but Mr. Williams prefers to call it "the official archives for all the personal and scholastic information pertaining to all students who have attended the university."

Here are filed registration forms all students must fill out each semester. Registration in Creighton's early years was a far simpler process, pointed out Mr. Williams. Registration then consisted of little more than a student signing his name in a ledger. As educational agencies began to require statistics about students, forms had to be modified to include more facts.

Students may be interested to know that this is also the room in which permanent records of their grades are kept. The system of recording grades has also undergone change.

Before 1938 instructors wrote out an individual grade card for each student. Now the instructor records the grades of an entire class on one sheet which is placed in a ledger, thus saving time and space.

Also kept on file here are all credentials, forms, correspondence and transcripts of grades pertaining to students' admission to the university.

State Military Head Will Address IRC

Col. Hardin C. Sweeney, executive officer of the Nebraska military district, will be main speaker at the February 23 meeting of the International Relations club.

A former ROTC commandant at Creighton, Col. Sweeney's topic will be "Behind The Iron Curtain." This is a report on the postwar military mission behind the "Iron Curtain" in which Col. Sweeney had a major role.

IRC president Francis C. Goodell, CC 4, invited all Creighton students to attend.

Oldest Employee Dies Thursday

Thursday morning at 5 a. m., the oldest employee of Creighton university died. He was Peter Majek who had worked on the Hill-top since 1905.

Born in 1875 in the province of Moravia, Bohemia, Mr. Majek worked at the Jesuit institution of Innsbruck college in Austria. He came to the United States in 1900 and worked at John Carroll university in Cleveland, Ohio, another Jesuit school.

In 1905 Mr. Majek came to Creighton where he worked as doorman and tailor until 1930. Since 1930 he had been janitor at the law school and the Huts.

A very devout Catholic, Mr. Majek was a daily communicant. There are no survivors.

CIIR Curriculum Has Six Courses

Six courses will be offered by the Creighton institute of industrial relations this semester, the Rev. Austin E. Miller, S. J., director of the organization said this week.

Registration is set for 8 p. m., February 16 at the Arts office. The $3 registration fee can be covered by the GI Bill, Fr. Miller added.

Three fundamental courses are offered for beginners but may also be taken by advanced students. They are:

Democracy and Labor: an examination of the economic and political aspects of democracy.

Public Speaking: techniques of effective expression.

Straight Thinking: methods of logic and accurate thinking.

The advanced courses, open only to advanced students, include:

Personality and Adjustment in Labor Relations: investigation of human personality and relations between persons in industry.

Social Legislation of the Present Eighty-First Congress: proposed and adopted measures of the Truman program.

Current Labor Problems: adjustment of problems by unions, employers and government.

These Thursday evening classes will begin at 7:15, 8:05 and 8:55, lasting 45 minutes each. Enrollment in the Institute courses is open to university students as well as non-students, male or female, employer or employee, regardless of age or creed. Pamphlets explaining the Institute in full are available at the Arts office and at the switchboard in the Arts building.

Tryouts Slated For Speech Meet

Tryouts for the annual Thomas McShane speech contest will be held Feb. 24 from 1 to 3 p. m., Edwin Puls, director of Creighton's speech department, said Friday.

Entrants, which will be limited to undergraduates, are required to give a two-minute speech on the topic "Youth Looks at the Twentieth Century." The moot court in the law building is the tentative location of the tryouts.

Finals in the contest will be held some time in April, Mr. Puls said. The winner will receive a gold medal. Judges will be selected from the Creighton faculty.

Delta Sigma Pi Holds Dinner Meeting Feb. 1

Creighton's Beta Theta chapter of the international fraternity of Delta Sigma Pi will hold a dinner meeting Thursday evening, February 16.

The dinner meeting will be held in the Beanery. Members of the Omaha chapter of the alumni will be the guests of the Creighton fraternity.

Cathedral Club Plans Party

The Cathedral Young People's club announced this week that they will sponsor a Valentine's Day party on Sunday, Feb. 12, at 8 p. m. in the Cathedral school auditorium.

There will be refreshments and entertainment. No admission will be charged and all are invited.

CU Groups to Sing On WOW, KBON

Featured on tomorrow's "Creighton University of the Air" program will be the choral groups under the direction of Miss Mary Jeannette Hoffman.

Glee club selections will include "Indian Love Call" by the girls, and "Invictus" by the male group. The groups will combine voices on "My Body Lies Over the Ocean" and "All the Things You Are."

The program is heard over WOW every Saturday morning at 10:15.

Creighton's singing groups will make another radio appearance on Sunday, Feb. 19. The program will be aired over KBON at 1:45 and is sponsored by Cosgroves Church Goods.

ROTC Riflemen Lose As Jacks Hits 375

The Creighton ROTC rifle team lost a match last week in a gallery contest at Ripon college. Of Creighton's 1781 points, Marshall Jacks, CC 2, made 375.

Next month the rifle team journeys to Booneville, Mo., on March 2, for the Midwest Little Camp Perry match at Kemper Military academy. Team members will be Marshall Jacks, Paul Pettif, Charles O'Connor, and Thomas McAndrews; Vincent Finocchiaro is the alternate.

Following this week, they will go to Lincoln to meet the Nebraska U. team on March 11. April 1, they meet Iowa State at Ames. Sgt. William M. Patterson, their coach, will accompany them.

By Amos Eastridge

One of the most interesting places at Creighton is also one of the least known spots on the campus.

Behind an inconspicuous door to the left of the Dowling hall entrance, through a twisting corridor, and through another door marked "Private, Keep Out," are the three rooms where the pictures for the Creightonian and its younger brother, The Creighton Prep, are developed and printed.

The rooms contain a very complete darkroom and two rooms suitable for taking portraits. The equipment in the darkroom is valued at over $350. It includes a 5x7 enlarger, a timer, a contact printer, plus the pans, tanks, hangers, and general equipment necessary for a good darkroom. The other two rooms, although not in use now, have suitable backgrounds for portrait shots or may be turned into additional darkrooms.

At the present time Creighton's photo set-up is used by Hank Guinotte, Creightonian photographer, and several of the Prep students who have an active interest in photography. The Prep students work under the supervision of the Rev. Philip J. Daugherty, S. J., who is himself an experienced photographer.

Up until last year, however, a course in Press photography was offered. The subject was taught for three years by Verdun R. Daste, assistant professor of the Journalism department. The little-known rooms were in almost constant use at that time. The public relations office also uses the darkroom facilities occasionally.

Plans are now being made to make some additions to the darkroom. This, along with a clean-up campaign, assures that Creighton's photo facilities will be comparable with that of other mid-western schools.

Contest Is Opened For T-V Writers

A nationwide collegiate writing competition, designed to encourage the emergence of new television writers, has been announced this week by the Columbia Broadcasting system and World Video, Inc., through KMTV, local television station.

To be known as the CBS awards, competition is open to students in American colleges and universities. It will offer four prizes, the first to be awarded March 31, 1950, and the others at monthly intervals during the rest of the Spring academic semester. The amount of the award will be $500 if the prize winning script is of one hour performance, or $250 if it is a half-hour script.

The final selections will be made by a three-man board of judges comprised of:

Charles M. Underhill, director of programs for the CBS television network.

John Steinbeck, author and a vice president of World Video Inc.

Donald Davis, dramatist, screen writer and producer for World Video Inc.

The competition is open only to students 18 years of age or over who are residents of the United States and are attending accredited colleges or universities in the continental United States. The twofold purpose of the contest is to encourage new writers to discover and bring to maturity their special television talents, and by this means to contribute to the steady advance of television's entertainment standards.

A numbered entry blank must be obtained for each individual script entered in the competition and must accompany the submission. Contest rules and the required blanks must be obtained by writing directly to:

Blues Journey To Drake; Seek 28th Win In Old Series

Creighton's Bluejays will meet an old and familiar foe tomorrow night when they journey to Des Moines for a clash with Drake university.

The game will mark the first meeting of the two teams this season. The Bulldogs will play a return engagement here Feb. 27.

Drake Coach Jack McClelland, minus his "Big Three" of last year, Bill Evans, John Pritchard and Gene Ollrich, will probably rely on forwards John Rennieke and Art Ollrich for his scoring punch. Rennieke was the second high Bulldog scorer last year, finishing with 210 points. Ollrich, another two-letter man, racked up 178 points during the '48-'49 season to nail down the number three scoring position.

At the pivot position for the Bulldogs will be Verle Burgason, a 6-foot, 5-inch junior and an excellent rebounder. Herb Rothbart at 5-11 and Dan DeRuyter, former all-stater from Sioux Center, Ia., will man the guard spots against the Blues.

Coach Belford will probably stick to his usual starting five of Gilchrist, McClelland, Miller, Knowles and Gradoville. Bill Heyden, Miller's understudy at center, will probably see plenty of action as an answer to Burgason, the tall Drake center.

Saturday night's encounter will be the fortieth between the two schools. The Jays hold the edge in the ancient series with 27 victories against 12 losses.

Last year the Belford five met the Iowans only once, dropping that encounter by the score of 63-36.

Coyotes, Jays Clash Monday In Hilltop Gym

A much improved, but little strengthened South Dakota university team will be in the Hilltop gym Monday night for a clash with the Bluejays. Featuring all-conference forward Johnny Diefendorf as their leading scorer, the Coyotes will put Dale Roberts, Ken McRoden, Harvey Hanson, and Tex Hoy on the floor to face Creighton.

In their last few tilts the Coyotes have shown a considerably better offense, but still lack a defense. When Creighton's quintet braved the wilds of South Dakota, Dec. 19, to meet the Vermillion five, the result was surprising.

Diefendorf was unable to do anything against a tough Bluejay defense, and the Coyotes showed little strength on either side of the ledger. The final count was 49-31, but the beating was far worse. The Blue and White clad Jays filled the hoop with flying basketballs and covered the floor like a blanket.

From the outset, the Coyotes were obviously outclassed and at no time showed signs of living up to advance publicity. When the show was over, Vermillion fans were shaking their heads sadly and worrying about Jan. 13.

The Jays, always tough to beat on the home floor, are expected to make life rough on the visitors from the north. In spite of Diefendorf's 39-point showing against Augustana, and his 37-point performance against Sioux Falls, the Jays will be out to hold him in check.

On the Creighton side of the bucket brigade, Ick Miller has scored 231 points in 16 starts, and Pinky Knowles has rolled in the impressive total of 182 in 14 encounters.

A capacity crowd is expected to watch the Creighton cagers go after their eighth straight home victory.

Jays Top Pirates, Lose To Villanova

Creighton's fast and furious Bluejays had themselves a wild time on their recent road trip. With the faintest touch of the fame of days gone by, the Jays upended favored Seton Hall 45-42 Saturday and gave tough Villanova a rugged evening before succumbing 63-34.

Moving into Philadelphia last Thursday evening, the Jays went into the Wildcat field house with ideas of another sensational upset. The 11th ranked team in the country, figuring to sweep the Jays off their feet with race horse ball, were mildly surprised at the Jay antics.

With hardly a few minutes played, the score was knotted at 15 all, and the Jays were rapidly ending Villanova's dreams of a walkaway.

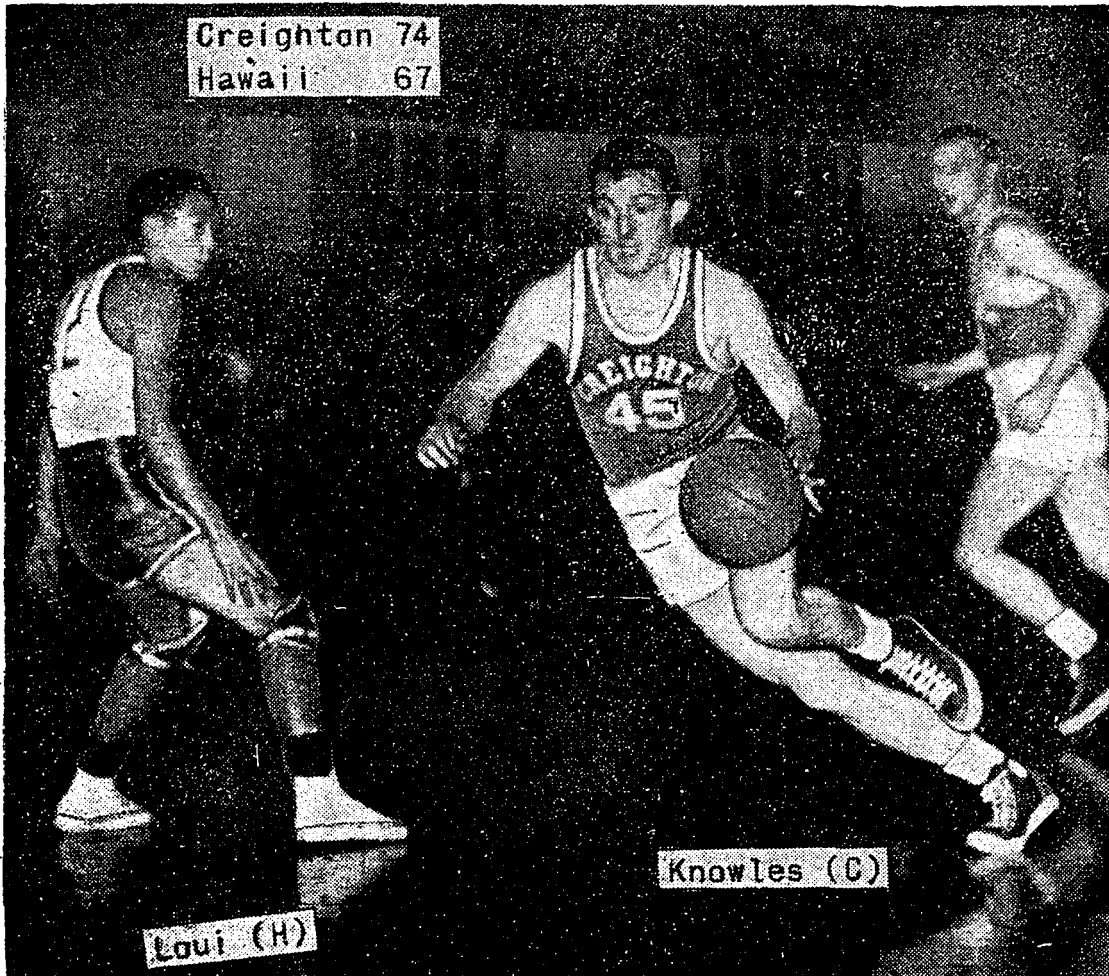

Coach Al Severance put on the brakes and the Wildcats went to work. Most of the working was done around Paul Arizin, fine pivot man for the Cast, and the murderous Easterner's offense was on the roll.

As the sensational Arizin wheeled and hooked 22 points through the hoop, the Jays fell further and further behind. At the half Villanova was in full command with a 17 point lead 43-26.

In the second half, Arizin netted 11 more points as the Cats enlarged their fat lead to win 84-63.

The final count gave Villanova only 13 points more than their season's average of 71, and the Jays hit 10 better than their previous mark. The tightness of play is indicated by the scoring divi-

Pinky Knowles on the move... a second after this picture was snapped the Bluejays had two more points.

Bluejays Hit Hawaii, 74-67 For Seventh Home Victory

Creighton racked up its seventh straight victory on the home court Tuesday night, but had to go the limit to do it.

The Jays came up with a rousing rally in the final six minutes, after surviving a second half Ha-one-hander from the side to break a 40-40 tie. Thirty-three seconds later he again hit from the same spot, and with 4:31 remaining he dumped his third bucket. Captain Pinky Knowles added the clincher on a lay-in, second before he left the game with five personals.

The Hawaiians had quite an offensive of their own. Little Ed Loui collected 19 points for the losers, but it was a guard by the name of Manliguis who almost upset the Jay applicart with his amazing one-handers from far out. He managed 15 counters, one more than the total compiled by center George Malama.

Tops for the Jays in the scoring department was Captain Pinky Knowles with 19 points. Ick Miller, the old reliable, hit for 18, followed closely by Gilchrist with 15 all-important counters. Mick McClelland had 10 for fourth place honors.

Miller, Knowles Hold 1-2 Position In Jay Scoring

Frank Miller hit full stride during the past week to maintain his standing as the Bluejay's top scorer. The results of the computations, which include the game with the Hawaiian "Rainbows," show that Frank leads the parade with a 16 game average of 14.4 and total points topping the 200 mark.

All the six top scorers held the same positions on the score sheet as they did last week.

Captain Pinky Knowles follows Miller as high man with a 14 game average of 13, and 182 counters. Frank Gilchrist boosted his total points to 132 to hold on to his number three spot for scoring contention.

Combined team scoring, as compared with the opposition shows the Blues breaking even with an average of 54.3 points for the 16 games played to date.

Gambling on matches led to the advent of the modern sport of bowling. The game, originally called "nine pins," was so corrupted by gambling that it was barred by law in New York and Connecticut. Since the law specifically barred "nine pins" it was eventually evaded by adding an extra pin and thus making it a new game.

Spethman Is Small But Capable Of Big Things

By Jim Bagley

Good things sometimes come in small packages, and this time it looks as though Creighton got an especially good thing in an especially small package. Standing only 5-feet, 7-inches, and weighing 140 pounds, Eddie Spethman could definitely not be described as big, but big things are expected from him within the next two years.

Although he is the smallest man on the team and one of the smallest college players in the country, he figures to play a definite part in the plans of Duce Belford next year. With Pinky Knowles' eligibility terminating at the end of this season, the Bluejays will be needing a guard who is a good shot, an elusive and tricky ball handler and a capable dribbler. Eddie has the ability and is getting the experience to qualify him for the spot.

Self-confidence is what Eddie needs most of all, for that seems to be the one thing that he has the least of. He is not only modest about his ability but also is the first to admit that he has a lot to learn.

When asked about the way he has improved since the beginning of the season, Eddie gives a good share of the credit to Knowles.

"Pinky has spent a lot of time, instructing me on the finer points of defense and ball handling, and, I hope that I will be able to look good just to show that all of his efforts have not been in vain," Eddie said modestly.

FANNIN' BEES

By Bob Van Leuvan

Creighton fans will get a good look next Monday at a boy who is considered by many to be the best basketball player ever produced at the University of South Dakota. The young man's name is Johnny Diefendorf, and his specialty is breaking records. A recent press release from the South Dakota school stated that Diefendorf had only one mark left to break in order to hold all scoring records for the Coyote school. The one record still unbroken at that time by the high-scoring forward was the single game scoring mark of 31 points. Not long after this statement was printed Diefendorf ran up 39 points against Augustana and in so doing practically ran himself right out of records. During his tenure at Vermillion Diefendorf has scored nearly 700 points, and his 239 counters last year constituted a record for a Coyote player in a single season. He shattered that one the other night too. John also holds the accuracy record at South Dakota. Last year his shooting record was a neat 40 per cent. Significantly, Creighton's Bluejays are one of the few teams to put a crimp in his scoring efforts, as they trimmed the Sodaks 49-31 last December at Vermillion. They'll be out to do it again next Monday night.

Although his basketballers dropped two out of three on their recent trip, Coach Duce Belford still had something to smile about; namely, the return to form of Mick McClelland. Mick started out like a house afire, hitting 15 points in the Jay opener against Colorado college but couldn't seem to find his basket eye until this last road trip. Against Villanova the Corning, Ia., junior hit for 15 points, and a couple of nights later in the Seton Hall game he boosted his total point mark by dumping in 8 counters, four of them in the final two minutes.

Dave Hatt, who bossed this column last semester, will be a two-time winner come Feb. 27. On that date he'll start work in Cambridge, Nebr., doing general reporting and selling advertising for the local weekly there. Next Monday morning he'll desert the ranks of the bachelor's. And on the thirteenth too!

Frosh Win Again! Remain Unbeaten

The Frosh captured their eighth victory of the season Tuesday night in a 57-32 win over St. Peters of the North CYO league, thus keeping their perfect record intact.

Paul Gradoville paced the fledgling Bluejays with fourteen counters, hitting for six field goals and two free throws.

The opposition was also lead by a Creighton student, Gene Wickenkamp, who had nine points.

Only in the first few minutes did the CYO team ever lead the will play an independent team frosh.

For their next game, the Frosh from Avoca, Ia., next Wednesday at Avoca at 8 o'clock.

Chemists Will Hold Metals Plant Tour

The Creighton chapter of the American Chemical Society will sponsor a conducted tour of the American Smelting and Refining company of Omaha next Tuesday. The tour will replace the regularly scheduled meeting for this month.

All members of the local group as well as other students interested in chemistry are urged to attend the tour. Reservations should be made with Mel Wagner, John Herfordt, Ray Henry or Norbert Aldrich by Tuesday morning, Feb. 14.

Those going on the tour are to meet in the new chemistry building at 1:30 p. m. on the scheduled day.

Jays Top

sion. Don Knowles, Mick McClelland, and Ick Miller had 16, 15, and 14 points respectively to lead Creighton's offense. Arizin's 33 topped Villanova's hoopmen.

Using only eight of the 10 players he took to New York, Coach J. V. "Duce" Belford engineered a 45-42 win over Seton Hall Saturday evening in South Orange, New Jersey.

With Frank "Ick" Miller, Creighton's gyrating junior, working the post for all it was worth, and Pinky Knowles worrying the Pirates throughout the game, the Jays "took" Seton Hall.

After the highly rated Pirates swept off to an early lead, the Creighton quintet came rolling back to a 17-17 tie five minutes before the half. Once again though, the Seton Hall team turned on the steam and managed a 26-21 intermission advantage.

Still holding their lead through the second half, the Pirates felt safe when the Jays started the upset machinery going in high gear. Trailing 42-41, the Blue and White clad visitors called on Miller to fire in his 20th point and give them the lead. With a minute left to play, Creighton regained possession of the ball and went into a full stall.

Pinky Knowles, working in the clutch, dribbled up and down the floor until, with 10 seconds, left he broke away for a cold lay-up shot as the game closed.

The victory was number 10 for the Bluejays, who have lost only six tilts—all away from home. The setback was the third straight for the Pirates.

Pi Lam pledges and actives have had a hard week simply for being so conscientious. After they had spent several hours boning up on the Greek alphabet in preparation for the national sorority exam,

Formal initiation ceremonies for Phi Chi, national professional medical fraternity will be held February 18 in the Omaha Athletic club at 8 p. m.

Officials at the ceremony will be William Kleifgan, presiding senior; Walter Sobba, presiding junior; John Keller, secretary, and John Brennan, treasurer.

The initiation will pledge sixteen medical students to active membership in the fraternity.

not one question was asked on the subject.

One of the pledges was so zealous in her attempt to adhere to hell-day rules that in the confusion of rounding up autographs from Pi Lam actives, she asked Joan Murphy to sign her book.

University College Plans Febr. Meeting

The coeds of University college will have a meeting on next Tuesday, Feb. 14, at 4:00 in Hut 1, Natalie Byrne, president of university college, announced this week.

The officers of U. C. are planning a program featuring senior girls from the professional schools. Each will give a short talk on her field, including career opportunities, and their necessary preparation and qualifications. An open forum will be held after this.

The following girls will be representatives: Ruth Loving, Law; Marie O'Brien, Medicine; Karol Kersenbrock, Med. Tech.; Rose Paluka, Teaching field, and Jan Paulsen, Nursing.

The monthly meeting was canceled during January because of exams, retreat and registration.

Miss Margaret Schemel

Schemel-Brennan Engagement Told

Lieut. Col. and Mrs. Robert H. Schemel have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Margaret Mary Schemel, to Robert Haller Brennan, son of Dr. and Mrs. Raymond J. Brennan of Chillicothe, Mo.

Miss Schemel attended Creighton university and is a member of Pi Lambda Sigma, national sorority. Mr. Brennan was graduated from Creighton university and is a graduate of Iowa State College at Ames.

Reporter Waxes Poetic Over Sodality Plight

Ed. note:
After listening to the plight of sodalists over naming the dance scheduled for Feb. 21, one of the newsroom boys came up with this contribution:

"What's in a name?" That oft-quoted phrase At Creighton is honored and laden with praise Sodality wits were sure they could stop After they christened it "The Hatchet Hop." But "Hatchet," phonetically, was rugged and lame, So they huddled again. "What's in a name?" Once more they cast and came up with a pearl With charm and with grace, called "The Washington Whirl." But the best laid plans are subject to chance. And so, once again, a new name for the dance. Here is the decision, for all to see, This is final . . . we think . . . "Minuet in B."

According to the calendar, February is the shortest month of the year but according to the thermometer, it's the longest.

Hill Sororities Combine Forces At Annual Dance

Fiction Contest Open To Coeds

Mademoiselle magazine has opened its annual College Fiction contest for women undergraduates in accredited colleges. The two winning stories will be published in the August 1950 issue and the winners will each receive $500 for all rights.

Stories may be 3,000 to 5,000 words in length. They should be typewritten on one side of paper only, and accompanied by contestant's clearly marked name, home address, college address, and college year. Stories which have previously appeared in undergraduate publications are acceptable if they have not been published elsewhere.

Entries must be postmarked no later than midnight, April 15, 1950, and addressed to the College Fiction contest, Mademoiselle, 122 East 42 Street, New York 17, New York.

Mademoiselle assumes no responsibility for manuscripts and will return only those accompanied by a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Muldoons Announce Birth of Baby Boy

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Muldoon have announced the birth of a son, Timothy Raymond, on Feb. 1 at St. Catherine's hospital. He weighed 7 pounds and 11 ounces.

Mr. and Mrs. Muldoon are both graduates of Creighton university.

Kappa Beta Gamma and Pi Lambda Sigma, national sororities, will combine forces for tonight's Initiation dance. The Field club will be the scene of the annual affair.

The dance is held every year to honor the recently activated members of the Hilltop sororities. The alumna of both the Greek letter organizations have been invited as special guests.

Margaret Schemel, social chairman for Pi Lambda Sigma, and Natalie Byrne, a member of Kappa, made the arrangements for the semi-formal dance.

Ray Bachman and his orchestra will furnish music for dancing beginning at 9:30.

"Minuet in B" Feature Crowning-With Wigs

The basketball crowd will find a dance in progress at the Beanery after the Phillip's Oilers — Bluejay benefit game on Feb. 21. It is the "Minuet in B," sponsored by the coed sodality. Dancing will start at 8:30.

During the evening a "Martha and George" will be crowned with powdered wigs. They will be elected by the student body within the next two weeks.

The proceeds will be given to charity.

The coeds of Creighton university wish to thank the administration for the pleasant improvements in the Chartreuse room lounge.

Come spring, navy blue will once again be the most popular color for that new outfit.

Coed Colonel Shirley Miller Commands Creighton ROTC

By Mary K. Delehant

The men of the military department have two new leaders as of last Friday night. It was at the annual military ball that Shirley Miller was named honorary colonel and Emmett O'Brien, cadet colonel.

Shirley had no previous warnings before the dance that she was to receive the honorary title, with the exception of the number "31," which was the clue to the big question "Who?". Members of Phalanx distributed numbers to all who were lining up for the grand march. Number "31" was the last position in the line-up, consequently Shirley was it.

An honorary colonel term of service doesn't end when the dance is over. Shirley will preside over the annual military inspection next spring; and will be the guest of honor at future military functions sponsored by the fraternity.

Two dozen red roses and a necklace bearing the Phalanx crest were presented to Shirley as honorary colonel.

Shirley can't spend too much time in military garb, as she has her own life as a "woman in white." At the present she is completing her internship as a medical technician at St. Joseph's hospital. When she receives her degree she plans to take a regular position at St. Joseph's, and continue acting as an assistant to Dr. Sheehan.

Two Hilltop Sororities Have Formal Initiation Ceremony

The two Creighton sororities, Pi Lambda Sigma and Kappa Beta Gamma, held formal initiation dinners last Tuesday evening. Traditionally, the two sororities conduct their dinners on the same evening.

Scene of the Pi Lambda dinner was the Omaha Athletic club. Guests for the evening were the Rev. Austin E. Miller, S. J., chaplain of the sorority and Mrs. John Cannon, the sorority's sponsor.

Dinner was held at 7 p. m. followed by the formal initiation ceremonies. Dinner speakers included Mrs. Cannon, Fr. Miller and representatives of each of the classes. Freshman speaker was Virginia Hartigan. Pat McCarthy spoke for the sophomores, Mary K. Delehant for the juniors, and Marie Titchener, representing the seniors.

Mary K. Kavanagh presented a gift to each of the new actives of the sorority on behalf of their big sisters.

Fifty sorority members and guests attended the affair.

The Paxton ballroom was the scene of Kappa Beta Gamma's initiation dinner. Gamma chapter of the national sorority was hostess to eighty guests.

The Reverends John C. Chopesky, Henry W. Casper, Charles K. Hayden, and James L. Fitzpatrick were guest speakers.

Mrs. Charles W. Hamilton, Jr., women's counselor and Mrs. R. E. Stover, sorority mother also addressed the group.

President Joan Murphy, UC 4, acted as mistress of ceremonies and following the dinner conducted the annual initiation rites. Approximately forty pledges became active members of the sorority and as such received gifts from their sorority mothers.

"You can get the nicest clothes in there, from the last time they were in style."

Hilltop Highlights

 It seems that every time they select a name for their Beanery dance to be held Feb. 21, another group comes up with the same thing. Their first try was "Hatchet Hop," a unique name, indeed, but another group was just as clever. Next they tried "Washington Whirl," but realized they lost again when a poster advertising "Washington Whirl" appeared on a bulletin board. The sodalists have a new name now—it is "Minuet in B," (the "B" stands for Beanery). Have no qualms, music will be by record—not pi-anoforte.
